NAVY CHIEF FAVORS BASE AT ALAMEDA

Secretary, Experts to Make Intensive Survey of Site for Naval Plant; Defense Aid Is Declared Needed

Thousands See 'Grand Fleet' of Pacific in "Attack" on Forts; Destroyer Unit Docks at Oakland Wharf

Photographs of the arrival of the fleet will be found on the picture page of today's TRIBUNE.

Determination to provide adequate future defense for the Pacific coast through the establishment of a naval base on the Alameda site was almost the first statement expressed by Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur on his arrival in San Francisco bay yesterday, escorted by the entire Pacific fleet.

The fleet passed through the Golden Gate in battle formation with observation planes overhead and all the guns of shore batteries trained on them in imitation of actual war conditions.

Secretary Wilbur will make an intensive study of the Alameda base situation tomorrow, when, following an address to Rotary business men at a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Oakland, naval experts and members of the naval base committee of the chamber will accompany him on a personal inspection of the site.

NAVY HELD TO FAVOR ALAMEDA.

Thousands of spectators thronging the hills were thrilled by the airplanes overhead and the atmosphere of an actual attack on the city which the fleet's arrival gave.

"The navy is definitely committed to the policy of a well-equipped [illegible] Alameda," Secretary Wilbur said.

"Before anything can be done, however, there will have to be a thorough survey of the situation. On Saturday I shall make a personal visit to Alameda, when I will go into this question most carefully. Alameda is not a deal I issue by any means. Thus far I have not made any definite recommendations about Alameda because I wish to study the whole matter at close range. After my inspection I shall have something to say."

Speaking of the position of the United States in naval strength among the nations of the world, Secretary Wilbur said:

"While the British battleships are speedier than those of the United States this country enjoys a slight superiority in gun-fire and armor. The 5-5-3 ratio which one hears so much about means only battleships. In other forms of war craft the ratio is England, 5, United States, 4, and Japan, 3.

COURT EXPERIENCE AIDS NAVY CHIEF.

"You must remember," he said, "that when we became a party to the disarmament treaty we scrapped twenty-eight battleships, fifteen of them already built and thirteen in the process of construction. The amount saved to this country was $250,000,000 direct and also the annual upkeep of $10,000,000."

Since Secretary Wilbur has been in office, he explained, he has been called upon to settle claims involving $19,000,000 for cancellation of contracts under the disarmament treaty. In his new position Wilbur heads a staff of 50 lawyers and has sat in several hundred court martials.

Secretary Wilbur was the guest of the Army and Navy club at dinner last night. Today he returned the official calls made upon him yesterday by Rear-Admiral Josiah S. McKean and other local naval officers, Chamber of Commerce and civic representatives. At noon he was due to speak at a luncheon given in his honor by the San Francisco Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce. This afternoon he was to attend a tea given by the San Francisco League of Women Voters.

WILL INSPECT BAY TRAINING STATION.

Early tomorrow morning he will go to Goat Island to inspect the naval training station there. The tug Ajax has been chartered by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to carry a special welcoming committee to Goat Island to meet the secretary there. He will be escorted to Oakland for a reception in the rose room of the Hotel Oakland and a luncheon.

Wilbur will be introduced at the luncheon by Victor H. Metcalf, former secretary of the navy. O. H. Fischer, president of the Cham-

Miss Faye Lanphier Is Second in National Evening Dress Contest.

Entered in the national evening dress beauty contest as "Miss California," Miss Faye Lanphier of Alameda and Oakland, who was selected as "Miss California" at Santa Cruz recently, has won second prize at Atlantic City, according to dispatches received here today.

Miss Lanphier is at the New Jersey resort competing with 82 other young women in the annual national bathing beauty contest held there. The evening dress contest was an added feature of this year's beauty show. Miss Lanphier was beaten by "Miss Manhattan," Miss Beatrice Roberts of New York City. Miss Lanphier, a blonde, wore a cerise beaded gown, silver slippers and white stockings.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 5.—Behind closed doors, the 15 judges inspected the charms of 78 girls from various parts of the United States today, preparatory to selecting the most perfectly formed and fairest of face as "Miss America," 1924.

The beauties wore scant bathing suits, of the type known as the "two in one." It has a short skirt—very short—and the censors do not permit girls thus attired to reach the beach. A city ordinance imposes a fine for public appearance in this suit. So the contest was held in private.

The judges reported that many of the girls were extremely nervous. "Miss Long Branch's knees shook so that one of the judges had to walk her several times about the room before she could stand still for detailed examination by the beauty jury. Five girls were chosen today. They will meet in the finals tomorrow.

'FRANCE FOR PEACE,' SAYS HER PREMIER

Herriot Urges at League of Nations Assembly That Arbitration Must Not Be Trap for Loyal Nations

Paris Chief Sees Need of Force to Make Arbitration System Effective; Would Admit Germany

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—Premier Herriot of France, addressing the fifth assembly of the League of Nations today, began by saying that he brought the word of France to the assembly and that word was "peace."

He hoped that the United States would not refuse to continue its useful collaboration in disarmament, especially now that arbitration had come in as a feature.

The French premier mounted the platform in front of the crammed auditorium amid a hum of interest and before beginning his address received a great ovation.

He urged the league commission immediately to study this question of arbitration upon the successful operation of which, he believed, the tranquility of the world's peoples depended.

ARBITRATION MUST NOT BE MADE TRAP

"But arbitration must not be a trap for nations of good faith," he added.

The premier pleaded for some system of protection for small countries, emphasizing that the great powers could always protect themselves. Referring to Germany, he said:

"We never desired the misery of the German people. France does not hate."

The applause was renewed when M. Herriot continued that Germany, if she desired admittance to the league, should have the same treatment as other nations seeking admission. France adhered to the league covenant, but wanted to make it a living covenant.

OUTLINES POLICY FRANCE HAS FOLLOWED

M. Herriot, in outlining the position of France at the start of his remarks, declared that she founded her policies on the treaty of Versailles, which, he said, furnished a basis of security, justice and law. He cited the resolution adopted by the third assembly of the league, which, in harmony with the league covenant, gave birth to a concrete movement for the reduction of armaments. He insisted upon the importance of the fact that eighteen powers, in expressing their views on the proposed pact of mutual assistance, accepted the principle of assistance whether or not they agreed with the pact as a whole.

Great cheers were given when the French premier declared that it was France herself who had proposed the arbitration feature of the Locarno agreement for a reparation settlement. He hoped, he said, that one of the results of this fifth assembly would be the incorporation in its program for achievement of a proviso that a future aggressor will be a country that refuses arbitration.

This sent out brought out renewed applause.

In his plea for some plan for protecting the smaller countries, M. Herriot, drawing his conclusions from the philosophy of Pascal, said justice and force must go hand in hand, but that neither should exist without the other.

He declared France had no illusion that security could be had by means of force alone. He agreed with Prime Minister MacDonald that any hurriedly prepared disarmament conference would be doomed to failure, and he insisted that when one was held it should be entrusted to the League of Nations.

Arbitration, security and disarmament were the three pillars of peace, the French premier set forth.

"France," he concluded, "holds out a fraternal hand to all your countries. It will give her joy, even amongst the sadness of her own ruins, if she can help that divine flower, Peace, to bud."

The applause that followed M. Herriot's peroration lasted two minutes. It was joined in by Premier MacDonald.

ARBITRATION POLICY OF FRANCE DEFINED.

During his address the French premier developed the idea that the resolutions adopted by previous assemblies upon which the league's disarmament endeavors were founded, contemplated the following out of article VIII of the league covenant, which declares that armaments should be reduced to an extent compatible with national security.

M. Herriot agreed with his British colleague that the statutes of the permanent court of international justice should be amended.

Speaking of the necessity of protection for the small nations, Premier Herriot alluded to the violation of Belgium's neutrality at the outbreak of the great war, saying

Chinese Recruits Literally Roped Into War Service

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—Foreign observers from the battle front state that the most noticeable features of the campaign just opened are the primitive and utterly unsanitary arrangements provided to deal with the wounded and the rapscallion type of the Chinese soldiery involved, following the usual Chinese custom of putting the least trained and poorest troops into the front lines. The recruiting work is carried out by groups of soldiers with ropes and handcuffs who seize likely looking Chinese for military duty, roping five or six of them together and handcuffing those who resist. Refugees continue to pour into the foreign settlement.

MAN MURDERED, DUMPED IN ROAD

Modesto Solicitor's Corpse Is Found in Lomita Park; Auto Driver Suspected.

G. E. Parker of Modesto was found murdered today at Lomita Park, San Mateo county.

Parker, formerly a solicitor for the Stockton Record in Modesto, left last Sunday for the big cities for a vacation trip accompanied by a fruit buyer, whose name has not been learned. Parker had been expected in Modesto yesterday.

His body had been dumped out along the highway, presumably from an automobile. Redwood City authorities are said to believe the murder was committed in San Francisco.

Belief that Parker was run down by an automobile in San Francisco and killed and that the frightened motorist who drove the death car took his victim to the outskirts of San Bruno and there abandoned him, was expressed by Coroner Samuel Nash of San Francisco.

Death was caused by a basal fracture of the skull. The man's pockets had been turned inside out to indicate robbery.

Parker had been staying at a Turk street hotel in San Francisco.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—Gen. Chi Hsieh Yuan's forces, bent on storming Shanghai, drove forward late today in a new advance that brought them close to the Woo Sung forts, ten miles from the city.

Three of the American destroyers at Shanghai were despatched to Woosung, where they took up positions near the forts and were prepared to land marines to guard the border of the American settlement if the defending army retreated farther. So far no landing parties have gone ashore from the United States ships.

Chi's advancing troops burned Quinsan, where may of the defense troops and some civilians were killed and wounded. About 100 wounded, including civilians, arrived here today.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—Fierce fighting in three sectors between the armies of rival Chinese military governors, contesting for possession of Shanghai, continued unabated today, but added fury was given to the battles by the movement of airplanes into the war zone and the reported concentration of Chinese battleships for action along the Yangtze river.

Troops were proceeding from the Lungwha headquarters of General Lu Yung-hsiang's, Chekiang tuchun, to reinforce the governor's defending troops at Hwangtu, 15 miles west of here, where fighting continues.

There is considerable jockeying for position in this quarter. The Dungwha headquarters explained this with the announcement that the Chekiang troops were taking positions to check an expected enemy swing southeasterly.

The enemy movement would be along the grand canal with the immediate objective as the Sunkiang and Hangchow railway. Any movement towards the Southeast would make the battle front extend into Chekiang province, the seat of Lu Yung-hsiang's government.

Entrance of airplanes into the conflict was signalized today when three planes passed over the western Shanghai district this afternoon. The planes were evidently cruising in the direction of the Dungwha aviation grounds.

Naval craft from Peking was reported moving down the Yangtze to aid the Fukien fleet, supporting the invading forces from the north. The Fukien fleet was reported in the Chusan archipelago, southeast of Shanghai, several days ago, to intercept any raid from Chang Tso-Tin, Manchurian war lord.

The Peking government denied the report issued by the Japanese news agency yesterday that Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, had issued an ultimatum to the government declaring that he would "mediate by force" unless the government ceased its "attacks upon General Lu Yung-hsiang," the Chekiang tuchun. The head of a Chinese news agency, which also circulated the story, has been arrested.

SCHURMAN IN S. F. FEARS FOR CHINA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The present situation in China is full of dynamite, Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to China, declared upon his arrival here today en route to Washington for a conference with Secretary of State Hughes on Chinese affairs.

"While I believe the chances are against a serious war," the American minister declared, "the Shanghai warfare might prove a spark to kindle a general Chinese conflagration."

If a general conflict occurs, the diplomat frankly admitted, foreign interference to protect life and property might be necessary.

Japan Soon to Name Ambassador to U. S.

TOKYO, Sept. 5.—The Japanese vernacular press today says the appointment of an ambassador from Japan to the United States, to succeed M. Hanihara, is imminent.

Tokichi Tanaka, former vice-minister of foreign affairs, former counsellor of the Japanese embassy at Washington, and ex-consul at Seattle, Wash., is mentioned as the probable appointee.

Eki Hioki, former ambassador from Tokyo to Berlin, and Tsuneo Matsudaira, present vice-minister in the Japanese cabinet, are also being considered as potential appointees.

Alleged Jealousy Victims

MISS ALTA DAVIS, leading woman, and F. C. ANGELUS of Hayward, author of the melodrama, "When Bobbed Hair First Came Out," a rehearsal of which has been greeted with a shower of debris. According to Angelus, this was the work of theatrical producers who feared his competition.

TOMATO SHOWER FEATURES DRAMA

Author Explains Broadway (N. Y.) Managers Were Envious of His Production.

Theatrical producers of New York, London and Paris today were under grave suspicion as a result of a bombardment of tin cans, tomatoes, and over-ripe heads of cabbages which brought to a halt Wednesday night the rehearsal by amateur actors of a melodrama. This play, according to its author, was to have been one of the hits of the century.

F. C. Angelus of Hayward, author of the melodrama, "When Bobbed Hair First Came Out," which he describes as his first big production declared today that he had no doubt the attack was the work of thugs hired by big theatrical producers.

"THEY WERE AFRAID," AUTHOR EXPLAINS.

"They were afraid that my play, once it was presented, would put their offerings in the shade," he pointed out.

The rehearsal was taking place in a hall at Nineteenth avenue and East Twenty-fifth street, when the attack occurred. The police were sent for, but meanwhile the assailants, who evidently had been close students of up-to-date criminal methods, had escaped in two high-powered cars.

In the opinion of Angelus and his cast of 16 men and women players, some of whom he describes as "really celebrated," there could have been no possible motive except jealousy to account for the sudden downpour of garbage upon the heads of the earnest and hard-working thespians.

THEME OF PLAY IS ALL-EMBRACING.

The play is not one of these imaginary things that are just made up by some author, as are so many of the modern productions. It consists almost entirely of actual happenings in and about Hayward and Oakland. Also it avoids that weakness of so many of the so-called leading French and English plays of the present, which hold themselves rigidly to a single theme. It gives the reader his money's worth, and tells everything. These qualities, naturally, would put the Hayward man's melodrama in a class utterly apart from the average present-day production along Broadway or at the Comedie Francaise.

Just for instance, the playbill in which Angelus has announced the coming presentation of the play, gives the following description of it:

"It will be a melodrama play," the playbill asseverates, "consisting of—

"How a man starts life on a ranch. Raised his children. About a Chinaman that worked for him. About a clock he bought and 30 years later. How he found $32,000 on the ranch. How he died, and a stepfather was cruel to the family. How the grandma bought some SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 5.—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, returned home very late—or very early, as you like—again today.

Just what time the distinguished visitor reached the royal bedroom no one seems to know. At any rate he was sleeping away another glorious September morning.

No one save members of his personal staff—and they are not telling—knows what he did with his time after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was last seen playing golf on the Long Island estate of J. S. Cosden, oil magnate.

Captain A. F. Lascelles, the princes' equerry, said the prince came in "very late" last night, was still asleep and had made no plans for today.

Later it was volunteered that the Prince was in bed by 1 a. m. and could not have been at a Broadway cabaret at 4 a. m. as rumored.

Apprehension dropped up today among the prince's party for fear that the American public is getting "his royal highness all wrong."

AIDES FEAR U. S. HAS WRONG IMPRESSION.

There was a fear among those close to the British crown heir that because the United States hears mostly of Wales' playing at polo, going to races, dancing at luncheon, dancing at teas, at dinners and dancing at suppers that last until 5 in the morning, it is beginning to believe him little more than a "jazz hound" who some day may try, on the throne, to catch up on his sleep.

"The prince came here for a holiday," said a spokesman. "He does not intend to do a tap of work until he leaves the United States on September 14. Since his boyhood the prince has had little time to himself.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Colonel Edward M. House, political adviser to the late Woodrow Wilson and member of the American Delegation to the Versailles peace conference, in an exclusive statement to International News Service today characterized the Dawes plan as a "step in the right direction."

Colonel House said he hoped the United States would eventually enter the league of nations but he could see no sign of it in the immediate future.

He admitted that but for the happy fact that Ramsay MacDonald and Edouard Herriot were the premiers at the same time the London conference might have failed.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Ramsay MacDonald's speech before the League of Nations assembly at Geneva yesterday brings down upon the British prime minister the wrath of the French Nationalist press. "Pertinax," in the Echo de Paris, says:

"By taking advantage of the feebleness of Premier Herriot he succeeded in July and August in upsetting the clauses of the Versailles treaty dealing with reparations and he is now working to obtain revision of the territorial and political clauses. The British prime minister has revealed himself as the impenitent Germano-phile we always suspected him of being."

Stephne Lauzenne, in the Poincarist Le Matin, uses gentle irony [illegible] MacDonald to throw floods of light on the British projects for security and disarmament, but he threw floods of darkness, accompanied by a few thunderclaps which were badly aimed and hurt nobody but the speaker. More than anything else he led his audience about a sky where the clouds collided with each other in crazy abandon."

SURPRISE MOVE FAILS TO PREVENT TRIAL OF REILLY

Judge Koford Berates Lawyer for Defense, Lie Is Passed.

Final denial of the writ of prohibition asked on behalf of Philip Reilly was announced at 12:30 today by Superior Judge J. S. Koford. The denial was made following an altercation between Judge Koford and Attorney Raine Ewell after the judge had left the bench.

A short time previous Assistant District Attorney Earl Warren had reported to the judge that Raine Ewell had announced in open police court that Judge Koford had declared that Judge Edgar might not be disqualified legally but morally he ought not to take the case.

The judge walked up to Ewell and asked if he had made such a statement.

"Yes, I said that in the police court and I understood you to say it here," Ewell replied.

LIE IS PASSED.

In reply to this Judge Koford said:

"Hereafter if you have anything to say to me you will say it in court. You will submit your authorities in writing to my clerk and will stay out of my chambers. Your statement in police court is a lie and a pure fabrication."

Judge Koford then put on his hat and walked from the court room, leaving Raine Ewell shouting the words.

"That is not a fabrication; I would not tell an untruth for any man."

A defense attempt to stop the trial failed this morning when Superior Judge Joseph Koford first denied an application for a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Edgar of Berkeley from proceeding with the trial.

While Reilly was before Judge Koford, the jury, the court and prosecution waited, not knowing what had become of him. The court criticized counsel for the defense for not giving notice of his whereabouts, and Assistant District Attorney Earl Warren said it was manifestly unfair that he had not been permitted to represent his case before Judge Koford.

Judge Koford denied the application for the writ of prohibition on the grounds that insufficient authorities to support such a writ had been presented. He allowed the defense until this afternoon to present additional authorities.

Stanton Lore, proprietor of the establishment where Reilly's paper was published, was the first witness in the police court today. He identified Reilly as the proprietor of the paper. Court then adjourned to the afternoon, with Clyd P. Finger, principal of the Frick school, and the complaining witness in the action, as the next witness to be called.

A jury consisting of women was impaneled last night by Judge Robert Edgar after two days of examination by the defense. Two juries composed entirely of men disagreed and were dismissed in two previous trials of Reilly on the same charge.

The jury that will hear the evidence in the third trial follows: Mrs. M. F. Brown, Mrs. George C. Carson, Mrs. A. McMath, Mrs. A. E. DuPrey, Mrs. A. W. Gorrill, Mrs. E. Pinella, Mrs. R. Austin, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. John Holcomb, Mrs. W. L. Millck, Miss G. Casselman and Mrs. F. J. Collar.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Ellen Campbell, who as a girl of 9 braved with her parents the perils of a trans-continental journey to California was found dead of a bullet wound at her home in Hawthorne near here yesterday. Beside her was an old-style pistol such as was used in the days of the California gold rush. Neighbors told police the aged woman had become despondent lately because she believed she was going blind.

RIOT CAUSED BY LOCATELLI ON ARRIVAL IN N. Y.

Police Quell Rival Factions as Aviators Reach City for Festivity.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, Italian aviator, attempting a round-the-world flight, whose plane was wrecked off Greenland recently, was met by police reserves at the Grand Central station to prevent a threatened riot between rival factions in the crowd of 5000 Italians assembled to meet him.

Dissension arose in the crowd, according to the police, when Locatelli appeared. Cries of "Hurrah for Locatelli," were answered by shouts of "Down with Locatelli and the Fascisti!"

Fearing an outbreak the police ordered the official welcome dispensed with and escorted Locatelli and his companion fliers through a side street to a hotel. Before they made their escape some of the alleged anti-Fascisti sympathizers broke through the police lines.

At the request of the Italian consul-general, Emilia Axerio, the hotel where the consul-general tendered a banquet in Locatelli's honor, was guarded by special police during the entertainment.

TOKYO, Sept. 5.—The globe-encircling flight of Major Pedro Zanni, Argentine aviator, may be postponed until battles between Chinese armies, now in the field, have been ended.

Patrick Murphy, advance man for Zanni, while admitting the possibility of such delays, is of the opinion that a postponement is improbable.

If necessary, Major Zanni may attempt to jump from Hongkong to Shanghai since, as Murphy points out, Zanni's machine has the necessary range.

DETROIT, Sept. 5. — Thomas Boyce, who defied superstition last June 13, a Friday, when, in cell 13 of the old Australian convict ship, then on exhibition on the Detroit river, he was married while 13 witnesses attended and 13 mirrors were broken, stood in the shadow of a murder charge today. An 11-year-old boy, Bernard Bellanger, told police that it was Boyce who struck Clyde Keller, 45-year-old butcher, over the head with a hammer. Keller's body, with a hammer beside it, was found in a moving van at the rear of Mrs. Irene Bellanger's apartment early Monday.

ber of Commerce, will preside. Secretary Wilbur will be the only speaker.

In the afternoon the inspection of the Alameda base will occupy several hours. Tomorrow Wilbur will rest at the home of his brother, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur president of Stanford university, Palo Alto.

SIX DESTROYERS AT OAKLAND DOCKS.

The fleet is now at anchor in "Man-o'-War" row in the bay—that is, all the fleet except six destroyers tied up along the quay wall in the estuary and at the Santa Fe wharf, and a score of others tied up in San Francisco. Small navy boats will leave pier 26, San Francisco, every twenty minutes on each afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock carrying visitors to the battleships.

The fleet will be in the bay during the entire month of September except for a four-day cruise from the eighth to twelfth and another from September 22 to 26. The fleet will leave for San Diego on September 28.

The ships included in the flotilla in the bay are:

Battleships: California (flagship), Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Nevada, Arizona, Mississippi, Idaho, New Mexico, Tennessee.

Scout Cruiser: Omaha.

Destroyers: Decatur, Moody, Doyen, Sinclair, Percival, J. F. Burnes, Somers, Zeilin, Stoddert, Reno, Farquhar, Thompson, Kennedy, Paul Hamilton, Yarborough, Lavallette, Sloat, Wood, Shirk, Kidder, Mervine, Robt. Smith, Mullany, Hull, Sumner, Melvin.

These naval ships were already in the harbor:

Destroyers: Chase, Marcus, Corry and MacDonough; Tender Canopus and submarines S-36, S-37, S-38, S-39, S-40 and S-41; Auxiliary Procyon.

Auxiliaries: Melville, Pinola, Relief, Arctic and Sonoma will arrive here during fleet's stay.

Battleship Colorado, newest and mightiest of American sea fighters, is to arrive here from Hampton Roads, Va., on September 15 to join the fleet.

Wilbur Preserves Naval Traditions

A civilian commanded the Pacific fleet yesterday. Not fair, a blue ensign with four white stars surrounded by a white anchor flew at the main truck of the U. S. S. California, flagship of the Fleet Admiral S. S. Robinson—but the same except for the anchor—was shifted to the fore truck when Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur boarded the vessel.

The absence of uniform, however, detracted little from the ceremony of the official visit of Rear-Admiral Josiah S. McKean, commandant of the Twelfth Naval district and acting commandant of Mare Island.

Fifty marines in blue and white uniforms were drawn up on deck when the Admiral's barge arrived. At the whistle signaling its arrival, two of the eight seamen who stood at the gangway to make a line for the approaching visitor stepped back. This ceremony indicated that a Rear-Admiral instead of a Vice Admiral had disembarked.

Rear-Admiral McKean was in full dress from his cocked hat to his gold-handled sword. His coat bore a gorgeous array of medals and decorations and heavy gold epaulets were on his shoulders.

Horace, the Latin poet, attended the chief school of philosophy in Athens.

VITAL GLANDS SAVE LIFE

That the important glands of the human body are necessary to maintain life is a well-established scientific fact. It is stated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, who has devoted years of study and experiment to organotherapy, that every organ of the human body depends upon the glands for proper functioning. Glands that function perfectly are responsible for desired qualities which should exist in every normal man or woman.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Federal Drug Co., Federal Blk., 2nd and 14th and Harrison.—Adverts.

AUTOIST DRIVES 144 HOURS AND DOCTOR BARS BED

Sudden Relaxation of An Over-tired Body Might Result Fatally.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 5.—Too sudden relaxation of an over-tired body might result fatally, doctors here decreed in refusing a bed to Allan Fisher who recently set a new world's endurance record in automobile driving of 144 hours 39.5 seconds.

Fisher was ordered by a doctor to discontinue the endurance test when his heart missed sixteen beats in one hour and fifteen minutes and his pulse was getting low. But, instead of giving him a nice soft bed in which to stretch out his tired and sore muscles doctors ordered him placed on a board for his first sleep.

The bed it was explained, would cause too sudden relaxation, after the long strain he had been under, and might prove fatal.

Fisher was [illegible] car for more than six days, during which time he made stops only to refuel the machine. During the last three days of the test he was constantly attended by Miss Grace Hunderfund, a nurse from St. Francis hospital.

Fisher first established a world's endurance record of 122 hours of driving at Miami, Fla. Harold Lockwood shattered this record later by driving for 125 hours. The new record made by Fisher probably would have been greater had it not been for the insistence of doctors.

OBEDIENCE MADE PERSHING CHIEF, BAKER REVEALS

Punitive Expedition in Mexico Showed Qualifications, Legion Is Told.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 5.—General Pershing's military record and his fidelity to orders from Washington while in command of the then Mexican punitive expedition were the outstanding factors in his selection as commander of the American expeditionary forces in France, it is disclosed in a letter from Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, which the American Legion Weekly prints tomorrow.

Seven years afterward, in an issue which the legion has devoted to commemorating General Pershing's retirement from active army service September 12, the "inside story of his appointment as commander-in-chief by the late President Woodrow Wilson," is first told, according to the story.

General Pershing was appointed by President Wilson on Secretary Baker's recommendation, Baker's letter shows, based on Pershing's past record. Neither the president nor the secretary had met the man of their choice until after the selection had been made.

Secretary Baker's recommendation, approved by General Hugh L. Scott, then chief of staff, was based, he states, on a careful study of the records of all the general officers and senior colonels in the regular army at that time. The selection was made with special attention to the fact that the man appointed would ultimately have under his command a very large force.

OBEDIENCE DID IT.

"Pershing's record and especially his fidelity to orders from Washington while in command of the punitive expedition into Mexico were the outstanding factors in the choice," continues the story. "For reasons of international policy, the general had not been given a free hand to conduct that expedition along lines dictated purely by military consideration. In that difficult position, Pershing had proceeded along the very explicit and positive lines laid down by President Wilson himself.

Baker's letter, written from his law offices in Cleveland, is in full as follows:

"The story you ask is interesting and has never been told, and I know of no reason why you should not have it exactly.

"When it was determined in 1917 to send an expeditionary force to France, I remarked to General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, that it would be necessary to send a commander who would ultimately become commander-in-chief of a very large force and asked him to have sent to my house the records of all the general officers and senior colonels of the regular army.

CHOSEN ON RECORD.

"These records I studied for some days and finally, purely on the basis of the records, selected General Pershing, whom I had never seen. My judgment, however, was reinforced by the fact that General Pershing had been in command of the punitive expedition in Mexico, with which I had been in daily contact by telegraph, over a long period of time.

"The punitive expedition in Mexican had been a most difficult and responsible task and its leader was required to exercise tact, self restraint and consideration for the rights of the Mexican people in a very high degree. The desires of the president with regard to that expedition were explicit and positive, and the limitations imposed on General Pershing's freedom as a military commander were dictated by considerations of public policy rather than military expediency. General Pershing met all the requirements with splendid ability and loyalty to the wishes of the president as commander-in-chief.

"Further, the (Mexican) expeditionary force under General Pershing was the largest body of troops in active service which any American general (then on the active list) had commanded.

"After I had made my selection I submitted it to the criticism of General Scott who approved it. I then carried it to President Wilson, discussed it with him briefly, told him how I had arrived at it, and it met with his approval. I at once telegraphed General Pershing in code to report to me at Washington, which he did. He and I had many conferences; he established himself in an office in the war department, where in cooperation with the chief of staff, the preliminary plans for the expeditionary force were worked out."

Of the five persons who kept the secret of the identity of the Bok peace winner, four were women.

How quickly that rash disappeared!

THOUSANDS of users have wondered at the quickness of the action of Resinol Ointment and Soap. The answer is that it is not a surface treatment, but one that reaches the depths of the pores and attacks the source of the disorder, starting the healing right.

The first touch relieves the itching, burning and soreness and a few days' persistent use rarely fails to clear away the trouble.

When the skin is once restored to its normal condition, the daily use of Resinol Soap is generally sufficient to keep it healthy. Ideal for the complexion—unsurpassed for the bath and shampoo. Ask your druggist what he knows about the Resinol products.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Broadway has come to Piccadilly and Piccadilly is on its way to Broadway.

The present theatrical season has seen astonishing successes for Americans in London, and autumn will find a host of English theatrical stars on the high seas bound for Broadway to attempt to duplicate these successes.

Brooke Johns, erstwhile Follies star and husband of Ann Pennington, of the famous dimpled knees, is made, so far as London is concerned, for he has been given the full approval of the Prince of Wales.

The Prince went three nights in one week to hear Johns at a cabaret performance. Then one night he called the American banjoist on the telephone and invited him to St. James Palace with his banjo. Johns went and found the Prince entertaining with the trap drums. Johns took his banjo out of its case and strummed while the Prince drummed. Then the Prince autographed Johns' banjo and now the American can ask what he likes of English theatrical managers and come pretty near getting it.

Nora Bayes has completed a six weeks' success at Sir Alfred Butt's Empire theater and is being succeeded by Frank Tinney. The success of Miss Bayes has brought her some hostile criticism from critics who dislike American syncopators, but it has also brought her packed houses and nightly howls of delight. Tinney is known over here and promises to be a drawing card.

Elsie Janis stood them up and turned them away with her intimate concert performance until other engagements forced her to close.

Godfrey Tearle, brother of Conway Tearle, who is well known to American film fans, sails for New York this month to appear in Frederick Lonsdale's play, "The Fake." Though Godfrey Tearle was born in the United States, he has appeared there only once, in "Carnival," which was not altogether successful.

Another ambitious company of English revue stars is headed for Broadway to try to duplicate the successes of Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence. This revue will be staged by Laurillard and will have as its stars Binnie Hale, a dainty English miss of tender years who has won instantaneous success in revue; Stanley Lupino, who comes from an old family of comedians and who, given the proper material, is one of the best of England's musical comedians, and Jack Melford, son of an old English actor.

The best war play of the past season, "Havoc," will be transferred bodily to New York in the fall with the English cast, including Miss Joyce Barbour, William Kershaw and Richard Bird.

Oscar Asche, who is now touring Australia, also threatens an American tour.

"The Street Singer," a musical comedy now in high favor in London, will be transferred to Broadway in the late fall. If its season here is near an end when the American production is ready it is possible that some of the English cast, including Harry Welshman, Phyllis Dare and A. W. Bascomb, will be invited to play in the American production.

"Yolcks" — Donald Calthorp's successful revue—has a distinctly American air, or perhaps we should say airs, for nearly half of the music has been borrowed from Broadway. Mark Lester is making a great success with Al Jolson's song, "Rambler Rose."

Bum Pinched For Being Near Wagon

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Frank Sullivan lost another chance to become a hero when he was arrested and brought into Central district court. Frank told the following story to Judge Cohen:

"It was this way Y'r Honor," declared Frank. "I was drillin' down Blackstone street when I seen 'a mob millin' around the paddy wagon—the patrol, see?

"I says to myself, 'Probably some donkey's been knocked off,' I says, 'an' maybe the bulls need help, see?

"So I busts into the gang, tryin' to find out what's wrong, see? When, Judge, Y'r Honor, some bull in the wagon sings out 'Take that bum along, too!' An' they takes me," and Frank wept bitterly.

"State Farm," said Judge Cohen.

Fourteen years ago the Canadian government had 756 buffaloes, now the herd numbers 6000 head.

DATA ON JEWISH HISTORY SEEN IN CHURCH UNREST

Palestine Scholar Foresees More Light Through Christian Tangle.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

JERUSALEM, Sept. 5.—The present quarrel between the Christian fundamentalists and modernists in America has a great bearing on the Holy Land, according to Professor Louis Wallis, of Chicago, representing the Joseph Feis Foundation, who is in Palestine for an extended visit. There is a close and vital connection between Palestine, the cradle of Christian religion and the present world crisis of social and religious questions, Professor Wallis, formerly of the faculty of the Ohio State University, believes. Out of this present crisis, he considers, the emphatic reassertion of Israel will come.

"The Jewish resettlement of Palestine, the scientific revival of Hebrew history and the disappearance of those Christological dogmas which have led to the persecution of the Jew and which have produced an almost complete misunderstanding of Jesus, are all bound to result from the present crisis," Professor Wallis declared to International News Service.

"The Gentile educational system is based on the tacit assumption that all national culture is entitled to free and unhammeled study except that of the Hebrew people, whose development underlies the rest of moredn civilization," said Professor Wallis. "Thus we have the extraordinary situation that young people in search of rounded knowledge may learn freely about Greece, Rome, England, France, Germany and other important peoples on the international stage, but that all kinds of prejudices and obstacles are placed in the way of studying Hebrew history. This means that for some reason the religious and moral basis of modern civilization may not be scrutinized, but is hidden from view by dark forces. And this, again, involves inhibition or suppression of truth, to the injury of the Gentile even more than to the injury of the Jew."

Professor Wallis is the author of a widely read volume, "Sociological Study of the Bible," dealing with hitherto unrealized or misunderstood factors in the evolution of Hebrew nationality and religion.

A. and will be in charge of membership, dormitory and young people's work in the churches. Roy A. Hilberger, formerly of Boise, Idaho has been appointed assistant to Fred Shipp, boys' secretary.

AGED WOMAN AND BABY VICTIMS IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Total of Six Injured in Bay Region Crashes in Day.

Six persons, including an aged woman and a 3-months-old child being wheeled across the street in a perambulator, were injured in a series of automobile crashes which occurred in the bay region during the last eighteen hours.

Mrs. Amelia Krutchkoffski, 60 years old, suffered a fractured skull, a broken collarbone and internal injuries when she was struck on Mission street, Daly City, last night by an automobile driven by M. T. Boehme, proprietor of a drug store at 286 Dnisadero street, San Francisco. According to the police the woman stepped directly from the curb in front of Boehme's car. The driver swerved in trying not to strike the woman and the machine crashed into a pole and overturned. Boehme received severe cuts and bruises.

Manuel Castro, a shipyard worker, sustained serious injuries when he was struck by an automobile at Seventh and Adeline streets, while standing in the middle of the street watching a motorcycle officer pursue a speeder. T. W. Alton, driver of the machine which struck Castro, placed the injured man in a passing automobile and had him taken to the Emergency hospital, where he was treated for a fractured skull.

Mrs. Mavina Houchins, 1028 Linden street, was knocked to the pavement and the baby buggy she was pushing was smashed when she was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. H. Flood of Berkeley last night at Fourteenth and Grove streets. The child and its mother received cuts and bruises.

Suffering from concussion, bruises and lacerations and a fracture of the right ankle, Jack Carter, 6 years old, is in a serious condition at his home as a result of being struck by an automobile driven by G. A. Hebert, 3040 Broadway, at Seventh avenue and East Twelfth street yesterday. The boy and several other lads were being escorted across the street when he broke away and ran for the curb. He resides at 1018 Sixth avenue.

Husband Kept Other Woman Wife Charges

Tony Leon, fruit and commission merchant, has been maintaining a separate domestic establishment for Winifred Johnson and has threatened to kill his wife if she exposes him, Mrs. Mary Leon the wife, declares in a cross-complaint which she today filed to her husband's suit for divorce. She also asserts that, by threats of death, Leon made her give up letters from the Johnson woman to him which she had secured possession of and by the same threat made her sign a document releasing her right to any community property in exchange for $100 a month maintenance.

The wife asks for $140 a month maintenance and half of community property worth $30,000.

Manhole Covers and Jazz Records Stolen

Police are searching for five street department manhole covers stolen from the corporation yard at Forty-sixth avenue and Bond street. The theft was reported today by Frank McGuire, superintendent.

Nine jazz records and portable phonograph were stolen from the apartment of Miss Maggie Mangram, 1321 Seventh street. The theft was discovered this morning. John Avilla, 830 Broadway, reported to the police that a suit and a sweater were stolen from his room last night.

Man Would Divorce Wife After 11 Years

RULING FORBIDS DESTRUCTION OF SEIZED LIQUOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Further grief in the enforcement of the prohibition laws is promised the enforcement officers in a new ruling by the United States district court that the government may not destroy confiscated liquors.

In the case of Archie Maffuly of Telegraph avenue, Oakland, the defense contended that all of the liquor seized on the premises would have to be brought into court and submitted as evidence, and that the samples submitted by the prosecution were not sufficient.

Judge Geiger took the matter under consideration with Judge Partridge and the contention of the defense was upheld.

Under this decision a hundred defendants now before the bar for violation of the prohibition laws will be freed because the confiscated liquor was destroyed. It was said at the Hall of Justice. And in the future the enforcement officers will not only have to take all the liquor they find on their raids but will have to preserve it under guard in warehouses.

WIFE FORGIVES BIGAMY PAIR

SAN RAFAEL, Sept. 5.—Although she was a nurse in the home of Marcus Miller and his wife when she ran away with Miller and married him, young Mrs. Delphine Schuller told authorities here today that she had not known the two were married.

As a possible explanation of the girl's statement, District Attorney H. G. Churchill pointed out that tests have shown her to be retarded mentally. Mrs. Schuller was brought back from Black Diamond, Wash., with Miller and is in the county jail.

Mrs. Miller, who was left penniless and bedridden when the pair fled, announced today that she would not testify against either her husband or Mrs. Schuller.

Dehydrators Had $50,000,000 Turn Over Last Year

SALINAS, Sept. 5.—Fifty million dollars' worth of fruits and vegetables were dehydrated in California last year, was the statement made by Arthur W. Christie, assistant professor at the agricultural college of the University of California, in his address at the Rotary Club luncheon here yesterday.

Speaking on "Dehydration," he asserted that it is rapidly supplanting the old method of sun-drying the products of orchard and field, because it is more economical, more sanitary and less laborious.

Christie pointed out that dehydrating plants in the state have increased 400 per cent during the last two years and said that equipped with dehydrating plants farmers and fruit-growers are enabled to handle at a profit products that otherwise would be either lost or sold at a disadvantage.

THIS QUIZ MADE TEACHERS QUAKE

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept 4.—Pupils of Milwaukee county public schools who dread the approach of examinations each year would have enjoyed being in Superintendent of Schools E. T. Griffin's office to see their teachers squirming in their chairs over the questions in the semi-annual teachers' examinations.

Teachers being re-examined and applicants to become teachers were struggling with such questions as these:

"What probably will be the two leading issues in the presidential campaign?

"What officers of the United States government are appointed for life?

"Name three common varieties of chickens. State what are the peculiar points of excellence of each.

"In the community where you live or have taught, name one variety of weed that is particularly damaging to the farmer.

"What is rust?

"Give the name of the President of the United States at the time of the war with Spain.

"What is meant by the League of Nations—in general, what is it designed to do, the position of the United States in reference to it?"

Superintendent Griffin explained that only a small percentage of teachers are required to take examination now, as more attend Normal school and are accepted as teachers when they graduate.

Town Aroused By Epidemic of Suicides

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

BUDAPEST, Sept. 4.—Szegedin, a small town near here, is rapidly gaining notoriety for the number of cases of suicide occurring there.

The inhabitants are becoming so much alarmed that they have started making demonstrations at the funerals of suicides and have even attacked the priests who held the burial services.

At the burial ceremony of a young seamstress who had committed suicide by taking poison a crowd of about 400 women appeared and attempted to stone the mother of the dead girl, alleging that she had driven her daughter to her violent end. The women only dispersed on the appearance of a strong force of police.

In another case an innkeeper was accused of having driven his wife to drown herself, and the crowd at the funeral tried to lynch him. Church committees have appealed to the police for protection as the priests go in danger of their lives, and the town council has now given orders for a strong force of police to be present at every suicide's funeral to try to stop the scandalous scenes.

PRINCE TO QUIT N. Y. PLEASURES FOR RANCH WORK

Will Play Cowboy Before Return Trip to England, Starting Oct. 12.

and he means to make the most of it. For when the prince goes to his ranch at High River, Alberta, he will have to go to work."

WILL BE REAL COWBOY ON RANCH.

"Does the prince work there?" "Indeed he does," was the emphatic answer.

"When he arises in the morning the prince asks what there is to be done. One day there is stock to be corraled. The next there is hay to be got in. Or perhaps post holes must be dug. The prince works at these ranch chores just like any cowboy.

"At home it is the same. Much of his time is devoted to public activities. It is only natural that he should enjoy his present relaxation and wish to make the most of it."

This same member of Wales party said the prince was pleased today because his three polo ponies which were lamed in practice play, were nearly fit again.

The prince is a lover of animals, he said, and invariably takes loaf sugar to the horses when he goes to their stalls. He has two terriers in London which he brushes and grooms himself daily. When time permits he often attends to the ponies himself."

SOYSETT, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Captain A. F. Lascelles, secretary to the Prince of Wales, said today that his royal master plans to leave here for his ranch near Calgary, Alberta, September 14. A trip to the Canadian Rockies, within 100 miles of the royal domain, was tentatively planned but by no means assured, the captain said.

The prince expects to leave the ranch on the first leg of his homeward journey about October 12, and will spend a couple of days with Governor General Byng at Ottawa. He also may greet dominion citizens at several of the large cities in Eastern Canada, including Toronto, Montreal and uebec.

PRINCE TO TALK FINANCES WITH AIDE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Business will be one of the concerns of the Prince of Wales when he reaches his ranch near Calgary, Alberta, it developed today when Sir Walter Pearock, financial secretary to the prince for Cornwall, arrived on the steamship Mauretania.

Sir Walter explained that Cornwall is the duchy from which the prince derives his chief income. The Canadian ranch with its 4000 acres is not yielding a revenue as all its net receipts are being put back into improvements, he explained.

Sir Walter was amused when asked concerning truth of a recent cable which maintained that the prince's investments would make him Europe's wealthiest king.

"Is the prince, then, so wealthy?" he was asked.

"Oh, not so wealthy, I should say," Sir Walter replied.

POLO TEAM SENDS EASTBAY INVITATION.

An effort to have the Prince of Wales visit Oakland and Berkeley, and perhaps play a game of polo here, has been made by the Berkeley polo team, aided by the Oakland post of British War Veterans. Having been given to understand that the prince was to attend the British War Veterans' convention in Santa Barbara September 28, the polo team sent him an invitation to stop over in the Eastbay and participate in a local polo game.

Wales was also asked to participate in Potato Day program, a civic celebration, which will be held on the same day.

Editor Suggests Prince Try Sport Of Emporia 'Snipe'

EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 5.—If the prince of Wales wants a fling at real American sport he must come to Kansas and try snipe hunting, according to William A. White, Emporia editor, who states that H. R. H. must get out of the big cities to really enjoy himself.

"If the prince will come to Lyon county we can show him a ravine on Allen creek where on a dark night the snipe are running splendidly and no greater fun could be conceived for a dashing young scion of royalty than to stand at the head of the ravine with a sack and lantern while the snipe, blinded by the light, run into the sack."

White also mentions, as an added attraction, Emporia's famous dog fighting badger.

"We take our sports like red blooded men," concluded White. "None of this lawn tennis or horse pool for us."

Mrs. Adrian charges that her husband forced her to provide food for the family on less than $5 a week at a time when she was in a very delicate condition of health. Two other wives were seeking freedom from their husbands in divorce actions on file in the county clerk's office today. Mrs. Veronica Lind filed suit for divorce against Ivan B. # GLORIA SWANSON STARS ON NEW AMERICAN BILL

'Her Love Story' Is Fitting Vehicle for Actress' Personality.

Gloria Swanson, one of the screen's most scintillating stars, is a blue-eyed girl with a brown-eyed personality, says an interviewer who sat opposite her in the studio restaurant and stared into her eyes for an hour only to go back to his paper and write about her wonderful brown eyes. This fact, however, is not the only reason why the glorious Paramount star is said to have a brown-eyed personality. A famous connoisseur of beauty, exclaimed when he saw her that, if she had brown eyes, she would be not only the best-groomed woman in the world but also the most beautiful. Miss Swanson's light brown hair seems to demand brown eyes but nature deemed otherwise and she has a pair of searching blue eyes instead.

In her latest Paramount production, "Her Love Story," directed by Allan Dwan, she appears more of the brown-eyed type than in any of her former pictures. The camera seems to understand the requirements of her brown-eyed personality.

"Her Love Story," an adaptation of Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, will begin a week's engagement at the American theater commencing tomorrow's matinee.

Rudolph aVlentino in "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be given its last presentations at the American today.

Richmond Painter Is Jailed for Accident

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5.—H. L. McDonnell, Richmond painter, has sixty days to reflect upon his wild ride of Sunday night when he collided with a car driven by L. S. Young of San Francisco on the San Pablo tank farm road and then piloted his car into a ditch. Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving McDonnell was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass. A more serious charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, preferred on McDonnell's arrest by Deputy Sheriff J. W. Smiley, was dismissed on motion of the district attorney.

Puts Love Into Film Romance

GLORIA SWANSON, whose acting in her new picture, "Her Love Story," has drawn highest praise. The picture opens at the American theater tomorrow.

San Jose Police Fines Total $8231

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—Police court records for fines and forfeitures were shattered here during the month of August, when the city treasury was enriched by $8231 turned in by Police Judge Percy O'Connor. This established a new high record and beats the total of fines and forfeitures for the police court for any month in history by $2000. Three thousand five hundred dollars came from seven violators of the Wright act, who paid fines of $500 each.

Autoist Arrested Following Collision

SANTA CLARA, Sept. 5.—Manuel Campo of San Francisco was arrested yesterday by Traffic Officer Warren McGrimy following an automobile accident in which Campo's car collided with that of another autoist on the San Francisco highway. The Campo car had no certificate of registration displayed at the time of the accident and Campo was held on that charge pending an investigation as to the ownership of the car which he was driving.

Women's Club Honors President

OAKLEY, Sept. 5.—At the first meeting of the Oakley Woman's Club, a reception was given in honor of Mrs. E. B. Sellers, the retiring president, and new members. Mrs. P. A. Anderson, the newly-elected president upon assuming the chair, paid tribute to the efforts of the retiring president and her loyalty to the organization. At the close of her remarks, Mrs. Sellers was presented a beautiful silver service by the club. She has been president for five years. Refreshments and cards completed a pleasant afternoon.

Party Fails to Find Photographer's Body

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Sept. 5.—A searching party that went to the Olympic peninsula to find the body of Joseph Jeffers, a photographer of Olympia, Wash., who recently fell down a 200 foot crevasse on Rapoet Glacier, Mount Olympus, failed to recover the remains, stated a message related here.

Water Well Drillers Find Gas, Start Fire

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 5.—Gas struck in a water well under process of drilling on the C. H. Widemann ranch at Swanton, 14 miles north of here, caught fire, sending flames high in the air. It required an hour to extinguish the glaze.

At 106 feet a thick strata of oil shale was encountered and drilling operations were temporarily suspended. Widemann states that he has been approached by a syndicate which desires to obtain control of his well because of its supply of gas.

OAKLAND MOTOR MAKER HEADS BIG PRODUCTS PLANT

De Vaux and Associates Take Over $300,000 Syrup Factory.

MODESTO, Sept. 5.—Having closed a contract with the Modesto irrigation district for power for six years, the D. V. O. Company announced late yesterday that it had purchased the entire plant of the California Sorghum and Syrup Products Company and will establish a new industry here with from 175 to 250 employees.

The D. V. O. Company is headed by Norman De Vaux, president of the Star Motor Company of California, with a large plant in Oakland, and with him are associated Alexander Bonnington, chemical engineer, and C. E. Gilman, mining engineer.

The products to be manufactured include sugar syrup, insecticides fertilizers, peroxide and lime and barium products.

Operations will start January 1, 1925, Gilman announced. With Bonnington, [illegible] Modesto. He explained that the new industry will be established at a cost of $300,000.

The contract with the Modesto district for electric energy calls for the power at 5.5 mills per kilowat hour for three years and at 5.7 mills for three years. The revenue, it is said, will amount to $2000 per month to the district for about ten months of the year.

The plant, it is planned, will be in operation 24 hours of the day during a large part of the year. Eight or ten big electric furnaces will be necessary.

Sale of the sorghum plant was negotiated through Charles Swan of the First National bank. Swan, as chairman of the industries committee of the Modesto Chamber of Commerce, was largely responsible for bringing the industry to Modesto.

Gilman said that the firm had closed negotiations with the Southern Pacific for exchange of lands, which will materially benefit both parties. It will give the D. V. O. company a straight tract of land and will shorten the distance from the railroad company's main line to their holdings, recently enlarged by purchase of considerable land in the industrial district.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Sept. 5.—An undertaking at which many men hesitated, has been carried to a successful conclusion by a woman. A year ago Mrs. J. R. # WATER BOND VOTE SET IN NOVEMBER

Chief Engineer Davis Warns Reservoirs Are Nearly Empty; Delay in Acquiring New Source Held Perilous

Directors of the East Bay Municipal Utility district, by resolution decided last night to lay the proposition of a bond issue for an outside water source before the people at the general elections in November simultaneous with the election of the directors of the district at that time.

Considerable doubt had been expressed as to whether the engineers would be able to make an accurate report as to a source of supply by as early a date. Apprehension had also been voiced as to whether it was advisable to submit the bond issue when other controverted questions were pending. Members of the board however, wanted the question of their re-election to be decided with the bond issue. Louis Bartlett, one of the directors, is heading the water and power bond election forces in Alameda county and is also one of the La Follette leaders.

Decision to concentrate first on the acquisition of an outside source was the result of advice from Chief Engineer Arthur P. Davis who held that this is more important than the acquisition of the local distributing system, as it takes more time and haste is imperative in order to get the water to the Eastbay cities.

An ordinance laying the matter before the people at the November elections is imperative not later than October 20, according to the attorney of the district, William J. Locke, who asserted that the amount and terms of the bond issue must also be set forth at that time.

Engineer Davis contended that the expense of the water bond election at the time of the general elections is less than at a special poll and can be done for $14,000. Otherwise, he said the engineering fund must be curtailed to raise the money for a special election.

RESERVOIRS NEARLY EMPTY, DAVIS SAYS.

Davis' report and summary of the situation follows:

September 3, 1924

"Hon. Marston Campbell
President, Board of Directors,
East Bay Municipal Utility District,
Oakland, California.

"Dear Sir:

The reservoirs of the East Bay Water company are so nearly empty that their exhaustion may be expected within the next three or four months. To postpone such exhaustion pumping facilities have been increased which are lowering the water table in the pumping region to such an extent that the water table is from 10 to 20 feet below sea level through much of this region, and constantly going down.

"About two-thirds of the supply now being delivered comes from wells. Even though the present draft be continued indefinitely the exhaustion of reservoirs will create a severe water shortage unless timely rains replenish the supply before January 1925. Another winter like last winter would, therefore, cut down the supply to the danger point, and the entrance of salt water into the wells would make the shortage disastrous.

"Under these conditions serious opposition to a bonding proposition to bring in an additional supply cannot be expected if the subject be considered on its merits and the situation properly explained to the electorate.

ACCUSES RIVALS OF PROPAGANDA

"Not so certain however, is the proposition of purchasing the local system of water distribution and storage reservoirs. It is well known that the officers of the company are opposed to the sale. They have declined to name a price and are quietly but industriously spreading propaganda designed to prevent the purchase.

"I am reliably informed that the manager of the company is circulating among his large force of employees a statement that they will all be fired if the district takes over the system. This report is without foundation and is contrary to the policy of the district. It is the intention to maintain and improve the efficiency of the organization and it is believed that, as a whole, the organization is efficient and much better fitted to transact its business than new employees would be. There is no desire and would be no policy, to discharge any employee who is rendering faithful service commensurate with his salary.

WARNS AGAINST EMBARRASSMENT.

'If the Utility District should bring a distant water supply to this region before it had acquired the local distribution system it might be seriously embarrassed for lack of anything to do with the water. It could not compel the Water company to purchase the water unless immediate need existed, and the occurrence of two or three wet years meantime would fill the large reservoirs of the company and it might be a dozen years before any large portion of a new supply would be required.

"It therefore becomes important to acquire the distribution system simultaneously with the construction of the new system of water supply. To insure this it has been proposed to place upon the ballot a proposal to purchase the existing system, together with another proposal to bring in a distant supply.

"In the absence of any authentic appraisal of the local system of distribution, it was proposed to include the sum of $25,000,000 which is believed to be well above the value of the existing system, and to provide that this amount was 'for the acquisition, repair, and extension of the existing storage and distribution system of the East Bay Water company.' This would leave about $39,000,000 available to be voted on the same ballot for the construction of a system of mountain water supply.

'This plan however, has received a severe setback by the opinion rendered by the attorney, Mr. Orrick, who passes upon the validity of each step leading up to the bond issue. Mr. Orrick has announced that the law forbids the voting of bonds for the purchase of these distribution works until after the same have been appraised by the Railroad Commission.

PLEA TO APPRAISE HAS BEEN MADE.

"Application has been made to the Railroad Commission to appraise these works and the commission has declined to do so on the ground of lack of authority for the same. From this decision, the district has appealed and the matter is now pending in the supreme court on a petition for a writ of mandamus to require the commission to make the appraisal. No decision has yet been rendered and the date of such decision is uncertain. It is estimated that it will require eight or ten months, or possibly a year, from now before the appraisal can be completed.

'The question therefore arises: Shall we submit the proposition for a bond issue to bring in a distant water supply as soon as possible and later when the law permits submit another proposition for purchase of the local system; or shall we await the appraisal of the local system before calling for any bond issue?

'The latter alternative would mean a delay of at least six months and possibly longer, in the construction of a new system of water supply.

DELAY IN URGENCY SEEMS INEXCUSABLE.

"The available funds which are being utilized in the surveys and plans for a new system will be exhausted in December or January next, and to wait until next summer for a bond issue will mean that the organization of the engineering and other forces of the district must be dissolved and the delay and expense of a new organization undertaken next summer, or whenever the bond issue has passed. The delay, therefore, will virtually be more than six months and may be more than a year. Under the extreme urgency of an additional water supply this delay seems inexcusable.

"It is urged that if the propositions of building a new system and of purchasing the local distribution works are separated, we might have the distant water supply constructed and if the people vote down the proposition for purchasing the local system we would

De Vaux and Associates Take Over $300,000 Syrup Factory.

MODESTO, Sept. 5.—Having closed a contract with the Modesto Irrigation district for power for six years, the D. V. O. Company announced late yesterday that it had purchased the entire plant of the California Sorghum and Syrup Products Company and will establish a new industry here with from 175 to 250 employees.

The D. V. O. Company is headed by Norman De Vaux, president of the Star Motor Company of California, with a large plant in Oakland, and with him are associated Alexander Bonnington, chemical engineer, and C. E. Gilman, mining engineer.

The products to be manufactured include sugar syrup, insecticides, fertilizers, peroxide and lime and barium products.

Operations will start January 1, 1925, Gilman announced. With Bonnington, [illegible] Modesto. He explained that the new industry will be established at a cost of $300,000.

The contract with the Modesto district for electric energy calls for the power at 5.5 mills per kilowat hour for three years and at 5.7 mills for three years. The revenue, it is said, will amount to $2600 per month to the district for about ten months of the year.

The plant, it is planned, will be in operation 24 hours of the day during a large part of the year. Eight or ten big electric furnaces will be necessary.

Sale of the sorghum plant was negotiated through Charles Swan of the First National bank. Swan, as chairman of the industries committee of the Modesto Chamber of Commerce, was largely responsible for bringing the industry to Modesto.

Gilman said that the firm had closed negotiations with the Southern Pacific for exchange of lands, which will materially benefit both parties. It will give the D. V. O. company a straight tract of land and will shorten the distance from the railroad company's main line to their holdings, recently enlarged by purchase of considerable land in the industrial district.

BYRON

BYRON, Sept. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Richardson and children, Mr and Mrs. Harold Wood and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Stone have returned from a three-day outing into the Ospital Canyon country, southwest of Tracy. Early Monday the men killed a fine four-point buck.

Mrs. Goldie Jordan and son Fred and daughter of Oakland are here on a visit to Mrs. Schmidt.

Mrs. Frank Studdert and son Frank of Petaluma spent the week-end holiday visiting old friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Aubry of San Francisco were guests at Byron Hot Springs over the holidays.

Miss Helen Jansse and Miss Helen Booth of Brentwood spent the week-end with friends at Harbin Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Richardson and family, Mrs. John Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. A. Harder returned last week from a delightful two weeks' trip through Mendocino and the Eel River country and the Blue Lakes. They enjoyed some fine fishing and also had some bear meat when an Indian killed one and was generous in dividing the choice cuts.

Injunction of Court Halts Work on Dam

MERCED, Sept. 5.—A permanent injunction restraining the Pacific Portland Cement company from fulfilling its contracting to furnish cement to the Merced Irrigation district, to be used in construction of Exchequer dam, was granted by Judge S. L. Strothers of Fresno, presiding judge at the hearing. He based his decision on the district's violation of the California Irrigation Act, by not readvertising for bids before awarding the contract.

Three Hurt As Train Goes Through Bridge

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Sept. 5.—An engine and two cars plunged through a bridge which collapsed near here on the Oregon, Pacific & Eastern railway, a logging line. Steam from the engine burned E. R. Brand, engineer, and Elmer Motter, brakeman, so seriously that their recovery was doubtful.

Pigs Drive Snakes From African Ranch

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Sept. 5.—An undertaking at which many men hesitated, has been carried to a successful conclusion by a woman. A year ago Mrs. J. R. Cleminson bought 5000 acres of land that had gone lapsing because it was infested with poisonous snakes, including puff adders and black mambas. Then she turned loose on the land a large number of pigs. The pigs have cleared the snakes from the land and now it is the most valuable farming soil in that district.

Mather Inspects Yosemite Project

YOSEMITE, Sept. 5.—Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, in company with other officials of the service, has inspected various conservation projects now being carried on in Yosemite park.

Flags in Yellowstone and Yosemite parks were ordered at half mast by Director Mather upon receipt of work from Helena, Montana, of the death of Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, former superintendent of the two parks.

Fires Caused By Dozing of Cooks

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—It would seem that the people of Berlin are more careless in the matter of fire risks in the early morning hours than any other time of the day. Berlin had 800 fire calls during July, and a majority were in the early morning. The fire chief says it is because people are only half awake when they stir around the kitchen getting breakfast ready.

Bond Sales Trap Mail Theft Suspects

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Two men who are said to have sold some of the $65,000 securities taken by six bandits from a mail wagon in Montreal on August 5, were arrested yesterday. They gave their names as Harry Sautman and Harry G. Lewis, both of this city.

Backarack & Co., brokers, discovered that bonds of a face value of $11,000 for which the firm had paid only $4300, were part of the Canadian securities. Four detectives were in the brokerage office when Sautman and Lewis presented themselves today with another $5000 in bonds.

About 2,000,000 square feet of balsa wood was used in the construction of homes throughout Minnesota last fall.

WATER BOND VOTE SET IN NOVEMBER

Chief Engineer Davis Warns Reservoirs Are Nearly Empty; Delay in Acquiring New Source Held Perilous

Directors of the East Bay Municipal Utility district, by resolution, decided last night to lay the proposition of a bond issue for an outside water source before the people at the general elections in November, simultaneous with the election of the directors of the district at that time.

Considerable doubt had been expressed as to whether the engineers would be able to make an accurate report as to a source of supply by as early a date. Apprehension had also been voiced as to whether it was advisable to submit the bond issue when other controverted questions were pending. Members of the board, however, wanted the question of their re-election to be decided with the bond issue. Louis Bartlett, one of the directors, is heading the water and power bond election forces in Alameda county and is also one of the La Follette leaders.

Decision to concentrate first on the acquisition of an outside source was the result of advice from Chief Engineer Arthur P. Davis, who held that this is more important than the acquisition of the local distributing system, as it takes more time, and haste is imperative in order to get the water to the Eastbay cities.

An ordinance laying the matter before the people at the November elections is imperative not later than October 20, according to the attorney of the district, William J. Locke, who asserted that the amount and terms of the bond issue must also be set forth at that time.

Engineer Davis contended that the expense of the water-bond election at the time of the general elections is less than at a special poll, and can be done for $14,000. Otherwise, he said, the engineering fund must be curtailed to raise the money for a special election.

RESERVOIRS NEARLY EMPTY, DAVIS SAYS.

Davis' report and summary of the situation follows:

September 3, 1924.

"Hon. Marston Campbell,
President, Board of Directors,
East Bay Municipal Utility District,
Oakland, California.

"Dear Sir:

The reservoirs of the East Bay Water company are so nearly empty that their exhaustion may be expected within the next three or four months. To postpone such exhaustion, pumping facilities have been increased which are lowering the water table in the pumping region to such an extent that the water table is from 10 to 20 feet below sea level through much of this region, and constantly going down.

"About two-thirds of the supply now being delivered comes from wells. Even though the present draft be continued indefinitely, the exhaustion of reservoirs will create a severe water shortage unless timely rains replenish the supply before January, 1925. Another winter like last winter would, therefore, cut down the supply to the danger point, and the entrance of salt water into the wells would make the shortage disastrous.

"Under these conditions serious opposition to a bonding proposition to bring in an additional supply cannot be expected if the subject be considered on its merits and the situation properly explained to the electorate.

ACCUSES RIVALS OF PROPAGANDA.

"Not so certain, however, is the proposition of purchasing the local system of water distribution and storage reservoirs. It is well known that the officers of the company are opposed to the sale. They have declined to name a price and are quietly but industriously spreading propaganda designed to prevent the purchase.

"I am reliably informed that the manager of the company is circulating among his large force of employees a statement that they will all be fired if the district takes over the system. This report is without foundation and is contrary to the policy of the district. It is the intention to maintain and improve the efficiency of the organization and it is believed that, as a whole, the organization is efficient and much better fitted to transact its business than new employees would be. There is no desire and would be no policy, to discharge any employee who is rendering faithful service commensurate with his salary.

WARNS AGAINST EMBARRASSMENT.

"If the Utility District should bring a distant water supply to this region before it had acquired the local distribution system it might be seriously embarrassed for lack of anything to do with the water. It could not compel the Water company to purchase the water unless immediate need existed, and the occurrence of two or three wet years meantime would fill the large reservoirs of the company and it might be a dozen years before any large portion of a new supply would be required.

"It therefore becomes important to acquire the distribution system simultaneously with the construction of the new system of water supply. To insure this it has been proposed to place upon the ballot a proposal to purchase the existing system, together with another proposal to bring in a distant supply.

"In the absence of any authentic appraisal of the local system of distribution, it was proposed to include the sum of $25,000,000, which is believed to be well above the value of the existing system, and to provide that this amount was 'for the acquisition, repair, and extension of the existing storage and distribution system of the East Bay Water company.' This would leave about $30,000,000 available to be voted on the same ballot for the construction of a system of mountain water supply.

"This plan, however, has received a severe setback by the opinion rendered by the attorney, Mr. Gerick, who passes upon the validity of each step leading up to the bond issue. Mr. Orrick has announced that the law forbids the voting of bonds for the purchase of these distribution works until after the same have been appraised by the Railroad Commission.

PLEA TO APPRAISE HAS BEEN MADE.

"Application has been made to the Railroad Commission to appraise these works and the commission has declined to do so on the ground of lack of authority for the same. From this decision, the district has appealed and the matter is now pending in the supreme court on a petition for a writ of mandamus to require the commission to make the appraisal. No decision has yet been rendered and the date of such decision is uncertain. It is estimated that it will require eight or ten months, or possibly a year, from now before the appraisal can be completed.

"The question therefore arises: Shall we submit the proposition for a bond issue to bring in a distant water supply as soon as possible and later when the law permits submit another proposition for purchase of the local system; or shall we await the appraisal of the local system before calling for any bond issue?

"The latter alternative would mean a delay of at least six months and possibly longer, in the construction of a new system of water supply.

DELAY IN URGENCY SEEMS INEXCUSABLE.

"The available funds which are being utilized in the surveys and plans for a new system will be exhausted in December or January next, and to wait until next summer for a bond issue will mean that the organization of the engineering and other forces of the district must be dissolved and the delay and expense of a new organization undertaken next summer, or whenever the bond issue has passed. The delay, therefore, will virtually be more than six months and may be more than a year. Under the extreme urgency of an additional water supply this delay seems inexcusable.

"It is urged that if the propositions of building a new system and of purchasing the local distribution works are separated, we might have the distant water supply constructed and if the people vote down the proposition for purchasing the local system we would

48 HELD IN L. A. AS SWINDLERS IN SALE OF PATENTS

$1,000,000 Netted Year by Disposing of State Rights, Police Say.

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Claimed to be involved in a gigantic swindling plot, Edwin Crooker, general sales manager of the Practical Invention and Sales company, and forty-seven salesmen of the concern were under arrest here today.

The arrests were made last night in the company's lavish offices, just as Crooker started an address on selling. A whole fleet of police machines was necessary to transport the crowd to central station.

Evidence gathered in the raid was turned over to District Attorney Keyes today with a request that grand jury action be urged immediately.

The scheme upon which the firm has been working for the past year is, according to police, a revival of the state rights patent idea.

A disinfectant, an automobile light, a barbed wire, a patented mop and other domestic articles are controlled by the firm, although police declare there has been few if any of them sold or manufactured. Most of the selling has been in the contracts authorizing sales, according to police, who say the company has done a business of more than $1,000,000 during the past year.

Man Accused of Beating Is Hunted

Stanley Martin, 1511 Ninth street, is being sought by the police in connection with a fight alleged to have occurred between Martin and C. B. Pebbles, a salesman, residing at 2750 East Fourteenth street, in front of the latter's home.

Martin is alleged to have beaten Pebbles on the head, face and shoulders with a revolver, rendering him unconscious.

Following the beating, Martin disappeared. Pebbles was treated at the Emergency hospital.

Petrarch was born outside of Florence, Italy, as his parents were driven out of the city by civil war.

"Has Nothing to Say"

Just like her father-in-law, MRS. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR. "refused to be interviewed" when she returned to New York from Europe, accompanied by her daughter, ABBY. Instead, she kept up a running fire of questions to the reporters, and didn't give them a chance to query the daughter, whose discharge on a speeding charge in New York City some time ago led to an investigation, with various officials being removed from office. This photo, showing mother (right) and daughter, is the first made of the two in a number of years.—P. & A. photo.

U. S. EMBASSY IN JAPAN HOMELESS

TOKYO, Sept. 5.—The "summer embassy" of the United States has been established in Karuizawa, the best known mountain resort of Japan, 90 miles north of Tokyo.

The embassy, without a permanent home since its old building was destroyed by fire the night of last Sept. 1, leads a somewhat roving existence, and is confronted by the problem of finding new quarters when the staff returns from Karuizawa to Tokyo at the end of the summer.

Offices are still maintained in the Imperial hotel in Tokyo, which has housed the embassy since the earthquake.

Hayward Schools to Keep Admission Day

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—The seven elementary schools of Hayward are planning appropriate exercises in observance of Admission Day, it is announced by W. B. Kammerer, supervising principal. Although the schools will be closed on that day, Tuesday, the elementary grade pupils will conduct exercises on the preceding day.

A program was presented in the auditorium of the new grammar school this afternoon, under the direction of Miss Julia Straven, and included a tabloid history of California, beginning with the origin of the name of this state, depicting the coming of the white man, the Spanish missions, establishment of towns and presidios, discovery of gold and admission of California as a state.

The following pupils took part: Adelbert Williams, Fildred Conant, Katherine Silva, Clara Sawyer, Hazel Laanway, Mary Texeira, Lucille Birdsoong, Forrest Lindsey, Edwin Hillyer, Carrol George, Clarence Amaral, Minnie Principe, Norma Boasso, Norris Baldwin, Isabel Zacharias, Alice Weiss, Bernice Richardson, Margaret White.

Hayward Will Form National Guard Unit

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—Reorganization of a national guard unit here is looked for as the result of a program being prepared for the National Defense Day celebration, being sponsored by the local American Legion Post No. 68, with the assistance and co-operation of several fraternal and civic bodies.

On the day set aside for the observance—September 12—a booth will be established at which young men of the city will be urged to enroll and form the nucleus for a community squad. Benefits and possibilities of such a registration will be explained and demonstrated. The booth will be in charge of Hugo Frank, Gene Sullivan and Jack Mitchell, all members of the reserve service.

Hayward claimed a national guard unit known as Company H, prior to the Mexican altercation and the World War. The company served at the border and was then sent overseas.

Scout Merit Badge Contest Is Started

HAYWARD, Sept. 5.—To stimulate interest among the boys and to encourage study in attaining merit degrees, Hans Vejby, master of the local Boy Scout Troop No. 5 has inaugurated a contest, for his troop only, by which the boy receiving the highest number of merit badges by December 1 will be awarded a medal, appropriately inscribed and representative of his feat. The contest opened the first of this month and the boys, according to Vejby, are evincing considerable interest.

Local troops are giving their attention to the county contest, by which the unit receiving the greatest number of merit awards will be given several prizes, including a complete uniform for the scout master and expenses at the annual scout camp next summer.

Hayward Legion to Initiate New Members

At the business session of the unit, a vote on the proposed sponsoring of local boxing contests, to be held semi-monthly and to be carefully supervised and regulated, will be taken by the membership. Arrangements for the community National Defense Day observance, September 12, will be made.

Hayward Man Is Shot While Hunting

HAYWARD, Sept. 5. — Jeff Hanke is confined to his home at 1276 Russell way with a painful but not serious bullet wound in his right foot, following an accidental discharge of a rifle carried by a companion on a hunting expedition about thirty miles in back of Livermore this week. ## L.A. Peddler Jailed as Fruit Becomes Liquid

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Prohibition temporarily solved for J. M. Pyle, fruit peddler, the problem of what to do with the overripe bananas, apples, apricots and the like, which, from time to time had to be weeded out of his stock of strictly first-class fruit. He made fruit brandy out of them and carried a jugful or two of the liquor in his wagon as a side line, according to the police, who arrested him yesterday on a charge of violating the state prohibition act.

Soviet's Charges Are 'Ridiculous,' Hughes Answers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — When informed of the statement by Rothstein, Soviet editor of "Fiestin," to the foreign correspondents at Moscow relative to American policies in China, Secretary Hughes said:

"It is not only false, but ridiculous."

The secretary refused to supplement this statement. Other treaty experts of the state department, however, pointed out that the American secretary of state, even if he desired, and they were sure he did not do so, had no authority to enter any agreement respecting China with the governments of France, Japan or Great Britain.

They pointed out that the nine power treaty was an absolute prohibition against any such action and would have to be abrogated and a new treaty reported and ratified before the Washington government could become a party to such an arangement as that described by Rothstein.

Auditor Asks Aid To Get Auto Taxes

VALLEJO, Sept. 5.—City Auditor George D. Hildreth today requested of the city council in a campaign of seizure and sale of autos on which personal property taxes have not been paid. His action is the sequel to the seizure of his books and official records by City Clerk A. E. Edgecomb, on orders of the city council, as the culmination of a lengthy dispute between Hildreth and the council over the matter of uncollected taxes on autos.

Hildreth estimates there are 600 autos owned in Vallejo by persons who own no real estate and who have not paid personal property taxes on the vehicles. He has taken the stand that if the auto is not actually in Vallejo on March 1 each year, when he levies assessments as ex-officio city assessor, he has no right to tax the owner. The council disagrees and has demanded he tax all autos owned in Vallejo no matter where the autos may be. Hildreth refused the request of the council of his books accounting of the auto taxes he had collected and seizure of his books resulted. Hildreth's request for aid in collecting the taxes is expected to end the dispute.

Denver Klan Howl At Political Enemy

DENVER, Sept. 5. — Philip S. Van Cise, district attorney, and his "visible government" Republican ticket, became the target of a howling crowd of Klan sympathizers in the city auditorium last night.

Van Cise charged the Klan had dominated the Republican State Assembly, naming its own candidates for State offices, the Legislature and the bench. He has been instrumental in placing opposing candidates against the alleged klansmen for nomination in the primaries next Tuesday.

Once during the evening a free-for-all seemed inevitable when a woman Klan sypmathizer struck a man in the face. People arose all over the building, prepared for trouble, but police quieted the situation.

DIRECTORS FOR OAKLAND CHURCH COUNCIL NAMED

300 Churchmen Hear Report on Amalgamation Plans for Eastbay Area.

Three hundred delegates from 32 churches, representing all denominations, attended the dinner at the First Presbyterian church last night when the report of Dr. Roy Guild, field secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, relative to the financing of the Oakland Council of Churches was delivered. The board of directors for the council was elected and indications point to the pledging of the required budget of $8000 and employment of a paid executive secretary of the Church Council by the first of the year. Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, who succeeds Bishop Adna W. Leonard as head of the Methodist Episcopal church of the San Francisco area, made a plea for effective unification of church work amongst Protestant churches.

BUDGETS ASSUMED.

H. K. Pittman, pastor of Trinity Center church, San Francisco, gave the invocation. R. S. Donaldson, executive secretary of the church extension of the Presbyterian church, spoke on the benefits of cooperation. Dr. Guild introduced Captain E. A. Selfridge of San Francisco; C. J. Chatterton, Seattle; Mrs. M. F. Harlbough, Sacramento; F. D. Parr and Rev. K. G. Beam, all connected with the Church Council movement and F. P. Flegal, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church arranging the finances of Oakland's Council of Churches, which was organized at the First Christian church early this summer. Tentative budgets amounting to $8000 were then assured by the various evangelical churches taking part in the organization. Dr. Guild states that the required $8000 will be pledged probably not later than November 15, and further assured the delegates that the executive secretary will not be employed until the full budget is assured.

NOMINATIONS REPORTED.

William Gillanders, chairman of the nominating committee reported the following nominations to the board of directors of the Oakland Council of Churches: William Nat Friend, Presbyterian; R. H. C. Proffitt, Methodist Episcopal; Hugh P. The board was unanimously approved. The personnel of the executive committee of thirty members will be announced later. H. L. Hixson acted as chairman.

BELT LINE ROAD SALE PROTESTED

ALAMEDA, Sept. 5.—Protest has been made to the city officials against the sale of the Belt Line Railroad to the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroad companies, by W. G. Tibbetts, of the Healy-Tibbetts company in a letter made public today.

"There are three overland railroads eager to buy the belt line," says a portion of Tibbetts' letter, "knowing that the improvements being constructed by the Alaska Packers Association will provide a great amount of freight for rail transportation and this is only the beginning.

"I am of the opinion that at the present time a suitable lease can be drawn whereby the railroads, interested will finance the extension of the present belt line. Failing this I believe the city, if the matter was properly explained to the people showing that the extension of the belt road was a good business undertaking, would vote bonds for this purpose, the road to be extended only as occasion required. The people of Alameda have, always to be knowledge, stood behind any project to help the industrial development of our city."

More than 200 years have elapsed since William Penn wrote his essay "Toward the Present and Future Peace of Europe."

Death of U. C. Girl Accident, Says Jury

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—That Ruth Steadman, senior student at the University of California, who was found dead in her room at a college rooming house at 2418 College avenue, Sunday, was accidentally asphyxiated by gas was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday. Coroner Grant Miller conducted the inquest. Testimony of a score of witnesses failed to disclose any circumstances that might have led to a verdict of suicide. The jury recommended a rigid investigation of gas fixtures in Berkeley after Waterbury had had shown a worn hose taken from Miss Steadman's room.

Engineer Urges November Vote on Bond Issue to Avoid Water Famine.

have no use for the water when it arrives

"If this is a real danger it can hardly be obviated by the mere inclusion of two propositions on the same ballot. Any voter can vote yes on one proposition and no on the other even though the propositions are submitted together so this seems a flimsy argument upon which to base a long delay in the construction of a new system and sacrifice of economy in dissolving the organization this winter and reorganizing next summer. This process would also involve a loss of morale and efficiency that would be hard to estimate.

"It might be [illegible] the election might fail once or even twice but this could be corrected at a subsequent election.

LACK OF FUNDS COMPEL ACTION

"It is true that it were [illegible] desirable to take [illegible] expenditures [illegible] water supply [illegible] planning the works [illegible] complete and [illegible] information is certain [illegible] be obtained [illegible] delay, [illegible] funds [illegible] be obtained before [illegible] bond issue.

"Such a [illegible] should be voted [illegible] as possible. The [illegible] will be ready in November and if the bond issue passes the [illegible] of the available funds can be expended in perfecting the plans and estimates of cost, so that by the time the validity of the issue can be confirmed by the courts, and the bonds the [illegible] we would be nearly ready to begin construction.

"It is conceded that it is desirable to submit together the bond proposals for [illegible] system and the purchase of the local system [illegible] the impossibility of doing [illegible] now can never excuse an unnecessary delay in consummating the former.

"It has been [illegible] proposed to spend large sums to bring in quickly a temporary supply of pumping from any nearby sources available on account of the emergency of the situation.

"How illogical, therefore, to deliberately accept a prolonged delay for the sole reason of combining the two propositions in one election. If the voters do not want to purchase the local system they can vote against it anyhow and if the two propositions are submitted together in order to help the proposition to purchase, it might be argued that the latter will hurt the proposition for building a new system. The argument cuts as strong one way as another and the defeat of a distant system is more vital and injurious than the defeat of the local purchase because it would deprive us of water under conditions of emergency, while the other one would not.

"The [illegible] District cannot afford to incur unnecessary delay which would be jeopardizing the [illegible] of the district and even [illegible] of the cities which might be [illegible] by the lack of an [illegible] water system. Two or three more dry years would make this danger extremely acute and a delay of six months or a year might make the difference between [illegible] and disaster.

DELAY WOULD BE DIRECTORS FAULT.

"Such an unnecessary delay would be the fault of the directors of the district. The defeat of the bonds for the purchase of the local system would not be the fault of [illegible]

"If the construction of the distant system is started immediately it will require at least four years for completion and nearly this length of time before it could deliver any water to the district. If the proposal to purchase the local system is submitted as soon as the appraisal is made, and voted down by the electorate it can be resubmitted two or three times before the distant system arrives, and if the purchase of the local system should carry even the third or fourth time no delay in the delivery of water from the new system will occur. It is scarcely conceivable that the electorate would repeatedly and consistently vote down such a necessary purchase. Its defeat once or twice would arouse the thinking people in the community to such an extent that a campaign of education would be inaugurated that would lead to favorable results.

"Whatever else happens a proposition for constructing a distant system should be submitted at the earliest possible date and constructed as quickly as possible.

"Very respectfully,

"(Signed) ARTHUR P. DAVIS,

"Chief Engineer and General Manager."

Following the general discussion on the [illegible] the directors agreed to hold a meeting next Thursday night and then every [illegible] Thursday thereafter.

The meeting was well attended. Residents of Contra Costa county assured they would aid any move for more water and representatives of Oakland organizations also spoke, including the Downtown association.

SCHOOL BUILDERS TO STANDARDIZE

An entirely new system of handling the construction of schools will be immediately established by the Oakland board of education, according to announcements made yesterday by W. R. Whelan, superintendent of construction, at a meeting of the executive committee of the Oakland Mothers Council under the auspices of which the campaign for the school bond election will be carried on.

The new policy calls for standardization of plans for all school rooms, for all material used in the construction and for all of the equipment and fixtures to be used after the schools are completed. It also calls for the unit plan of construction under which new class rooms may be added as needed. Outstanding advantages of the new system are to be found in the fact it assures 100 per cent efficiency.

In standardizing the construction it is pointed out that there will be no standardization of design. Architects will not be hampered in originating artistic exteriors. The interiors, however, must conform.

"In connection with this standardization we are working out a system of units. Each unit will consist of so many rooms. With proper accommodations for pupils and teachers," Whelan explained. "One of the radical changes in the new elementary schools will be that of making the assembly hall serve also as a gymnasium. This will effect economy of space and of construction."

American universities have promised many books to replace the Tokyo library.

San Benito Will Build Pinnacles Bear Gulch Road

County Engineer to Make His Report to Supervisors September 17.

HOLLISTER, Sept. 5.—Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the state highway commission, has congratulated the San Benito County Farm Bureaus, through W. I. Hawkins, on securing the aid of the board of supervisors in the building of a road into the Pinnacles National Monument, this county's recently developed all-the-year-around vacation spot.

Toy told Hawkins: "If more people could only be induced to visit the Pinnacles they would be as wildly enthusiastic over this scenic beauty spot as I am.

"The best way to get things done is to do them yourselves to the limit of your ability, then others will see that you are in earnest. The federal government and the state authorities will see by the action of your supervisors that you mean business in developing the resources of this great park to the limit."

Toy's message was in answer to a note from Hawkins stating that the supervisors had appropriated $2500 for the fund the bureaus raised to build a new road through Bear Gulch.

Yesterday the supervisors took a step further by agreeing to take over the whole road project, building it through to the foot of the new cave finds and other subterranean wonders and beauties.

The county authorities instructed the county engineer to survey and draw up plans and specifications at once for a report by September 17, when bids for continuing the Bear Gulch road for about two miles further will be called for, the bids to be in and opened by the meeting planned for October 6.

It is understood that the county taking over the Pinnacles road project, the farmers headed by Hawkins will then center their efforts on urging the state to make it a link of a new proposed highway via Hollister, Tres Pinos to King City.

Contra Costa Jail Escape Is Captured

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5.—Preparations were being made today by Sheriff R. R. Veale for the return to Martinez of Stanley Kosmalski, alleged larcenist, arrested in Milwaukee yesterday 18 months after his escape from the Contra Costa county jail. Kosmalski sawed the bars from his cell in June 1923, while awaiting trial on a charge of grand larceny for alleged theft of an automobile from Tony Peters of Crockett. Bench warrant for Kosmalski's arrest was issued today by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie to facilitate steps for his return.

According to word received by local officers Kosmalski was arrested when he went to visit relatives at Milwaukee. Milwaukee officers had had the homes of Kosmalski's relatives under surveillance for more than a year.

POLICE SEEK STILL OWNER.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 5.—Discovery of a small quantity of wine and brandy and parts of a still at the home of Lazo Radulovitch at San Pablo by Deputy Sheriff Clyde Lund, chief of the county's prohibition squad, caused the arrest last night of Radulovitch on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. Radulovitch is employed by the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing company. He is being held in jail pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well-known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.—Advertisement.

PRISON ARTIST GETS BIG JOB

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 5.—Max Sasanoss, the celebrated artist who "painted his way out of prison," has been secured to paint The Christus on the walls of the rotunda in the Kilby Penitentiary.

Members of the Big Brothers Bible class, of the First Presbyterian church here, are back of the movement, and officers of the organization announced that a statewide drive will be made to raise funds for financing the proposed piece of art.

The artist will arrrive in Montgomery soon, according to word from him at New York, and later will establish a studio at the prison.

He is now in the eastern city, working on a portrait of President Coolidge.

Sasanoss became a nationally known figure a little more than a year ago, when he literally "painted his way to freedom" from the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary. Shortly after his incarceration there he attracted attention with his art and a few days later painted a picture of The Christus, as The Healer, on the walls of the prison chapel.

The work had hardly been completed, when visitors started a movement for his freedom, which a short time later was granted.

GIRL, HELPLESS 17 YEARS, WALKS

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Seven long months in the hospital and the reward—the ability to walk for the first time in seventeen years. That is the story of Anna Wolfe, 19, of Brooklyn, who now has the use of her legs as the result of two operations performed on them at the Long Island College Hospital. Anna's case is a striking example of the miracles of modern surgery.

At the age of 2 Anna became a victim of infantile paralysis. Her legs gradually became misshapen and deformed, and she could not move either.

These deformities were corrected by the operations. Afterward plaster casts were applied and then braces. Then she began to learn to walk.

That is the big sensation in life today for Anna—her lessons in walking at the hospital. Each day Anna experiences the greatest thrill because she can feel the muscles in her legs coming into play as she moves.

"I am still," she says, "like a baby—worse than a baby—in learning to walk."

After a few more days in the hospital Anna will be ready to go home, and in a short time she will be strong enough to walk unaided.

COUSIN OF CZAR U. S. BANK CLERK

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Another royal fugitive from Soviet rule has been discovered working in the United States. He is Prince Dimitry, a nephew of the late Czar and a cousin of the Prince of Wales. He came here, according to friends, at their urging, after having been found working for a farmer in Denmark.

Prince Dimitry declared he hoped some day to return to Russia "and give my countrymen the benefit of what I have learned here."

Bank officials said he was making good.

The prince said his mother was the Grand Duchess Xenia, sister of the late Czar, and his father the Grand Duke Alexander. His grandmother is Dagmar, the Dowager Empress of Russia.

The prince said he and a group of fifty others, who had been condemned to death in the Crimea by the Soviet government, escaped by bluffing guards into believing they were five hundred, and escaped on board a British ship to Western Europe.

WOMAN HOBO, 73, RIDES RODS AND DEFIES OLD AGE

Feminine Tramp in Twilight of Life Slaps Judge on Back, Invites Him to Call.

By GERALD MILLER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—There isn't any twilight to a well lived life—in fact, a 120 years doesn't mean a thing to a nice, robust woman who leaves off corsets and high boots, hikes fifty miles a day, works in the gold mines, "rides the rods" every now and then, and keeps herself young in general.

At least, so says Mrs. Herbert Jester, a 73-year-old youngster, who "just hopped a freight and came on up to Chicago to transact a little business." Mrs. Jester lives away out in Goldfield, Nevada.

Most of Mrs. Jester's life has been spent doing things other women are afraid to do. She got right down to earth while quite young and hasn't left it since.

"I stand straighter and I'm stronger than most men," said she. "Why, when I was working in the gold mines of Nevada I tramped fifty miles a day with the best of men and spent half the night nursing the sick ones."

Mrs. Jester is a "lady hobo." She was arrested when she blew into Chicago on a freight from Colorado. And after she looked Judge John L. Lupe, of the West Chicago Police Court, in the eye for a few minutes, the judge told her to go on and attend to her business.

"All right, judge," said the veteran, with a hearty thump on the middle of his back. "Happy days. And when you come out to Goldfield, in Nevada, I'll have the doors wide open!"

Then, while the judge coughed and struggled to regain his shattered dignity and collect his scattered senses, the 73-year-old "lady hobo" shifted her coat and worn felt hat, almost the same color as her bronzed throat and arms, to the other hand and went right on:

"And, my boy, it don't make any difference when you come; I'm going to live another fifty or sixty years yet—you've got plenty of time."

She explained she made the trip by hopping any freight that ran slow enough and eating anything edible she found.

"My husband's 56," she explained. "He didn't feel equal to the trip and we had some business to attend to up here. When you want to get some place and haven't any money, what're you gonna do?"

Mrs. Jester was born in Coblenz, Germany, and can speak Latin, Polish, German, French and Hebrew. And she's studying Italian and Spanish, too.

New Cling Peach Is Developed in Sutter

YUBA CITY, Sept. 5.—What may prove to be a new variety of cling peach which will partially revolutionize the canning industry if developed, has been discovered on the Peri Montna orchard in Sutter county. Specimens of the new peach have been brought to the office of Horticultural Commissioner H. P. Stabler, who is forwarding them to the Canners' League for tests of their adaptability to packing. If the peach cans satisfactorily it will mean the extension of the packing season for several weeks as the new variety matures beyond the latest now grown commercially.

Foreign Women to Be Taught English

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Under the direction of the Pittsburg School Department classes in English for women of foreign birth are being organized with a view to inculcating American ideals and the fundamentals upon which our government is founded. ### Stolen $10 Note Sends Pair to Prison

MERCED, Sept. 5.—A stolen $10-bill sent Virgil Ross, 26, and H. Rigo, 29, to San Quentin. They were sentenced to the prison on charges of burglary by Superior Judge E. N. Rector. The two confessed stealing the money from the home of a Livingston rancher while the latter was working in the field. Creases in the bill, caused by folding, led to the discovery in a Cressey pool hall and subsequent arrest of the pair.

GREAT PROGRESS FOR NEGRO RACE BELIEVED NEAR

President of Business Men's League Tells of Recent Achievements.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—The negro race is gradually nearing a great future, according to Dr. R. R. Moton, president of the National Negro Business Men's League and successor to Booker T. Washington as head of the Tuskegee Institute, who spoke here on the negro's opportunities in Chicago.

"It is fitting," he said, "that we should hold our meeting here, because the first home in this city was that of a negro. No one can look at the great plant of James S. Kirk company, now on the sight of that hut, without thinking of what Chicago owes the negro.

"And some of us who live in other parts of the country are inclined to think that the negro, too, owes something to Chicago, for in this city the progress of the race does not suffer in comparison with any other city in the country, with its multifarious business enterprises.

"We have here two great banking enterprises—the Binga State Bank and the Douglas National Bank—owned and operated by our people; the Liberty Life and other successful insurance companies, with taxicab companies, not to mention the great printing establishment of R. S. Abbott and the Chicago Defender, the headquarters of the Associated Negro Press, with scores of successful professional men and women and the unnumbered beautiful Christian homes.

"Let us see what the possibilities are. It is conservatively estimated that there are twenty million dollars of negro money hidden under mattresses, behind walls and in other places.

"I know of one family in which the wife and children knew that the father had at least $6000. The man was taken ill and died soon after. After a long search everywhere, no other money was found; but the wife and children were certain he had more than that amount.

"The possibilities are so great because our people, with this vast sum of money, can some day be taught to put it to good use, and at that time we will have, in a small way, begun to realize this splendid future we have before us."

OLD RUSS SHIP IS AIR WAR TARGET

TOKYO, Sept. 5.—Stirring events of nineteen years ago were recalled recently by the sinking off Yokoasuka of the old battleship Iwami, doomed under the Washington naval treaty. The old sea fighter was used as a target for practice by the naval air forces. Six bombing planes took part, sending the Iwami to the bottom in less time than was anticipated.

It was expected that the Iwami would provide two days' practice for the bombers and naval attaches of foreign countries were invited to witness the second day's operations. The invitations, however, were recalled because the Iwami was sent to the bottom the first day.

The Iwami, formerly the Russion battleship Orel, was a unit of the Baltic fleet. She survived the battle of the Sea of Japan, May 27, 1905, only to be captured by Admiral Togo's fleet. As a unit of the Japanese fleet, the Iwami took part in 1914 in the operations which cleared the Pacific of German raiders.

SHEIKS OF U. S. SURPASS ARABS AS FAMILY MEN

Desert Species Old With Leathery Faces, Says Returned Traveler.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—"Under all of the depths there comes one little whisper that is a real bit of consolation to the girls of America.

Prof. F. B. Colliver, world traveler and lecturer, who is traveling through America and giving addresses on 'Peoples and Customs of Oriental Lands,' has just made the astounding announcement that "American sheiks make better husbands than bona fide sheiks of the Arabian desert."

After this breath-snatcher the professor continues most calmly:

"The would-be sheiks of America have it all over the Oriental 'Bluebeards' of sheikdom ten to one, in both looks and worldly possessions.

"Though the desert sheik is picturesque, standing tall and slender, in his winding robe of multi-colors, a sheik in usually old, over 50, and ugly, with a dark, leathery face. His home is a tent bare of both furniture and rugs. He eats and sleeps on the desert sands. His possessions are a few camels and donkeys. His daily menu is a meagre one made up of a little rye or barley, seasoned with onions and garlic, with a few dried figs for dessert.

"A sheik is a ruler of a wandering desert band made up of a group of bedouins, or families, banded together usually for protection. He is, in a sense, the mayor of a moving city, and his rule extends for a lifetime. His word is law, and his slightest wish is granted.

"Sheiks are richer in wives than in worldly goods. They are given their choice of the maids of the city. The women do all the work; they are slaves in the truest sense of the word. They cannot leave their masters without permission. For disobedience of their lord and master, death is not too severe a punishment. The costume of the sheik's wives is no better than that of the other women of the band. They are all dressed alike, in plain dark dresses of coarse material, their faces veiled."

SAN LEANDRO TAX RATE CUT TO $.68

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 5.—Town trustees fixed the tax rate for the fiscal year July 1, 1924, to June 1, 1925 at 68 cents on the $100 for the old section of the town and 68 cents in the annexed district. The old town carries bonded indebtedness making the levy one cent higher than the part of the town which was settled later.

San Leandro has the lowest tax rate in the State of California, and so far as a brief research has extended, it is among the very lowest in the United States, according to Mayor Edwin Peck. The low rate of $1.00 of last year which caused San Leandro to be widely commented upon is almost cut in half this year, he pointed out.

The tax rate will be divided among the different funds as follows: General fund, 6 cents; sewer and water, 6; street lights, 9; sewer bonds of 1887, 1; sewer bonds of 1909, 14; library fund, 2½; advertising, ½; fire department, 5; salary, 17; parks and playgrounds, 2; fire apparatus bond, 1½; police, 1; good roads, 16.

Judge Prejudiced, Affidavit Charges

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 4.—John T. Wentz, an attorney here, filed a second affidavit, September 2, against Judge W. J. Gannon which states that he believes such prejudice exists that Wentz cannot have a fair and impartial trial for his clients in Judge Gannon's court. A change of jurisdiction has been asked in the case of F. Anderson versus John Doe, Richard Roe and First Doe, doing business under the firm name of the Sweet Shop. Action on this second affidavit has not yet been taken by Judge Gannon. The first petition was denied.

Broadmoor School Held Too Small

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 5.—Increased attendance at the Washington school in Broadmoor will force the school trustees of San Leandro to build an additional portable. ## Club Asks U. S. to Refund Excess Tax

Asking that excess income tax collected by the government be refunded to the taxpayers members of the Uptown Association have addressed a letter to President Coolidge. The letter was signed by F. M. Fay, president and George E. Sheldon, secretary of the association, and follows:

"The Uptown Association of Oakland California, representing the owners of business properties valued at over fifteen million dollars, hereby earnestly urges you to refund to the taxpayers of the State of California the excess income tax collected by the United States Government.

"In this request we feel that the United States Government has not taken into consideration or recognized the community property laws of our State and we therefore ask that you give this matter your immediate attention as it is of the most vital importance that refund be made to our citizens at the earliest possible date."

Monterey County Cuts Its Tax Rate

SALINAS, Sept. 5.—The Monterey county general tax rate for the current fiscal year has been fixed at $2.28½ outside incorporated cities, and $1.88½ inside incorporated cities. This is a reduction of 1½ cents as compared with last year's rate, due to an increase of more than $1,000,000 in the assessment roll. The lower rate in cities is due to the fact that city property here is not taxed for county road purposes. The road levy in the county this year is 40 cents.

SOVIET OFFICIALS FEAR TROTZKY'S GROWING POWER

Russ Minister of War Has Attained Great Popularity With People.

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—Leon Trotzky, Soviet minister of war, retains a dominant place in the minds and hearts of the Russian Bolshevikii. All efforts within the Communist party and Soviet government to subordinate him have failed. There is little doubt that if a referendum were held among the people of Communist leanings, the creator of the Red Army would be selected to fill the place left vacant by the death of Premier Lenin. But the war minister's associates in the government fear if he were chosen as the national leader of the country, he would attempt eventually to set himself up as a sort of Napoleonic dictator. For this reason they lose no opportunity to repress his personal ambitions and political activities.

TROTZKY IN DEMAND.

Trotzky's services as a speaker are in great demand because of his ready oratorical skill and wide knowledge of international affairs. Scarcely a day goes by that he is not called upon to address a political convention, a scientific congress, or a workingmen's gathering. One of his favorite topics at these meetings is America and the American "bourgeoisie." But Americans at home must sometimes be amused at some of the extravagant and alarmist expressions of the Soviet war minister. He is forever ranting about "America's preparations for a new and more deadly warfare on Europe and Japan."

In a flamboyant speech before the All-Russian Sanitary Congress recently, Trotzky said the European proletariat, in its struggle for power and world revolution, would have to reckon upon "capitalistic America as an irreconcilable and all-powerful enemy." He said the revolution would develop much more slowly in the United States than in Russia and the East. He predicted the people of the East would throw off the yoke of imperialist countries and seize power in Europe, but that "America will remain the most formidable opponent of the proletariat."

BLAMES AMERICA.

The head of the Red Army said that the World War, which reduced Europe to ruins, was made possible only by American support. "Now that the war is over," he continued, "the United States is helping the European bourgeoisie maintain its position. The United States, which has tenaciously refused to recognize Russia, is attempting through the report of the Dawes committee to organize a system for the enslavement of the European laboring masses. America is monstrously rich. Her bourgeoisie possesses unusual resources for maneuvring internal and foreign politics."

The father of Hans Christian Andersen, author of fairy stories, read plays constantly.

PLEASANTON NOTES

PLEASANTON, Sept. 5.—The work of the Ladies' Aid society of the Pleasanton Presbyterian church was resumed this week and more than fifty members were present for a very busy and interesting session. The teachers of the local schools were guests. Plans for the year's work were made. In addition to numerous business meetings, the society will hold occasional sales, the proceeds to go towards the work the society is carrying on in connection with the church. At the October meeting there will be a food sale and before the holidays there will be a miscellaneous article sale, it being decided to postpone the annual bazaar and in its stead hold a fancy work sale, which will possibly include a supper. Mesdames C. A. Gale, T. W. Milner and J. Littlefield were hostesses for the afternoon and had the refreshments and social hour in charge.

HOME CENTER MEETS.

The Pleasanton Farm Center Home Demonstration Department met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Flora Surrey on Ray street, with Miss Maryette Wilson, the county agent, conducting the demonstration. Miss Wilson was assisted by the project leaders of this district and the afternoon was devoted to a discussion on hot foods and their preparation. The past two meetings have been concerned with salads. The center is very anxious that all the women of the valley who are interested in these demonstrations and meetings be present in the future to benefit by the very excellent program which is being carried on this year.

The Pleasanton Branch of the Alameda County Library is again a favorite spot, with vacations over, school in session and everyone anxious to take advantage of what it offers the reading-loving public. During the month of August, Mrs. Louise Walker, the librarian, reported the attendance of 84 persons in addition to 12 visitors who dropped in to look over the reading rooms and books. There were 10 applications filed, and the librarian loaned out 659 books and 40 magazines, and 160 books were taken from the juvenile section. The books on literature, history, useful arts and travel were especially in demand.

The rooms of the Woman's Improvement club in the city hall are being renovated and redecorated this week preparatory to the resumption of activities next Tuesday afternoon when the club will hold its first business meeting of the season. During the past year, the club very generously allowed the high school to use its headquarters for its sewing class and very little in a social way was held there. Now that the rooms are again turned over to the organization some very enjoyable times are being anticipated and next Tuesday's meeting will hear a discussion of the work to be undertaken.

Santa Clara Town Collector Is Named

SANTA CLARA, Sept. 5.—Emile Gaddi was appointed as town collector for the town of Santa Clara to take the place made vacant by the resignation of L. A. Christian for two years collector. The appointment was made by the Santa Clara board of town trustees and will take effect on October 1, at which time Christian will vacate the office to enter upon a business enterprise.

ROME LOSES IN CHURCH DISPUTE

ROME, Sept. 5.—The imposing but age-worn square in front of St. Peter's is at last to be newly paved and overhauled as part of the dressing-up process in anticipation of Holy Year, 1925, but only after more than 50 years of disagreement as to whether the expense should be borne by the Vatican or the municipality of Rome. The city has finally made the necessary appropriations, and work already has been begun.

The square, one of the show places of Rome, has been in need of repair almost ever since the temporal power of the papacy was overthrown in 1870, but until now the city has refused to supply the funds because it was argued that, since it formed an integral part of the cathedral and Vatican grounds, the expense should be borne by the church. The church authorities retorted that it was one of the city's most beautiful and picturesque public squares, since it was always open to the public, and, therefore, it was the city's business to keep it up.

BRENTWOOD

BRENTWOOD, Sept. 5.—Trembley Bros. this week completed sinking a well on the property belonging to Iva Dixon of Oakland, located near the old Bonnickson home place. The water will be used for watering stock and other purposes. The work was under the direction of her brother, Ray Bonnickson.

Paul DeMartini, orchardist of the Lone Tree district, is having a modern bungalow erected on his property, north of town. John Davis is doing the carpenter work.

Lester Cakebread of Oakland spent the week-end with his parents.

Louis Franklin, contractor of Stockton, with a crew of men and sixty head of mules, has started leveling and checking 107 acres of 350 acres of the Bonnickson holdings east of town, to be sowed to alfalfa on completion of the work.

Franklin will give attention to other properties when finished with the Bonnickson contract.

Mrs. A. S. Borba of Knightsen visited with Mrs. Wm. McClarren the first part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burness and baby of Oakland were guests of his sister, Mrs. Karl Abbott, over Sunday and Labor Day. Brentwood was his former home when his father, the late Alex Burness, was agent for the Balfour, Guthrie & Co. He is an attache of the Central National bank.

Mrs. Blanche Walters has returned to her San Francisco home. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Juett, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Wristen.

Arthur Weamer, who was injured in an auto accident from which he was confined in an Oakland hospital for eleven weeks, returned home Monday. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, which will necessitate the use of crutches for at least two months longer.

For the fourth time a New York clerk has been sent to prison for stealing dictionaries.

'THE MARRIAGE CHEAT' TO OPEN WEEK AT T & D

Daring Picture Portrays Romantic Life of Tropics With Star Cast.

Unconventional situations which approach the risque, but at which no time become objectionable, because they vividly portray the romantic life of the tropics, are one of the pleasing features of "The Marriage Cheat," which opens tomorrow at the T. & D. Theater.

The picture is a tribute to motion picture courage. It presents the harshness of savage love and dares to disclose the fact that some of our travelers and missionaries, who invade the tropics, abandon their polish of civilization and become one of the population, influenced by environment. South of the law, where the call of nature is paramount, the picture explains that "there ain't no Ten Commandments."

Adolphe Menjou, Leatrice Joy, Percy Marmont and Laska Winter are starred in the production. Menjou as a carousing husband sailing the south seas in a yacht equals his matchless work in "A Woman of Paris" when he drives his wife to attempt suicide.

Following the rescue of his wife by the missionary, played by Marmont, on a forgotten island, and the consequent love between them, Menjou does splendid acting. Gracefully—as only Menjou can—he withdraws, leaving behind a hard-won happiness.

Nelson, in charge of main headquarters in Chicago, and Gilbert E. Roe, eastern director, with offices in New York City. No definite date, however, has been fixed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 5.—Connecticut supporters of the La Follette ticket threw the New England stumping tour of Senator Wheeler, their vice-presidential candidate, into high gear today and started him away from Providence just after daylight, scheduled to make five speeches before sleeping again. The itinerary began at Willimantic and continued through Hartford, Waterbury, Bridgeport and concluding with New Haven.

MELLON AND REED TELL COOLIDGE OF EUROPE'S PLIGHT

Oklahoma Senator Predicts His State Will Go Republican.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Government business took up practically the entire attention of President Coolidge today, with the regular cabinet meeting in the morning and other officials on his engagement list.

Coolidge has been devoting considerable attention to his plan for investigating agriculture through a commission and it has been indicated he would announce the personnel of the commission at an early date.

The president will leave tomorrow by automobile from Baltimore, where he will deliver an address at the unveiling of the Lafayette statue. He will return immediately after the exercises.

MELLON REPORTS.

President Coolidge gave some attention yesterday to reports on the European situation, received from Secretary Mellon and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania who have just returned from overseas.

Further encouraging reports on the political outlook were presented to Coolidge. Senator Harreld of Oklahoma declared his state would go Republican, both in the presidential and senatorial contests. Senator Reed predicted Pennsylvania would cut the Democratic representation in its congressional delegation.

MUM ON PARLEY.

Although discussing the foreign situation in the brief conferences with some of his visitors, Coolidge made no comment on the proposal of Prime Minister MacDonald on a disarmament conference. He recently made it known he did not consider the time appropriate for such a conference until the reparations plan had been put into complete operation.

Both Secretary Mellon and Senator Reed were enthusiastic over the settlement of the reparations problem. Senator Reed declared the time had arrived for other European countries to open negotiations for settlement of their war debts to this nation.

The "good wishes" of the Lithuanian Society of America were presented to the president during the day.

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 5.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president, devoted himself today to work on the address he will make next Thursday night in Milwaukee.

The Milwaukee speech was originally set for September 15, but Representative Sanders of Indiana, head of the Republican national committee's speakers' bureau, announced yesterday that it had been necessary to move the engagement up to September 11. The change is expected to permit Dawes to leave early in the week of September 15 on another speaking trip.

DAVIS SCHEDULES SIX ADDRESSES ON HIS WESTERN TRIP

Speeches on Pacific Coast on Next Stump Tour Are Planned.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—At least six and possibly nine set addresses will be delivered by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, during his present invasion of the West.

Announcement was made at his personal headquarters that besides his previously announced engagements at Omaha, Neb., on September 6, Denver, Colo., September 11, and Des Moines, Ia., September 17, Mr. Davis will speak at Cheyenne, Wyo., September 12, if hall arrangements can be made there, at Topeka, Kan., September 13, and Bunceton, Mo., September 15.

Tentative arrangements are being made for addresses in Gary, South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind., before he returns east, the latter part of this month, to fill speaking engagements which are being arranged for him in that section.

It was also stated that a second western trip, perhaps to the Pacific Coast, would follow immediately after Davis has completed his engagements in the East.

Fur Theft Suspect To Be Tried Oct. 8

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 5.—Harlan D. Clark, charged with stealing valuable furs from the Allen Fur Shop, will be up for trial on October 8, the case having been set for that date by Judge B. K. Knight.

The fur shop was entered during the night and the loot was found in an auto parked near Brookdale.

MISSING FLIER RETURNS.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 5.—Captain Paul T. Bock, assistant commander of Brooks Field, who was thought lost yesterday while on a flight to Egypt, 120 miles from here, has returned. He had experienced engine trouble.

Wife Beater Fined Despite Mate's Plea

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 5.—Despite tearful pleas on the part of a wife to be lenient with her husband, Judge W. J. Gannon fined Joseph Andread of San Leandro $50 yesterday after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of wife beating. The judge also reminded both parties that one was as much to blame as the other.

WASHINGTONIANS TO MEET.

The regular community forum and fellowship meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Washington will be held tonight at the American Institute, 568 Eighteenth street. A program of literary and musical numbers will be presented.

"Coyote Jim" to Go Back on Job Again

SALINAS, Sept. 5.—"Coyote Jim" Jeffery will soon be on the job again, according to action taken yesterday by the board of supervisors, which made an appropriation to co-operate with the federal bureau of biological survey in a renewal of warfare on predatory animals, which prey upon wild game in the mountains and upon domestic animals and fowls in the rural districts. Jeffery got his nickname by reason of slaying hundreds of coyotes, as well as numerous mountain lions last year, but was laid off during the height of his activities because of lack of funds to defray the expense.

THE FLEET IS HERE.

San Francisco Bay is never without its color, ut when the fleet moves in and the guns oom in salute; when escorting squadrons of irplanes hum overhead as they circle the great arships and make ready for the landing; hen the pumpkin-seed barges of the Admiral d the various commanders scoot like money- gs from ship to shore; when the flags are ying and the crowds are on the shore we are yen the full flare and bustle of splendor.

The fleet is in today. It steamed through e gate, thirty-six in line and a 'plane force erhead. With it came the Secretary of the vy, Admiral Robison and his staff and me 15,000 men. The cities around the Bay e joined in the welcome. They are thrilled the spectacle of the vast and splendid fleet. ey are proud of the ships and the men who an them.

Next Wednesday the battleships will go to a for maneuvers to return on September 12, efense Day, when theoretical attack will be ade upon San Francisco Bay. This will be home port of the big vessels until Septem- r 28 when they sail again for the south.

The visit of Secretary Wilbur to San Fran- sco Bay comes at a time when several im- ortant decisions are hanging. The govern- nt has not decided what it will do with Goat sland where the training school plant stands actically deserted. Heads of the aircraft rces are agreed that a navy air base in this icinity is needed. As most of the big men the Navy are here this week it is probable at agreement upon Navy recommendations a number of important questions will be ached.

JUNIOR SAFETY COUNCIL.

It would have been easy to organize a Junior fety Council in Oakland a long time ago and t the work has but started. The reason for e delay is the promise for an effective organ- ation.

The Junior Safety Council idea has been ven a great deal of study. Investigations ve been made in cities where it has operated. ith the benefits to be obtained, it is ad- tted there are dangers of abuse unless the oups are formed with care and the young embers are given a thorough course of in- uction. The enthusiasm of youth is not to given free will in reporting traffic vio- ions.

Under the plan of the Eastbay Safety Coun- , the Lions Club, and other organizations. Junior Council here will be a valuable ad- tion to the forces working for safe streets d a reduction of traffic accidents. It will ve the city hundreds of dollars each year, ill make the crossings, especially those in e neighborhood of schools, safer, and will elieve parents of just so much anxiety.

The young advocates of safety will extend eir efforts beyond those which are concerned ith traffic. They will inspect school build- gs, suggest protective devices, and deliver arnings. If their concentrated forces do so uch as save a single life in a year the organ- ation will have proved its worth. If the ior Council idea results in the training to fulness of boys and girls who will be the and women of tomorrow it will have d a high purpose. It is a long and diffi- task to make American streets safe and is just one of the means that must be ken.

MARKET PICKS UP.

Improved conditions in Argentina are re- ected almost immediately in the United tates. For that reason manufacturers of this untry are reading with interest and pleasure reports from Buenos Aires where exports ntinue high, agricultural conditions are ex- llent, and improvement in exchange is act- favorably upon the demand for imported oducts.

The imports of Argentina come, for the most rt from this country. Last month, for in- ance, 33,100 cases of agricultural implements re sent there from the United States to s from Europe. Here are some other figures: Typewriters from United States, 1125 cases, from Europe 423 cases; adding machines from United States, 134 and from Europe 3; sewing machines from this country, 7,270 cases and from Europe, 2,548. Wire, cement, and cotton yarns are in the same proportion.

Contrary to the general expectations, exchange has remained remarkably firm in Brazil since the termination of the Sao Paulo revolt. Business has slackened somewhat in Chile while the Philippine export market has improved. China is in the middle of its annual war scare.

A GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY.

While other persons go their simple ways, welcoming a prince or reading of the return of American flyers, Judge Caverly of Chicago is bowed under one of the greatest responsibilities ever put upon judicial shoulders. After all the attention which the trial and the crime of Leopold and Loeb have attracted, the duty of deciding their fate becomes so much the more difficult.

It may be said of Judge Caverly he presided in a way to attract admiration from laymen and attorneys. When the attorney for the prosecution shouted over the heads of accused and judge to voice a direct appeal to mob action the court was prompt in administering the deserved rebuke. So it has been said by some he is unfriendly to the prosecution and, therefore, friendly to the accused.

Clarence Darrow did not argue for Leopold and Loeb. He took occasion to express to a national audience, his own cherished beliefs concerning capital punishment. It is capital punishment that is on trial before the Chicago judge. If capital punishment is right there will be few to say Leopold and Loeb should escape its penalty.

Thousands are clamoring for the death of the accused and thousands are joining in the Darrow argument. Judge Caverly has been threatened by men on each side. Because the defense elected to plead guilty and appeal to the mercy of the court a single man is given the sobering and terrible task of deciding a question which has divided the public.

NEW GLIDING RECORD.

Not so long ago, when they were talking of holding a glider meet in Berkeley, the world was giving an incredulous attention to the reports which had men flying about for four, five and six hours and without so much as a motor in their planes. The other day Lieutenant Thoret of the French air service remained aloft without power for nine hours and four minutes. He beat the previous best record, that of a German who sailed motorless for eight hours and forty-two minutes.

It will not be long before men are flying a whole day in the gliders of which more is being learned with every month. Progress in motorless planing in the past two years has been rapid but, so far, it has not been demonstrated that this method of flying has any practical value. The experimenter is not so much concerned with the value of his tests as with success. He discovers he can do something and time and hard-headed businessmen give it a use.

The glider is an experiment. It provides a sport said to be more thrilling and exhilerating than any other. There is something peculiar in the fact that men experiment so seriously with motorless planes long after the motored kind have been demonstrated. Yet the coming of the steamship has not stopped men from loving the sail boat.

HIGHWAYS.

California can have the finest scenic and commercial highway system in the world. That opportunity is closer than ever before and in this connection it is interesting to read the comments of two competent highway engineers, one from Australia and one from California. The Australian, William Calder of Victoria, after completing a trip of inspection that took him around the world, says that California's highways are among the finest he has seen. The Californian, R. M. Morton, state engineer, says that reconstruction is now far behind traffic requirements, and that a budget of at least $20,000,000 is needed if highway construction is to keep pace with demand.

The visitor sees a highway system already among the finest in the world; the Californian, close to the problem, sees a system that fairly cries for improvement.

Both observers are probably right. California's highways need not be "among" the finest. They can be the finest—and they should be.

California has raised $73,000,000 by highway bond issues. Every cent has been spent; yet 1500 miles of road provided for in 1915 and 1919 are still unimproved. The last act of the Stephens "spend-thrift" highway commission was to tie up its remaining funds in last-minute contracts, let almost at random. The new commission began work as a bankrupt.

The new commission, under Harvey M. Toy, has contented itself with trying to keep abreast of maintenance demands, and with mapping out a comprehensive plan for logical development—interstate connections, roads to productive farming districts, etc.—something that was never done before.

When the state gets ready to re-finance state highway construction, under this plan, it will build up a highway system without a rival in the world. —San Diego Union.

ASTRONOMY.

While scientists turned their eyes toward Mars,
I kept a watch for the shooting stars.

They were said to be darting like flying fish,
And to wish on a star is to get your wish.

But the promises all were so much
gush,
And never a single wish I wush.

The stars had seemingly taken root,

The queer thing is—and we just know you won't believe it—that is the way we stand when we are a little bored! Honest, actually and oh, we are so excited! Just like his highness, we stand, with our weight on one foot and the other turned out at an angle of 90 degrees. And all the time, mind you, we had no idea ours was the royal posture. Isn't life full of delightful surprises?

"RELIGION IS LIKE LOVE."

Why is it that otherwise intelligent persons will ask, "How is religion still possible?" According to the English philosopher, Havelock Ellis, in the Forum, such people do not ask: How is walking still possible? How is hunger still possible? Yet it is really the same kind of question.

Religion, if it is anything at all, must be a natural organic function, like walking, like eating; better still, one may say, like loving. For the function of religion like that of love, is not necessary to life, nor may it with any certainty be stimulated into activity. Need it? These functions are either working within you or are not.

If not, then it is clear that your organism is in no need of them at the present moment, and perhaps is born without the aptitude to experience them. Religion, like love, develops and harmonizes the rarest and most extravagant emotions. It exalts us above the commonplace routine of our daily life, and makes us supreme over the world. But, like love also, it is a little ridiculous to those who are unable to experience it. And since they can survive quite well without experiencing it, let them be thankful, as we also are thankful.

Milton's Reply.

Probably no one has ever called John Milton a wit, yet the great poet could on occasion make a stinging retort, as an old letter, recently discovered, shows. Charles II desired to meet Milton, and when he did he remarked bitterly:

"God hath punished you for your malice toward my father by taking away your eyesight."

"Aye," said Milton, "but before I lost my eyes he lost his head."—Youth's Companion.

THE NATIONAL PRESS

Salt Lake Tribune: "The committee named to devise ways and means of keeping the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast league in Salt Lake has submitted its proposals to the board of governors of the chamber of commerce. They recommend the purchase of the stock of the club from the present owners and ask that the chamber call a meeting to devise the means for making the purchase. The committee believes that 'very few things could happen to this city which would cause as much disastrous outside comment as would the elimination of Salt Lake City from the Pacific Coast Baseball league.'"

Kansas City Star: "The gastronomic crime wave, however, is not a new phenomenon. Like other crimes, they move in cycles. Our departmental historian, M. M. F., reports that back in the '70s Missouri had a governor, B. Gratz Brown, who, in the course of the campaign in which he was Democratic nominee for vice-president, was seen at a political picnic nicely buttering a big piece of watermelon. 'The scandal would not down,' perorates our commentator, 'and the ticket lost thousands of votes in the West.'"

New York Herald Tribune: "It is to be feared that Henry Ford's dream of abolishing slums and ending poverty by scattering city populations to the four winds will be realized even less speedily than was his dream of getting the boys out of the trenches. Though every American city is far too big to fit the space it occupies on the map, the trend of population is still continuing toward it. And Mr. Ford, by turning out his motor cars in vast numbers, has added greatly to their congestion."

Philadelphia Ledger: "The merger of the Pere Marquette and the Erie with the revamped and revised Nickel Plate assures another great rail system for the eastern half of the United States. The consent of the Pere Marquette rounds out one of the greatest consolidations in rail history. The new system will have 14,000 miles of track, a capital value of $1,500,000,000, and will link the Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes with the Atlantic seaboard through 9000 miles of actual railway."

New York Times: "Senator La Follette has been so busy serving customers at the Labor end of the Progressive counter that he has almost neglected the farmers at the other end. Though he has a rather large family of calamities, it would break his heart to lose one of them."

THE TEST.

God won't ask if you were clever,
For I think He'll little care;
When your roll is done forever,
He may question: "Were you square?
Did you do the best you could do
With the knowledge you possessed?
Did you do the things you should do?"
That will be your earthly test.

God won't ask what sort of labor
Life commissioned you to do.
Were you richer than your neighbor?
Of the many or the few?
But you knew what right and wrong were,
What was bad and what was good,
And you knew what weak and strong were;
Did you do the best you could?

Were you skilled, were you daring,
Were you brilliant? What of those?
All the medals you are wearing,
Once in death your eyelids close,
Will remain on earth behind you;
All you'll ever take away
Is the soul which God assigned you
For its tenement of clay.

There the great may be the humble
And the poor may be the rich;
And the weak and frail who stumble,
And the digger in the ditch
May receive eternal glory
For the good they tried to do;
God shall smile to hear your story
If you lived to what you knew.

When old Mr. Seerton made his first visit to the city he saw and heard a great many new and strange things, but he was always wary in his comments.

One day his little granddaughter enticed him into a tea shop, and leading him to a small table, proceeded to order some eclairs, a delicacy of which she was extremely fond.

"I know you'll like them, grandpa," she said, coaxingly, and the old gentleman bravely tackled the unfamiliar object.

"Isn't it delicious, grandpa?" inquired the little girl, seeing a strange expression come over her grandfather's face as he took his first mouthful.

"Well, it may be," said Mr. Seerton, in a noncommittal tone, "but doesn't it appear to you to be just a little mite underbaked in the middle?"

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By DR. W. A. BRADY.

SOPHOMORIC ACNE.

We discussed the management of freshmanic pimples the other day. This is an advanced discussion. Ordinary little crops of puberty pimples are practically physiological and scarcely call for treatment. But when the pimples begin to get pretentious, persistent and sophomoric there is some occasion to try a few remedies, just for luck.

Acne consists of a crop of pimples, commonly associated with comedones (blackheads) upon the face and sometimes on the chest and back. Artificial acne is often caused by the local irritation of oils in various occupations, and such acne appears upon the arms or thighs or other exposed surfaces, but usually not on the face. Acne may be caused by certain drugs taken internally, notably bromids and iodids (and these are common ingredient of various nostrums which credulous people take). Sophomores are credulous people. When I was a sophomore I seriously entertained the idea of consulting one of those advertising quacks about my pimples, but thank fortune I hadn't the price.

Acne is no respecter of social classes and is not evidence of lack of care of the skin. It is not evidence of any particular functional irregularity or of any wrong habit. If it has any special significance at all it is merely that the sweat and oil glands of the skin are unusually active at the period of adolescence.

Some great skin specialists have ascribed the chief role in the causation of acne to a microbacillus, notably Unna, Hodara and Sabouraud. According to Sabouraud, comedones are due to infection with the specific microbacillus of seborrhea. American skin specialists have not accepted Sabouraud's teaching, however. The accepted view in this country is that the blackheads first develop from physiological and mechanical causes, and then the sebaceous or oil follicles about the blackheads (or whiteheads, whichever the comedones may be) become infected with the common pus-producing germs, causing pimples or young boils. Sabouraud holds that the specific seborrheic micro-bacillus is the cause of the comedones, but he teaches that secondary infection with various staphylococci must occur to produce the pimples. The American authorities merely maintain that Sabouraud's theory does not square well with the general characteristics of acne. In my eyes it seems to square as well as most of the accepted theories of etiology do with the known characteristics of a disease. And Sabouraud's teaching is not merely a theory, for he has shown that one form of seborrhea, dandruff, may be communicated by inoculation. Moreover, the most successful methods of treatment of various forms and degrees of acne are based upon the infection theory. This is not to imply that there is anything "catching" about acne, at least not anything more than in simple seborrhea (excessive oiliness of skin or scalp) or simple dandruff.

Whether systematic or constitutional factors are of importance in the causation of acne is a question which the experts are not agreed upon. At any rate there is precious little if anything gained by treatment with such systemic or constitutional remedies as iron, arsenic, the various "correctives" of digestion and various empirical or arbitrary restrictions of diet.

HIS ANXIETY PERSONAL.

"When Archbishop Trench was dean of Westminster," says a British divine who lately visited the United States, "he delegated Canon Cureton to preach at the Abbey on a certain saint's day. On such days the boys of Westminster school attended service, and afterward had the rest of the day as a holiday.

"While Mr. Cureton, on the morning of the day he was to officiate, was looking over his sermon at the breakfast table, his son asked, in a tone vibrating with anxiety:

"'Father, is your sermon long today?'

"'No, Jimmy, not very.'

"'But how long? Please tell me.'

"'About twenty minutes, I should say. But why are you so anxious to know?'

"'Because the boys said they would thrash me if you are more than half an hour.'"

U. C. RALLIES PERILED BY NEW EDICT

President Campbell Bans All Thursday Night Events; Students Plead End of Tradition Will Result

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—Because President William W. Campbell and Prof. Joel G. Hildebrand, dean of men, believe the University of California is a place for study and not for "vaudeville entertainment," the college's famous rallies are threatened.

With plans going ahead by students for the freshman and pajamarino rallies, President Campbell has called attention of the student body heads to a "gentlemen's agreement" entered into last March, when the president gave his consent to the California-Pennsylvania New Year's day game on the provision that the students would eliminate Thursday night rallies, the traditional day for gatherings for 20 years.

Students are up in arms over the so-called "pact" and a series of conferences is being held with Dr. Campbell and Dean Hildebrand in efforts to obtain a new ruling. To hold a rally on either Friday or Saturday night would spell failure for those famous events, says Gareth Kellam, chairman of the rally committee.

Friday or Saturday night rallies, Kellam declares would lack the support of more than 2000 students, who return to homes in nerby communities for the week-end. In addition, he declares, training rules for teams prevent them from joining in week-end festivities. He also cites that most of the social events of college life are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights.

President Campbell and Dean Hildebrand declare that students must live up to their pact. They cite furthermore that rallies have grown from inspirational meetings to cheer athletes on to victory to good-sized vaudeville shows keeping students out until midnight and later.

The letter which President Campbell sent to the student executive committee in which he agrees to the New Year's game but with [illegible] addition added was made public today for the first time. In it he says in part:

"I request the kind office of the executive committee in discouraging the holding of football rallies in the regular season on any evenings but Friday and Saturday evenings, with the single exception of the Thursday evening preceding the annual California-Stanford game. Friday is a heavy day in the classrooms and laboratories. A Thursday evening rally does interfere with the work of many hundreds of students in the fields of activities which they come here to cultivate. A student may attend the opera in San Francisco on one of the earlier evenings of the week without detriment to the scholastic welfare of others. A football rally on the campus compels freshmen other students, numbering many hundreds, to attend."

In offering a compromise to the president, Burton King, chairman of the campus athletic council, has suggested rallies which end at 9.30 o'clock Thursday nights.

NOTED GATHERING WELCOMES NEW ZETA PSI CHAPTER

Prominent men of the Eastbay, San Francisco and other parts of the state, together with a number from the east, are taking part today in three-day ceremonies attending the installation of a new California chapter of the Zeta Psi fraternity, the first college Greek letter organization established on the Pacific coast.

The new chapter is to be at the southern branch of the University of California, in Los Angeles. The installation and initiation ceremonies, however, are being conducted at the Zeta Psi house, 2251 College avenue, Berkeley, and will be followed by a dinner, attended by approximately 256 members, at the Hotel Oakland tomorrow.

RECORD ASSEMBLAGE.

Among the well known men who are participating in what is said to be the greatest Zeta Psi assemblage ever held on the Pacific coast, all of whom are alumni of the fraternity's chapters at the University of California or Stanford, are the following: Charles K. Field, former president of the Bohemian club, and editor of Sunset Magazine; Frank P. Deering, also a former president of the Bohemian club, and a well known San Francisco attorney; Colonel George C. Edwards, professor at the University of California; William B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe railroad; Phillip E. Bowles, San Francisco and Oakland banker; Professor Carl C. Plehn of the University of California; John W. Maillard, San Francisco importer and capitalist; John A. McNear, San Francisco grain merchant; Edwin R. Jackson, president of J. H. # DEFENSE DAY COMMITTEE PLANS READY

Final arrangements for an extensive program for Friday, September 12, Defense Day, in Oakland, were completed today, according to an announcement by Captain Monroe Friedman, chairman of the Defense Day committee. The program includes a luncheon, a parade in the early evening and a demonstration and a program of music and talks at the Oakland Auditorium. For the week preceding the day Defense Day activity enrollments will be taken at a tent at Fourteenth and Franklin.

At the luncheon at the Hotel Oakland Friday noon all National Guard and Reserve officers, United States Army, are invited, together with the presidents of all civic, fraternal, patriotic and trade organizations. Every school in Oakland will have a special Defense Day program.

Senator Samuel Shortridge will be the principal speaker of the evening at the Auditorium Arena.

CONVICT IN AUTO CASE ASKS MERCY

Convicted yesterday by a jury of the charge of taking a machine without the consent of the owner, Sam James, negro, today asked for probation. His request was referred to the probation officer by Superior Judge Fred V. Wood.

James was instructed to write a letter to the court telling what he expects to do if he is released on probation.

In accepting the plea for probation Judge Wood remarked that it had been reported to him that he had been quoted as saying that he would not send any man to prison for the theft of an automobile. Judge Wood declared that this was erroneous. "I did say that where a charge of driving without the consent of the owner is brought I will always inquire carefully for possible extenuating circumstances. This is not a charge of theft of a machine but only of driving a car without the owner's consent and I think that this should be a police court charge rather than one for a penitentiary offense."

Swimmin' Hole On Feather River Being Dynamited

They're dynamiting the Old Swimmin' Hole.

Advices from Spanish Creek, in the Feather River country, announce that parts of the Oakland Recreation Camp's swimming hole are now merrily traveling through the air, including rocks, tree-stumps, pebbles and hair-combs which were lost during the recent vacation season.

According to Superintendent Jay Nash of the recreation department, the swimming-hole at Spanish Creek was somewhat too shallow this year, but a crew of workers is now applying a remedy which consists of a few cases of 40 per cent dynamite. The hole, says Nash, will really be a hole next year.

As soon as the Spanish Creek cavity is dredged out to a stately depth, the workers have been ordered to travel to South Fork, where they will knock a few acres out of the bottom of the Tuolumne river, right at the camp.

"Our swimming facilities will be much improved next year," promises Nash.

56 ASPIRE TO POLICE JOBS

Civil service examinations will start tomorrow to fill vacancies in the police department caused by recent promotions. The examinations will mainly be held by Secretary C. C. DeWolf of the civil service board at Oakland High school.

DIRECTORS NAMED FOR CONTROL OF GREEK THEATER

Action Marks Institution of New Policy for U. C. Dramatics.

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—The University of California today stepped back six years and took up dramatic affairs on the Berkeley campus where they were left off with the death of Professor William Dallam Armes.

A plan, similar to that in effect under the regime of Professor Armes, has been announced for the Greek theater. As was indicated by President William W. Campbell, when Professor Samuel J. Hume relinquished his control of college dramatic affairs there will be no one director of the Greek theater in the future.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of a "board of directors" to take over the Greek theater management, which, in a larger sense means, the control of all dramatic and musical events on the Berkeley campus.

Prof W. Popper of the department of Semitic languages has been named chairman of the board, while other members are: Professor Modeste Alloo, music department; Professor C. D von Neumayer, public speaking; Professor D. H. Lehmer, mathematics; Professor Walter S. Weeks, mining; Professor M. J. Sprkman, social instruction; Professor H. J. Smith, English and Professor W. R. Dennes, philosophy. Mrs. R. M Neustadt will remain as secretary of the Greek theater office.

PROFESSIONALISM MINIMIZED

The policy follows, also, the recommendation of a committee of three faculty members headed by Prof. Leo J. Richardson after an investigation of things dramatic on the college campus. This committee, of which the other two members were Prof. C. D. von Meumayer and Prof. Max Radin, recommended that every encouragement be offered to students to take part in dramatic enterprises but that the opportunities for "outside professionals be minimized on the Berkeley campus."

The recommendation, coming as a direct attack on the Wheeler Hall productions of Prof. Hume, was accepted by President Campbell and announced as his policy for the Greek theater. In announcing the "new policy" for the Greek theater today it is declared that encouragement will be given to the Little Theater of university students and to other campus dramatic organizations.

There will be a "limited number" of professional performances in the Greek theater as elsewhere on the campus, following the plan of the late Professor Armes in attracting only celebrities of the highest attainments to the university. It is announced also that music will be stressed as an important part of the new scheme of things.

In sanctioning a changed policy for the Greek Theater, President Campbell has declared that the university can now remove itself from the criticism of competing professionally with theaters about the bay. He had previously announced that he could not sanction any further other the "type" of the Wheeler Hall plays as staged by Professor Hume or the commercial manner in which they were operated. Under the new plan there will be no compensation for appearances in college amateur dramatics as was in effect for the Wheeler Hall productions.

Capturing Jumbo of the Deep

An expedition conducted by navy reservists and scientists to Guadelupe Island of Mexico, through special permission of President Obregon, was allowed to capture two sea elephants for the San Diego zoo, from the herd on the desolated island, which is rarely visited by man. This picture shows a view of a herd of sea elephants. One of their number is being captured by the expedition. A P. & A. photographer who was permitted to accompany the expedition is believed to have taken the first series of pictures of sea elephant hunting. The lower picture shows a closeup of one of the huge animals.

British Seek Spouse For African Empress

CAIRO, Sept. 5.—The British colonial officials have had many difficult problems to solve, but they have run up against a baffling puzzle in the matrimonial desires of Empress Judith of Abyssinia. The Ethiopian ruler wants a husband. She is now 48 years old and insists that she is old enough to marry. The problem is to find a prince of color who would be a suitable match for the royal spinster.

Santa Clara Sends First Grapes East

SAN JOSE, Sept. 5.—The first carload of grapes to leave Santa Clara valley for the eastern markets left the J. G. Shaw packing plant in this city Wednesday night, destined for New York. Sixteen tons of choice Masson Salvadore comprise the shipment. It is expected that the carload of grapes will bring $120 per ton in the east. The grapes ripened two weeks earlier than usual this year.

ZETA PSI CHAPTER GIVEN WELCOME

tice F. W. Henshaw of the California supreme court; Clarence J. Wetmore, of the Wetmore-Bowen company of Livermore; and many others.

The initiation of the members of the new chapter will be carried on throughout the three days, which began Thursday and will end tomorrow. There are about 30 candidates to be initiated. This ceremony will be followed by the installation of the officers of the new chapter, and then by the formal presentation of the charter.

The new chapter will be known in the fraternity as Alpha Sigma, and will be the twenty-eighth on the roll of the organization. It comprises the membership of what until the present has been a local fraternity at the Southern Branch, and was the oldest of the eight or ten "locals" at the institution. It will be the first chapter of a national fraternity to be established at the Southern Branch.

In this respect it follows the precedent set by both its sister Zeta Psi chapters in this state. Iota chaper of Zeta Pi was the first national Greek letter organization to be established at the University of California, and, in fact, on the Pacific coast. It was organized in 1870, soon after the founding of the university. Twenty-one years later, Mu chapter was established at Stanford university, as the first fraternity at that institution.

The fraternity itself is now in its seventy-eighth year, having been founded in 1847.

The dinner tomorrow night will be held in the tapestry grill room of the Hotel Oakland. Edwin R. Jackson of Piedmont, a member of the class of '96 at the University of California, is chairman of the committee of arrangements, which also includes Thomas G. Taylor Jr., California '97, and Shirley Baker, Stanford '95. Charles K. Field, Stanford '95, will act as toastmaster. Among the speakers will be Clarence J. Wetmore, who is said to have been the first student to register at the University of California; Colonel George C. Edwards, now on the university faculty, who was a member of the class of '73; Professor Plehn, James Hanan, president of the active chapter at the University of California, and Frank M. Findley, head of the Stanford chapter.

Baby and Goat Make Hazardous Journey

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Sept. 5.—Braving 650 miles of treacherous and open waters between Seattle and Ketchikan, Linden Pentz, his wife, baby and a goat, arrived here recently in a 16-foot open motor boat. The cruise, which took two months, was made without mishap.

After going to Skagway, the family will abandon its boat and travel into the interior of Alaska.

Native Daughters Hostesses to Vets

SARATOGA, Sept. 4.—More than 100 disabled veterans of the world war were yesterday guests of the members of Miramonte Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, of Mountain View, at the home of Senator James D. Phelan, at Villa Montalvo, this place.

A parade of 72 automobiles bore the wounded veterans from the Palo Alto hospital of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau to the beautiful hillside home, where a lively program awaited the men on the spacious lawns of the villa. A big dinner was served in the early afternoon, and the boys were strted back to their wards at about 4 p. m. after a day of gaiety and pleasure. Mountain View men and women donated the banquet and the transportation for the disabled men.

Aged Man Flips Coin to Decide on Accepting Home

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

ROME, Ga., Sept. 5.—Gus Stockmayer, who has eighty-six years of wrinkles on his tired-looking face, wouldn't make up his mind to go to the poorhouse, so he let a coin do it.

A Salvation Army worker pleaded with Stockmayer that the "home" was the place to rest his weary bones during the final period of his life.

"I won't say 'Yes,'" the aged man declared.

Then came a pause as the Salvation Army worker tried to think of some means of persuasion that would prove effective.

"Got a coin?" the old man suddenly asked. "Pitch it up."

With a tinkle it fell to the floor.

"What is it?" Stockmayer asked with a gasp.

"Heads," replied the Salvation Army man.

"Thank God! I'll go," the old man mumbled and went to his new home.

After his arrival there he declined to sleep on his bed, saying he had not slept indoors for fifty years. Each night he sleeps on the grass just off the window of his little room.

OBREGON PLANS TRIP TO EUROPE

BERLIN, Sept. 5. — General Obregon will visit Europe next December, according to General Pascual Ortiz Rubio, the Mexican minister to Germany. He says the Mexican government is now firmly established and General Calles, recently elected to the presidency, will assume direction of a stable government.

General Obregon will visit England first and will later go to France, according to the Berlin minister. He will travel as an ex-president and without any official standing.

Turlock Evangelist And Mayor Clash

TURLOCK, Sept. 5.—Following refusal by the board of trustees to allow Evangelist Moore to move his revival tent from its present location, a heated discussion arose between Mayor Bridegroom and Moore, during which the latter accused the mayor of having "personal feelings" in the matter. The site selected for the tent between two frame buildings was declared by the trustees to constitute a fire hazard, and the trustees refused permission, notwithstanding the fact that it is church property. A. G. Chalom, owner of the property where the tent is now located, has asked Moore to move his meetings to another location, saying that too much noise is being made during the revivals.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Miss Edith Perry, whose marriage was postponed five times because of sickness in her family, was successful on the sixth attempt.

CHICHESTER SANE, JURY SAYS; WIFE FAINTS, HE WEEPS

"I Still Love Him," Broker's Mate Declares: "I Did It All for Him."

Paul Chichester, San Francisco broker, who has been facing charges of insanity brought by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Chichester, was declared sane yesterday afternoon by a 9 to 3 verdict of the jury.

Following the announcement of the verdict Chichester slumped over on the desk in front of him and burst into tears. His wife crossed the room to where he was and after a moment's hesitation they embraced. Suddenly Chichester turned from her and left the room. Mrs. Chichester fainted and was carried into the judge's chambers.

Chichester, gathering his belongings in the Emergency hospital, where he has been held during his trial, refused to comment on his domestic relations.

"I'm mighty glad to be out of this mess. It is the worst I was ever in. I'm going on a hunting trip in the mountains for a rest."

Mrs. Chichester, revived, said she was sure the jury was just in its decision.

"I still love him," she declared. "I hope he won't misunderstand all this, because I did it for him."

Matt Moore & Patsy Ruth Miller in "Fools in the Dark" at the State

ANOTHER member of the Juvenile Troupe of The TRIBUNE has achieved prominence in the theatrical world. At all events he has won sufficient attention to call him to the notice of an international star with the result that he is soon to make his debut in her support in a new play.

Reference is made to young Master Oliver Hyde who at fourteen has won dramatic spurs and has been accorded a role of no small importance in "Starlight" the new play of Doris Keane soon to be presented in San Francisco and later scheduled for a local production.

Despite his youth the boy has had considerable experience in the theater. At fourteen he finds himself a fellow with ten years of acting behind him and a few instances, at least, of notability. He has been on the stage since he was four and has run the gamut of juvenile roles.

After being graduated from The TRIBUNE juvenile organization he has appeared frequently at the Fulton and Alcazar theaters in stock. Some of his best work was done in support of Robert Warwick in "Blood and Sand" and with Ruth Renick in "Secrets," both at the local dramatic stock theater.

In "Starlight," Oliver will play the role of the twelve-year-old son of Miss Keane. He opens his engagement in Sacramento on September 18 and then moves to the Curran theater in San Francisco for a two weeks' engagement to be followed by a few days at the Auditorium here.

The thrills which their famous father, William de Mille provides in the movies are not enough for the Misses Agnes and Margaret. With their mother and Laura Straub, dramatic star of the university, the two young women are now engaged in some perilous mountain climbing in the high Sierra region.

De Mille had planned to accompany the party but he is a careful soul and recalled at the eleventh hour that he had certain celluloid duties to perform. The party will be guided by Leonardo Keeler, son of Charles Keeler, the Berkeley chamber of commerce poet, and Ralph Brandt a student at the southern branch of the university.

The trip this time will be an eventful one in that Keeler and Brandt plan to cache food and clothes for a snow shoe excursion up the slopes of treacherous Hermit Mountain this winter, marking the first time that such an attempt has been made.

U.S. WORLD FLIERS REVIVE FAME OF YORKSHIRE TOWN

Village Old When Caesars' Legions Annexed Britain to Rome Entertains.

BROUGH, England, Sept. 5. — This quaint Yorkshire village by the River Humber, proud of its long history, is no less proud of the distinction which the American round-the-world aviators conferred upon it.

Brough was old when Caesar's legions annexed Britain to the Roman Empire. The visit of Lieutenant Smith and his five gallant companions lifted this quiet hamlet out of its long past and humdrum present to a place of world importance. For it was selected by the American airmen as the base where they overhauled their machines and made final preparations for the last leg of their trans-Atlantic flight home. Great was the rejoicing of the townsfolk when the six American fliers alighted here.

WELCOME GENUINE.

The welcome of the inhabitants was genuine and sincere and within 24 hours they had taken the visitors to their hearts and homes. The Blackburn Aeroplane Works placed their factory and staff at the full disposal of the Americans, who were guests during their stay at the social club which the Blackburn company maintains for its employees.

It was the industry of the Americans, their willingness to do any hard work in connection with the overhauling of their planes, that won the admiration of the Brough people. The village folk stood by to watch the Americans at their work, and first acquaintance ripened at once into mutual friendship.

SOUVENIRS RETAINED.

The Americans had so much to do that they found little time to meet the villagers outside the airplane works. Nevertheless, at the little village inn in Brough, the publican and his daughter have priceless souvenirs of the visit of the airmen. These are the long-stemmed churchwarden pipes which the aviators smoked one evening when they visited the inn.

These pipes, each autographed by the smoker, are proudly displayed by the inkeeper. Already an order has been given for a glass case in which to preserve and display them in years to come.

When the time came for the Americans to hop off for Kirkwall their leave-taking of the villagers demonstrated once more the genuineness of the friendships formed in the space of less than a fortnight. All the village folk were assembled by the riverside to see the visitors take off. The birdmen bade good-bye to each by name, with many promises to write letters and send snapshots which the fliers had taken of their friends.

WYOMING YIELDS 3 MILLION YEARS OLD RHINOCEROS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—A three-million-year-old skeleton of a giant rhinoceros has been found at Van Tassel, Wyo., by Dr. Paul Miller, curator at Walker Museum, University of Chicago, it is made public here.

Curator Miller recently returned from a two months' expedition and fossil hunt in the western state.

The bones, embedded in rock, are soon to be shipped to the Midway campus, where Dr. Miller will dig them out and put them together for purposes of study and exhibition. The skull, the only part which has thus far been removed from its rock covering, is two feet long, reveals the head of a vertebrate which promises to be one of the largest of its kind ever located in the United States, and may result in the identification of a new kind of rhinoceros.

Five large boxes of fossils have resulted from the expedition, the announcement from the museum said. Much of the material remains unidentified. It is believed that the process of classification, to be started as soon as the boxes arrive, will disclose prehistoric animals whose existence and history have been unknown to modern scientists.

MOTOR SPEEDER MEETS HAND CAR, 1 DEAD, 1 INJURED

MERCED, Sept. 5. — Gamaliel Espinosa, 18, was killed and his brother, Samuel, 20, seriously injured when a hand car which they were operating on the Yosemite Valley railroad above Bagby, in the Sierras, was struck by a motor speeder containing a section crew. The younger laborer was killed and the other severely cut. He lost his left ear. The parents of the two live in Mexico.

Man Forces Way to Jail to Get Meal

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Out of work, hungry and discouraged, Lawrence Teck, 22, decided last night to get himself arrested so he could get something to eat in jail. His efforts to attract the attention of police by trying to force an entrance to a clothing store were unsuccessful, so he stopped a passerby and asked him to hold him until an officer arrived. This time he was arrested, but when he reached the city jail dinner was all cleared away and the kitchen closed. So police detectives took up a collection and sent him out for a square meal—after which they booked him on suspicion of burglary.

CAVERLY IS READY TO WRITE OPINION

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Judge John R. Caverly, who will decide whether Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb will go to the gallows or the penitentiary for the murder of young Robert Franks, has finished a digest of the evidence and has only to write his opinion as to the punishment, he indicated today.

Judge Caverly said he would leave the city in a few days for an unnamed destination to write his opinion, which will cover only two or three typewritten pages. He said that sentence would be pronounced without fail on September 10.

STOMACH ACIDS POISON THE SYSTEM, SAYS ANDRE

Noted Chemist Describes the Helpful Action of Karnak in Eliminating Depraved Body Impurities

By W. CARTER PHILLIPS

If you have ever burned coal in your furnace that left it so full of clinkers it wouldn't heat, then you can readily understand how a weak, gaseous stomach that fails to digest the food, undermines your health, says M. Pierre Andre, noted French chemist and discoverer of the celebrated medicine Karnak.

An inactive stomach causes your intestines, liver and kidneys to become clogged with putrified substances and is the source of poisonous acids which get into your blood and then into your body tissues.

As Nature is always working to force these impurities from the system, they generally seek their way out at the point of least resistance. Coming through the pores of your skin they cause pimples, blackheads and irritating rashes; they may work out through the membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes, causing catarrh and bronchitis. If these acids get into your joints and muscles, then rheumatism is the result.

Karnak aids Nature in bringing about a return of good health by strengthening the organs of digestion and elimination, setting the stomach in order and helping it convert the food into rich red blood. The body poisons are passed out through the natural channels in a thorough, natural way, so that they are free and active and no longer clogged with impurities that stagnate your whole system, sap your strength and make you unfit for work.

"Put your stomach in order with Karnak and stop your troubles at their source," says the noted chemist.

Karnak is sold in Oakland and Berkeley exclusively by the Owl Drug Company—Advertisement.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY

by Ad Schuster

TAKING THE FIRST

"I WILL marry the one who first proposes," Leona Murray settled the problem of two suitors of impecunious youth and affluent middle age, with this decision. For Fred Dashin, her young admirer, she held a mixed feeling of resentment and admiration. Had he not been so bashful he might have won long ago and there would have been no perplexing question. As to Aylott Plam, well he could provide a good home, was not much over forty, and was good looking.

Perhaps, if she had not been influenced by her parents the girl would have accepted neither, or it might have been she would have discouraged Aylott. For weeks she had received the attentions of both, hoping that Fred would summon sufficient courage to say the words which would rescue her from Aylott and the plans of a father and mother. And now, rendered desperate, she was determined to say "yes" to the first who asked.

Something of the seriousness of the situation may have occured to Fred Dashin for he tried bravely to put the question. Obstinately, Leona refused to help. She would never marry a coward, she told herself. If she were worth having she were worth the asking. So Fred stammered, ran his hand around his collar, and talked of the many prospects for business with the election out of the way.

When he left he took home with him the declaration he should have made. He even took it to his office and voiced it, bravely this time, into a dictaphone. With the windows closed and the keyholes locked he spoke the tender words of love putting into them unconsciously the tones and the tricks of a man dictating a letter.

"Leona," he started, "there is a matter of importance I would like to, ahem, call to your attention. It had occurred to me, er—hrmm, will you marry me?" As it struck him there was an anonymous quality about the declaration, and she might not be able to recognize the voice he added. "This is Fred Dashin speaking."

The rest would be simple. Leona's father still owned one of the old-fashioned talking machines designed for cylinderical records. He would send this one to the girl, count upon her playing it alone, for the father detested music, and await his answer. In this way, he reflected he would get in a proposal before the next evening, when Aylott would call on Leona and it was just possible that every moment would count.

Leona received the package and recognizing the writing as Fred's, refused to humor the gift with a trial. He had had his opportunity, she decided and passed it by. Now she would give Aylott the chance and Aylott was romantic and eager. With the least encouragement he would propose, she would accept, and Fred Dashin could go through life with a broken heart. Strangely, the idea seemed to comfort the girl.

Aylott Plam, dressed in his best, expressed determination in every line when he called that evening. His long hair which gave a poetic appearance was glossed with a marvelous preparation which he had hitherto held in contempt.

"Leona," he said, "this is a marvelous evening. The moon was made for poety and love. It is the perfect opportunity." And Aylott paused to give the girl the full benefits of an adoring gaze.

The proposal was coming. She would accept him, Leona knew there was no backing out now, and that the plans she had cherished were about to be killed forever. Aylott's glance fell upon the talking machine and a new thought came.

"Place a record there," he said, "Music, and the moon, and a beautiful girl . . . an evening which may be remembered all our lives."

The girl, wishing desperately that a storm would break to carry her, Aylott, and the house away that this proposal might be averted, fitted the cylinder to the machine. She started at the sound of Fred's voice, but her astonishment was as nothing compared to that of Aylott.

"Leona," he heard the machine saying, "there is a matter of importance I would like to, ahem, call to your attention. It has occured to me, er—hrmm—will you marry me?"

"Shut it off! Shut it off! That's not music!"

It may be said for Aylott that he persisted in spite of the embarrassing interruption. Leona stopped him.

"I cannot marry you, Aylott," she said, "because I have accepted another."

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

by Adele Garrison

FOR BESS DEAN

MRS. BIRD'S driver drew his ramshackle car beside the subway kiosk, and spoke hurriedly.

"I've got this straight now, have I? That subway station"—he named it—"in Brooklyn two hours from now."

"You have it—exactly," Alfred replied gravely as he helped me out, and made a motion toward his pocket. I nudged him sharply, and he took the hint and turned toward the subway stairs with me.

"Why didn't you want me to tip him?" he asked. "I obeyed, as my mother and my wife have taught me to do when anything feminine speaks, but I don't understand—"

"In the first place, he would have been gone before you extracted the money from your pocket," I said lightly. "In the second place, his car wasn't a taxi, and giving him money might get him into trouble if a policeman saw him; in the third place, he wanted nothing which would attract attention to him, and in the fourth place I do not know his status. He may be Mrs. Bird's brother for all I know, and if he is, you would insult him by offering him a tip."

We were at the foot of the stairs when I finished and Alfred took off his hat and made me a low bow, much to the amusement of the few people gathered near the ticket window. I am as used to his vagaries as to those of Dicky, but just now the flamboyant gesture irritated me as did the words accompanying it.

"Your great grandfather must have been a Puritan minister," he said. "Are you going on to your fifthly and sixthly and seventhly?"

ALFRED IS CONTRITE.

"No, I'm going to stop right there," I said, conscious that my voice held a trace of testiness but not caring particularly. "And please don't forget that until those Harrison children are safely on board that ship I'm not anxious to have any attention attracted to me, either."

I finished the sentence with a forced little laugh, but Alfred, I knew, recognized my real reaction toward his nonsense.

"By Jove, Madge, I'm sorry," he said contritely. "I feel like kicking myself up those stairs and down again. But as that would only make us a trifle more conspicuous, I'll content myself with a promise to be mum as an oyster till this stunt is over."

The laugh I gave him this time was not forced. It is as impossible to be angry at Alfred Durkee as it is at Dicky. The two men are much alike. But the involuntary mental comparison put all inclination to mirth from me. I am no clinging vine, unable to be happy unless my husband is constantly by my side, but I share with most women the normal longing for one's own man when there is a grave emergency confronting one.

"I DIDN'T ASK HER."

It was no fault of either Dicky's or mine that circumstances had left him with his mother and Junior on the farm and sent me on the hectic journey with the Braithwaites and the Harrison children, of which this little expedition with Alfred was a part. The thought of Mollie Fawcett had marred seriously our relations, but I could not repress a homesick little longing for his presence and aid and an unjust, unreasonable but natural comparison of the way he would have done things with the way Alfred was doing them.

With Alfred, as with Dicky, however, one has no time for reflection. His promise to be "mum as an oyster" I took at the proper value, so far below par as to be unrecognizable; and indeed, no sooner were we seated in the subway than he began to speak, but hurriedly, stammeringly, and in a low tone.

"I say, Madge," I don't want you to misunderstand Bess being in my office today. I know you know about the whole blessed business and I wouldn't have you think—really I didn't ask her to come, or even know she was coming until she walked in—"

"You don't have to tell me that, Alf," I returned, a distinct edge to my voice now. "But if you expect to keep the young woman away from your office or your home by passive ignorance of what she intends to do, you'll find her a fairly frequent visitor."

I shot a quick, furtive look at him and saw his cheeks redden angrily.

"There you go," he said. "You and Lelia and Mother and—yes—the Dicky-bird, are all alike, each of you swinging the hammer on that poor girl. Well, I will acquit Lelia of knocking very much. She's only handed out a few delicate stiletto stabs. But the rest of you? Why, you'd think the girl was an unprincipled, vamping creature wildly in love with me, to hear the lot of you go on."

There was something in his voice, faint, almost undefinable, which yet savored of subconscious gratification at the picture his last words had drawn. I attuned my voice to an amusedly contemptuous drawl.

"I don't think she is in love with you," I said. "In fact, I know she is—

William Macinlae dropped a depth bomb in our midst when he gave us his theories of evolution. He has aroused a storm of protest which I will print just as gladly as I did his beliefs.

This letter, however, I consider most unjust. The writer says that Mr. Macinlae's article was "scandalous, blasphemous and uncharitable." Friend William wasn't acting like a bad boy, sticking out his tongue at those who believed in God. He was, instead, merely telling what he had found, and stating that it was truth to him, which is every man's RIGHT, just as this woman's "truth" is her right:

Geraldine:

Mr. Macinlae in his scandalous, blasphemous and uncharitable article, "Religion vs Evolution," in The TRIBUNE of August 7, gives humanity a formula, presumably of his own imagination, or possibly he has run across the Golden Rule (while so painfully searching the Scriptures) and is trying to improve upon it.

Here is his formula (he gives it to the world after "Religions have overlooked it," and "Nations have striven in vain to seek it," so he claims) "Commit no thought, word or deed that shall cause suffering in the ranks of humanity."

Mr. Macinlae does nothing else in his whole article than commit thoughts, words and deeds that cause suffering in the ranks of humanity—because every soul that loves God (and they are legion) suffers when reading such an article, just as much, and perhaps more, than Mr. Macinlae would if some one should offer insults to his father, brother, etc.

After strenuously studying the Bible, Mr. Macinlae says he lost his faith. Now if his faith was nothing else but his emotions and sensible feelings he takes pains to describe, he had experienced at his reception into his particular sect of the Christian church it seems very likely he never had faith, for he does not seem to know what it is. Faith is a divine virtue by which we firmly believe the truths which God has revealed. Faith is a divine gift from the Creator and does not depend on ourselves or sensible feeling.

God expects us to appreciate this divine gift by being grateful even though we have received but a spark of it. It is necessary to strengthen it by grateful, humble and confident prayer. Imagine one really blessed with a spark of divine faith arrogantly searching the Scriptures to call the Creator to account. No one would be surprised to find faith dead in such a creature.

Mr. Macinlae tells us in his article that he thought there must be some being worthy of "Trust and Faith." To use his own words, he says (But what?" Then it dawned upon me. "MYSELF"). Now if he chooses himself for his "god," we have no quarrel with him. We do not insult him; because we practice the "Golden Rule."

We trust and pray the good God to let the scales fall from the eyes of the unbelievers, and we know they do fall. A few people, when they are in health, manage to exist without faith in God—but when illness or misfortune comes, especially if they feel the time is near when they must cast off the little bit of clay with which our souls are clothed. Oh, how they wish to believe in God. I had this brought home to me when a young girl: My companion was the daughter of an atheist. One day she said to me: "My father does not believe in God and neither do I." And then she whispered, "But do you know when any one is sick at home I pray to God. I go in a corner all by myself and I believe and pray with faith."

Would Teach People To Fear

Mr. Macinlae says in his article that he was haunted by fears —religious fears. What does the fear of God mean? What does it mean anyway when we hear it said, "The fear of God is the beginning of wisdom?" The fear of God does not mean servile fear, as any child could tell; it means that we fear to offend God because we love Him, and if we try to love God, and have just a little of this fear (though I should prefer to be blessed with a great deal of it), it surely is the "Beginning of Wisdom." In the natural order we also fear to offend those we love. My church has never taught me to pay attention to any other kind of fear.

In conclusion, all religions and sects can say in very truth, there is no conflict between "Religion and Science." No conflict between "Religion and Evolution." Religion fosters education, art, drama, encourages patriotism, and respect for all lawful authority. In a word, it is constructive, not destructive, and when we speak of God and Religion, let us remember the Golden Rule and practice it. Respectfully submitted.

A. M. A.

(Name and address given).

A. M. A. says that "fear is the beginning of wisdom." The girl who wrote the following says: "As for fear, I don't know any normal person that has had fear instilled in their minds by religion."

I am not critizing their beliefs —but just trying to point out that even sincere believers have their own INTERPRETATIONS of the same Book:

Dear Geraldine:

Yes, indeed, Mr. Macinlae would have done much better to have never written the most inhuman, shameful and scandalizing article I have ever seen in print. It is impossible that Mr. Macinlae was ever (as he states) a zealous member of the Christian Faith, no light of faith or truth ever touched his soul. Yes, he spoke the truth when he said he experienced physical sensations and hysteria. One who is really sincere in seeking faith and truth does not experience such sensations or hysteria—but just the opposite—a quiet peace and joy in your soul, something too great to be comprehended by our small human intellects.

He admits God as a being outside of man's sphere—if He isn't man. He must be a greater power—if not God what or who is this Being outside of man's sphere? What great power controls this wonderful universe—the planets? Answer these questions.

To quote Mr. Macinlae: "Then what good to man is religion? It must be a stumbling block; it must be a stagnation to the mental faculties. It must be a damnable institution if it sets one human being upon the throat of another!" Man, go to school, get out your history—read the lives of noble martyrs who gave up everything for something greater than human pain or power. Who but the church promoted arts and education and preserved these great essentials of progressiveness through all the dark ages. Who ever said, "If I can't choke my religion down your throat I'll cut your throat?" Look back in histories and you'll find that no GOOD CHRISTIAN, no never, but just some religious fanatic that said: "MYSELF? I AM GOD." One who could find nothing perfect in any being or thing outside of his small conceited self. Of course, it takes one in 1924 who has lived but a few years to tell nations and churches that there is something they have strived and looked for—but in vain—one small mortal who can tell nations and religions that have lived, grown and progressed through centuries, how to do it. God help us if many men had as much egoism as this. Our country, would it have the wonderful high standards it has today? NO.

Mr. Macinlae, I am sorry you have scanned the pages of Scripture so carefully for the Word of God—for the lesson of Peace, Charity and Joy, and found nothing but: "God busy chastising and visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children of the third and fourth generations." All I can say is you have either a very poor understanding or the print in your edition of the Scriptures is worn out and you are substituting with your own imagination.

As for fear, I don't know any NORMAL person that has had fear instilled in their minds by religion. We have free will (you will find this also if you look carefully) and to be good or bad it is up to us to use our will power and develop it for our own happiness and that of humanity. I've never heard bungaboo stories or been told I was weak or ignorant in any church or from any of her ministers—the very opposite, I have been told I was strong and to progress—keep up with the times—to be modern in everything that is good and I do. I have peace, happiness, joy and I BELIEVE IN GOD, and have no FEAR of anything.

Flapper Resents Slur On Religion

You might say that I know nothing, I probably don't, but I've attended almost every church, not out of curiosity, but seeking the truth; I found it nine years ago. I might also add I've studied religion from all view points for about eight years. Some people, in fact a great many, call me a FLAPPER—but even as a flapper I take no insults given to God. Sincerely, 1924-PEP.

(Name and address given.)

Once more William Mac had better dodge. I cut out one paragraph in this letter referring to a particular church. I do not wish to be accused of showing partiality to any one faith.

Dear Jerry:

In reply to William MacInlae. Let me quote a few sentences which may cause him to think and investigate still more deeply.

"There is a dual meaning to every Biblical passage, the most eminent divines of the world have concluded; and to get at the highest, or metapsysical, it is necessary rightly to read what the inspired writers left for our spiritual instruction. The literal rendering of the scriptures makes them nothing valuable, but often is the foundation of unbelief and hopelessness. The metaphysical rendering is health and peace and hope for all. The literal or material reading is the reading of the carnal mind, which is enmity toward God. Spirit."

ONE OF YOUR READERS.

And last, but not least, is a belated defense of William Macinlae. Uncle Dudley was right in his belief that many would attack Friend William's theory of evolution.

Dear Jerry—

I am strong for Wm. Macinlae and his Evolution, and since so many I fear will attack him, I want to join those defending him.

I don't think any of us want to deny or attack that which is good, honest, sincere, constructive, etc., but, say, Jerry—

CAN'T WE HAVE ETHICS WITHOUT SUPERSTITION?

There is where the battle line is, I think. Let us love good, all good, for the good itself, and not for some abstract reason. I think that if we seek the truth and find it for ourselves, we are that much stronger for it, loving truth as I say for truth's sake, and not for the sake of a supposition no matter how venerable that supposition may be.

Seek ye the truth and the truth shall make you free (from error). The truth is that which stands the acid test of reason. Error is ashamed and hides behind dogma, creed and ceremony—truth is friendly and seeks to dwell in every mind, and love follows thereafter to happily fill his heart.

UNCLE DUDLEY.

Our Children By Angelo Patri

KINDERGARTEN.

The first stage of formal education in this country is the kindergarten, and although it has been in service for many, many years it has still to win its way in the very places where it is needed the most. Hardworking people are always anxious that their children shall have an easier time than they had, and look to the schools to educate their children toward that end. They feel that no time must be wasted. Every day in school counts toward the end they have in view, economic freedom for their children.

The first thing that we who work for our daily bread need and must have to sustain ourselves in the market is a free spirit and an unhampered intelligence. Both of them must be attained in early childhood if at all, and the place where they are cultivated is the free kindergarten.

Here the child is placed among a group of his fellows, and whatever instinct of adventure and experiment he possesses is eagerly watched for and encouraged. He is led to show what forces are driving him and then shown how to harness them so they may serve him. Always his teacher strives to preserve that spark of fire which is the self of the child. She will not impose herself upon him, she will not permit the school machinery to crush it. Here it must blaze and gather power or flicker out forever.

The regular classes which are composed of children of older age have passed the stage of this tentative unfolding, and settle into the routine of the program of the massed class without much protest. If the spirit of discovery and initiative has not been fired during those first four years, there is little hope for it now. Reading and writing and arithmetic are the tools with which he must make his way, but the spirit that drives those tools is the master of his destiny. That spirit thrives in the atmosphere of the good kindergarten.

The experienced teachers of the first year are always glad to get the children from kindergarten because they have been prepared for the step they are to undertake next. Their senses have been trained; they can see and hear and use their hands definitely. They can take a simple direction. They can work in a group with other children.

The child who had the benefit of kindergarten or infant school training learns to read and write with far greater ease than those who did not have it. They have, too, a richer fund of experiences to draw upon to make the work they do interesting and profitable to them. To the child directly from home with no such training, school in the first year is a foreign land, through which he must painfully grope his way.

But it is not wise to attempt to teach the great number of little children of pre-school age to read and write, especially to write. That comes later in his development. Let the expert kindergartener have him from four until six, and his school life will not only be shortened, but enriched, and far, far happier.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BRICK DUST

"Come and sit out under the apple tree, Nurse Jane, and I will tell you a bedtime story," invited Uncle Wiggily one afternoon to his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh—you and your bedtime stories!" laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Really I will—I'll tell you a funny bedtime story," promised Mr. Longears. "Don't you believe me? Cross my ears!"

"Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Of course I believe you. But I dont' want to hear a bedtime story now. If I did I could tune in on the radio. But I have something else to do, thank you."

"What?" asked Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose thoughtful like.

"I must wash the dinner dishes and polish the knives," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "The knives are as black as your Sunday hat. They need polishing very much."

"Then let me help!" begged the rabbit eagerly. "You wash the dishes and I'll polish the knives. Then you can come out under the shady apple tree with me and listen to a bedtime story. By the way, what do you use to polish the knives?"

"Brick dust," answered Nurse Jane. "I take an old brick and shave off a little of the red dust. Then I lay the knife on an old board and rub on some brick dust with a rag. It polishes the kitchen knives beautifully. Of course I dont' use brick dust on my parlor knives which we use when we eat in the dining room on Sunday."

"Oh, of course not!" agreed Uncle Wiggily, just as if he knew all about it—which he didn't.

"All right, Janie," said the bunny to his muskrat housekeeper, "I'll get some brick dust and polish the kitchen knives."

Over the fields and through the woods hopped the bunny gentleman, hoping he might have an adventure before he cleaned the knives. But nothing happened except that he saw a little red ant lady fall in the brook, and he helped her out on his red, white and blue striped barber pole rheumatism crutch.

Away crawled the little red ant lady, thanking the bunny gentleman. Then he found a red brick, almost the color of the little red ant lady.

"Ah! This is good luck," laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped home with the red brick and scraped off some dust as Nurse Jane told him to do. Then wetting a cloth, and dipping it in the brick dust, Mr. Longears began to polish the black and rusty kitchen knives.

All of a sudden when the bunny had nearly finished the knives, he saw a shadow pass in front of the window near where he was working. Looking up, Uncle Wiggily saw the Bushy Bear sticking his ugly head in the window from outside.

"What are you doing?" growled the Bear.

"What are you doing?" growled the Bear.

"Polishing the knives with brick dust," answered Uncle Wiggily as politely as he knew how.

"Well, stop it and come with me!" snarled the Bear. "I am going to take you off to my den."

"Wait until I polish your nose —it is blacker than any of these knives!" cried the brave rabbit uncle. Dipping his rag in the scratchy, red brick dust, Uncle Wiggily rubbed the black nose of the Bear as hard as he could. Oh, how the brick dust scratched the Bear's posie osie nosie!

"Wuff! Wuff! Wow!" howled the mad Bear. "I didn't ask you to polish my nose!"

"I did it without asking!" laughed the bunny. And then as the Bear held his paw to his scratched nose and lumbered off into the woods, the bunny finished polishing the knives, making them nice and shiny with his brick dust.

So this teaches us that you don't always catch cold when you eat ice cream. And if the dusting brush doesn't put red paint on the football and make it look like a watermelon, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Betty's bob.

"Home so soon, Betty?" asked Mrs. Cut-out.

"Yes," smiled Betty. "We didn't have a real school day. The teacher talked to us a while and told us what books we'd have to have and gave us our seats, and that's all."

"How do you like your new teacher, Betty?"

"I think I'm going to like her fine. She's so sweet. Now I must hunt my gymnasium shoes. We have gym tomorrow morning."

Before Betty went to get her things to take to school the next day she took off her good school dress and put on a gray skirt and bright red woolly sweater, with a tam to match.

A Delicate Subject

There are quite a number of delicate little embarrassments appertaining to multiple marriages. For one thing one inherits an extra set of in-laws.

For instance, when Esther married Jim, the widower, and undertook to be a mother to his baby, she not only took over Jim and Jim's baby and Jim's mother, but Jim's previous mother-in-law and sister-in-law (the baby's grandma and aunt) as well. And Jim, of course, was adding Esther's mamma and sisters and brothers to his first collection.

So both Jim and Esther had two mothers-in-law and they both loved the baby. Jim's previous in-laws were so nice about his marriage to Esther, who ther just knew would be so good to Alice's baby (Alice being the deceased wife.)

And, very gently and tenderly, they trusted she would keep Alice's memory green in the baby's mind. Esther beamed and said sure, she would do her best to take Alice's place. Whereupon Alice's mamma and sister demurred—ever so gently. No one could quite take dear Alice's place. Esther tried to agree, but began to feel a trifle complicated.

So when the deceased's set of in-laws called to see how green Alice's memory was being kept and how nicely Esther was taking her place without actually taking her place, they were a little shocked to discover that the five pictures of Alice which used to adorn Jim's house had disappeared from their accustomed places of honor.

Quite gently and tactfully they mentioned it to Jim. Jim hadn't happened to notice it — which was rather awful. Jim's own mamma confessed that she herself had suggested the retirement of the pictures. Esther's own mamma admitted strong approval. Esther meekly said she had put them away for safekeeping for Alice's baby when she was older.

Jim Scoffs At Idea

Put Away the Pictures

Well, there was quite a delicate little discussion about it. Esther's sister, who had married twice, said no one could accuse her of not loving Edward, but that when she married Henry she had certainly felt it only decent to lay away Edward's pictures, purely out of consideration for Henry.

The deceased Alice's sister, who might be marrying her second any day now, felt that if Henry felt that way about Edward it was scarcely reasonable of him to have married Henry's widow. Esther's sister said she did not know how Henry felt about Edward—it was a subject they delicately avoided discussing. But her own refined instincts warned her to retire Edward's pictures.

Alice's mamma thereupon surmised that the case was no parallel. The subject under discussion was keeping dear Alice's memory green and not letting her baby forget who her real mother was. Was Esther insinuating that Jim no longer enjoyed the company of dear Alice's pictures? Jim said: "Nonesense. Nothing of the kind."

In that case, Alice's mamma wanted to know whether Esther herself objected to Alice's pictures, and if so, why pray?

So Esther tried to smile ingratiatingly. No, she didn't object to Alice's pictures. Certainly not. But she had removed them because she instinctively felt that Jim would feel that she, Esther, would prefer them removed. She had really done it for Jim's sake, who would have wished to do it for her sake if he were as sensitive for her and she was sensitive for him.

Whereupon Jim snorted and said: "How's that? Gosh, what's all the fuss about? When do we eat?"

And presently three sets of in-laws were feeling very touchy indeed, and Esther went up to her room and had a little weep. And altogether Alice's memory was very green that night. But Alice used to be a dear girl and I don't believe she would really wish to have her memory kept green in just that way.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN By Beaunash

CORRECT CLOTHES

THE STRAIGHT-BACK SACK.

Courage does not perform a deserving deed, because there's a medal waiting. Neither does The Well-Dressed Man expect any attention or admiration except the invisible pat on the back administered by the consciousness that he is true to the traditions of a gentleman, "the name defamed by every charlatan and soil'd with all ignoble use." Once you have absorbed this fundamental principle of correct dress—that it may show taste, but not show off—you have grasped the big thing, yes, the whole thing.

Style is a pursuit in which the majority is always trying to overtake the minority. Thus the man who likes to keep ahead of the crowd and the calendar, has to revert to long vanished modes and revamp them. Take the straight-back fall sack, portrayed in the accompanying sketch. This has been exaggerated in effect to show the drop from the shoulders. It is really semi-straight, with just a trifle of an incurve at the sides to trace the figure. Such a model was in vogue many years ago and its return upon the heels of English styles is symptomatic of how fashions, in the span of time, come right back to where they started.

Such a model is most flattering to young men of slender figure to whom it serves to give an appearance of more breadth. There are usually two buttons, a back vent and flap pockets. Sometimes, the back has short side vents, another revival which, however, has not yet risen to the dignity of a recognized fashion.

As a rule, a man's figure shows off to better advantage in a coat which curves slightly inward at the sides than in a model which has the straight, square appearance customarily described as boxy. However in this, as in all questions of dress, becomingness to the individual must be the sole guide. To determine what is most becoming to you, try on different style-models and do not grudge the time and trouble this takes. Only by making the most of his gifts and the least of his shortcomings can a man be well-dressed.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

A Little Lesson in Politeness.

I freely admit that this one is of an exceedingly ancient vintage but it is a railroading story and it has been my observation that railroad men like their stories to be well seasoned with age.

It is a yarn which the late J. T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central system, was fond of telling on himself.

Mr. Harahan was sitting in his office at Chicago one day when a hurly person entered without ceremony of knocking.

"Me name's Casey," he said. "I want a pass to St. Louis. I wurrk in the yar-rds."

"That is no way to ask for a pass," said Mr. Harahan. "You should introduce yourself politely. Come back in an hour and try again."

At the end of the hour back came the caller. Doffing his hat, he inquired:

"Are yez Mr. Haraban?"

"I am."

"Me name is Patrick Casey. I've been wurrkin' out in the yar-rds."

"Glad to know you, Mr. Casey. What can I do for you?"

"Ye can go to hell. I've got a job on the Wabash!"

Serious Poison

The gas that gives to rotten eggs their disagreeable smell is a gas quite familiar to chemists under the name of hydrogen sulphide. It is used occasionally in chemical plants for one purpose or another, and a recent report of the United States Public Health Service points out that it must be used with care as it is a poison almost as deadly as the much dreaded prussic acid gas. As little of the gas as one part in twenty thousand parts of air may cause sickness. One part in five thousand, if breathed for some time, may be fatal.

According to Dorothy Dix

It is a curious thing that very few men ever think of their wives as human beings.

They think of them as saints, or martyrs, or burdens, or leeches, or as the children's mother, or as slaves, but they rarely think of their wives as their fellow creatures, with the same emotions, feelings, desires as they have themselves. Yet a woman was a human being first, before she was a wife or mother, and she stays a human being until the end of the chapter.

If the average man thought of his wife as a human being he would treat her very differently from the way he does treat her, for he would know that she would react to certain matrimonial stimuli as he does. It is unbelievable but true that many men think feminine nature is so different from masculine nature that women do not feel as men do about the fundamental things of life. They honestly believe that women enjoy dependence and like to weep, and are perfectly satisfied to have no wider outlook than the four walls of their homes, and that they are so peculiarly constituted that once they fall in love with a man they go on loving him, no matter how he treats them. They think women can find happiness under conditions that would be intolerable to a man.

If a man thought of his wife as a human being, he would deal fairly with her on the money proposition. He would know that when a woman gets married she puts all that she has—her body, her heart, her soul, the work of her hands into the partnership, and that she is entitled to half of the profits of the firm, to be turned over to her as her right, and not, as a gratuity. Yet not one man in a thousand ever thinks of his wife as having earned the money she spends.

Men talk about "supporting" their wives, and pat themselves on the back for their generosity in feeding and clothing, and giving shelter to the women who labor for more hours a day than they do, at a harder job than they have. It is only after a wife works herself to death making a comfortable home and taking care of her family, when her husband has to hire half a dozen specialists to do his cooking and sewing and mending and cleaning and shopping and baby-tending that he gets an inkling that his wife earned her board and keep.

Camparatively few women ever have any money of their own. For some inexplicable reason even the men who are willing to pay heavy bills refuse to give their wives an allowance. They force their wives to come begging to them for every cent, yet those men could not bring themselves to go to even the most generous father and ask him for the price of a lunch and be forced to explain what they did with the quarter he gave them week before last. They do not realize that women feel just the same way about financial dependence as they feel, and are just as humiliated at being mendicants as they would be.

If a man thought of his wife as a human being, he would take the trouble to try to bring some active pleasure and brightness into her life. He would reflect that when he has two days together at home the monotony of it nearly drives him crazy, and the noise and confusion of the children's quarrels and playing sets his nerves on edge, until he gets as jumpy as a cat. This would lead him to surmise that perhaps his wife did not find the domestic grind a picnic, and got up on her children's society and needed a little diversion to brighten her up.

It is because men honestly believe that women are thrilled to the marrow with things that would bore them to death that keeps many a husband from taking his wife out once or twice a week to dinner or to the movies or the theater, or some other place of amusement.

It is because a man never thinks of his wife as a human being that makes him take everything she does, and is, for granted.

He knows that it would take the heart out of him and kill his ambition, if on one ever gave him the glad hand, if he never attained any success, if no one ever rewarded any especially brilliant piece of work by a word of praise.

It simply does not occur to him that he is his wife's audience, that he is the superior officer whom she is trying to please, and that she gets discouraged and in the "oh-what's-the-use" state of mind when he gobbles down a dinner she has spent hours in preparing without even observing that it is superexcellent, still less taking note of the love and thought that remembered his taste and catered to it.

Vanity is the strongest human impulse, and it is only because men do not think of their wives as human beings that husbands never pay their wives the little compliments that would make their hearts sing for joy.

It is because men do not think of their wives as human beings that husbands do not try to preserve their wives affections. A man knows that his love for a woman can be killed very quickly. He doesn't long stay in love with a sloven, a virago, a dumbbell, a woman who makes no effort to keep herself attractive to him.

But he has a theory that once a woman loves, her affection survives any sort of disillusion and brutality. So he goes unshaven and unshorn before his wife. He swears at her when he is angry, he says unforgivable things to her, and then he feels himself ill-used when she hales himself into the divorce court.

It is a pity that men do not realize that their wives are human beings. It would save so much trouble if they did.

Things they Ask the Tribune

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Questions of various kinds were sent in to The TRIBUNE Information Bureau today, among which are:

"How many officers in the United States army have held the rank of general?"

The following men are the only officers in the United States army who have held the rank of general: U. S. Grant, William T. Sherman, Philip H. Sheridan, John J. Pershing, Tasker H. Bliss and Peyton C. Marsh.

"How many officers and men are there in the United States navy and how much battleship tonnage was allowed the United States by the disarmament treaty?"

According to last statistics there are 7873 officers and 86,000 men in the United States navy. The treaty allowance of battleship tonnage to the United States is 525,000 tons.

"Does a girl 21 years old, who was born in a foreign country of foreign parents, who now resides in America, have to apply for separate citizenship papers or will she automatically become a citizen through her parents if they take out papers after she is of age?"

Any girl who has reached the age of 21 before her parents apply for citizenship papers in this country, will have to make application herself for citizenship.

"Will you kindly tell me what year Minnie Williams and Blanche Lamont were killed in San Francisco, for which crime Theodore Durant was hanged?"

The above crime was committed in 1895.

"What can one do to take the dampness out of a cellar?"

Take old preserve cans and put therein calcium chloride. This attracts the water from the air, which collects in the cans. This is not poured away, but is evaporated on a strong fire and the salt crystallizes and is again fit for use.

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature except school or legal problems, debates, trade and time of day.

If answers are desired by mail stamps must be enclosed. Quick results can be obtained by telephoning to the bureau. If you have any problems of a general nature to solve, ask The TRIBUNE Information Bureau, Lakeside 6000.

CHRISTINE of the HUNGRY HEART

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE STORY THUS FAR.

After a few years of marriage, Christine Knight, young, beautiful and rich, realizes that she is desperately unhappy. However, because she does not believe in divorce, she decides to make the best of her life with her adored little daughter, Betty Lou, and her openly bored and neglectful husband, Stuart. So she and Dr. Alan Montcagle, who have recently met, and found themselves in love with each other, decided not to see each other again. Then one day, Stuart, driving with the woman whom gossip calls his mistress, runs into his mother's car and almost kills Christine. Alan Montcagle hurries to her side, and by working night and day, pulls her back to life. She divorces her husband marries Alan. But a few years find her jealous of the time her husband spends on his profession—especially on the Vianneys; young Ivan Vianney, wounded in the war, is one of his special interests. And Ivan became interested in Christine. They finally go away together to Rio de Janiro. Alan divorces her and gets the custody of their son. She and Ivan return to New York. Ivan tires of her and goes to France. She meets Morganstirn, movie director.

CHAPTER XLI.

Morgy of the Movies.

Four nights later, when she and Mabel, and a certain pretty Gracie Thornton, and five men, were packed into the sweltering seats of an enormous open motor car, and when the reckless driving of its owner was causing even Chris' indifferent nerves an occasional shudder, she found that the big man wedged beside her, and sufficiently warmed by some late cocktail to find the rocking and bumping extremely amusing, was Rudolf Morganstirn.

They were so closely squeezed that he actually could not free one big arm, in its linen coat sleeve, and fresh yellow glove, to secure his hat. Chris, good-naturedly half-turning, put her own gloved hand upon it.

"You weren't very nice to me, Mr. Morganstirn," she reminded him, smiling, "but I'll show you how forgiving I can be!"

"I don't know you, mettem!" said the heavy accent, with the flatness of a man who does not believe in women, and has been cheated by them, and with the tactlessness of the Teuton.

"I don't suppose you do. But I was in your office last Monday, with half the other women in town. How you ever deal with them, or manage to weed what you want out of the crowd, amazes me!" Chris said smoothly. "I should think you would be absolutely exhausted, at night!"

She had been in bed all day, rising at 5 o'clock to dress for this affair. She looked rested, and her marvelous beauty was at its loveliest.

He looked at her steadily, with a significant grin.

"Sa-ay!" he said. "You tell me you come once to my office? Who tells you I ain't in?"

"You talked to me very charmingly and kindly yourself, Mr. Morganstirn, and told me what I have no doubt I would have found out for myself—that I should have started in a few years earlier! But I was busy about—other things then, and so the world has lost a second Bernhardt!"

Delightedly, he opened his big mouth and roared. He loved to be amused, and Chris took good care to amuse him through that endless sweltering afternoon and evening. He took her and Mabel home at 2 o'clock, and a few days later Chris called on him in his office again, and this time was given a chance.

Theatrically, the venture was disappointing, for she knew herself, at the first rehearsal, that her flesh and blood simply would not, and could not, endure this—these associates, this environment, this life. She was flat—she could not help it. Costumed, and stirred by music and the crowd, and starred, she might have leaped into fame overnight, Morganstirn himself told her frankly, if the play and the season and the company and the public all chanced—he called it "chenst"—to be in just the mood for it. But it was too expensive to risk. She might try the "pitchers."

As a matter of fact, she was diverted from the never-too-definite ambition of a dramatic career by Morganstirn himself. He was everything she detested; he was conceited, coarse, shrewd without being intelligent, and enormously rich without having the faintest fineness or discrimination; he thought no more of a woman than of a suit of clothes; bought them, and discarded them, with equal complacency and coolness.

And yet—he was Morganstirn of the theaters, of the plays, of the moving pictures. He was supreme in his field. He had accomplished something, from his own standpoint, if not from hers, to justify that insufferable arrogance of his.

He lived in a magnificent apartment on Broadway, in the seventies. His limousine rolled smoothly into its great court every morning, his servants moved noiselessly about the big rooms—rooms full of majolica and onyx and bronzes and over-lapping rugs and rich draperies.

Morganstirn gave dinners there occasionally, and Chris was more gratified than surprised, shortly after her second call at his office, to be invited to one. She was not thinking—she never let herself think nowadays — but it was "amusing," she told Mabel, to come to know Morganstirn well.

Mabel and Bruce were also to be at the dinner. Bruce was married, but his nice young Jewish wife was abroad, and Chris knew that he often made Mabel extremely unhappy, and that she sometimes cried in the night about it.

But Mabel was radiant tonight, and Chris made herself beautiful, with more interest than she had felt for a long time.

She liked everything; she gave her host a charming smile at the drawing room door, and listened to the marvelous German mechanical piano as if it had been Hoffman himself.

But it was disconcerting to find no less than four exquisitely pretty girls there, none over 19, and all in the chorus or the movies. They wore the briefest of little gold and lace garments, the most transparent of stockings, the sauciest bandeaux and earrings and buckled slippers. Their lips were vermillion, their fluffy heads were bobbed, and their talk was that of ersons entirely devoid of thinking powers. Chris felt suddenly old, and uninteresting.

They climbed over "Morgy," they kissed him, they flirted with him and whispered to him and drank cocktails with him; they drew him into the library for confidence and were routed out of the dimness and seclusion, and shrieked, and began it all over again.

"That reddish-haired one—you know she was his girl for two years; she's terribly jealous of him still, but he has no use for her, Mabel confided to Chris, after the rich, heavy dinner, when they were all leaving for the theater, at half-past nine.

"His ——?"

"Oh, yes! He's a terror."

It made Chris feel a little sick. And she felt affronted, at midnight, when Morganstirn set Mabel and herself down at their doorway, and thanked her, somewhat unsteadily, for "chaperoning" his little party so delightfully. Chaperoning!—when he still had with him in the limousine one of the little girls, who was to be taken home, he explained, right near his own neighborhood.

And she had said she liked him! She loathed him.

But the next time she saw him she felt his odd power and charm again. He played the piano like a master, and, playing gently as he talked, he dismissed her petty knowledge of modern Russian music as if she were an amusing child. He spoke several languages, without a correct use of one, and in his own field he displayed a keenness of vision, a judgment, and a firmness of will, that impressed her in spite of herself. She was teased by a constant desire to make him think well o- her.

WANDERING HANDS

by Peggy True

CHAPTER 15.

The stranger motioned to a waiter, who came scurrying over.

Then turning to Nancy, he said, "Name your poison."

"I—I—don't drink," she stammered.

"Don't drink! Then what the—" Words failed him. Not drink! What kind of a game was she trying to play? One of these wide-eyed innocents that made a bid for a fellow's bank roll with a battery of baby stares and pouting lips. Bah! She couldn't put nothing like that over on him. He KNEW women. He had got a stinging years ago and from one of these baby-staring blondes, too, that had put him wise to their wiles. He didn't trust any of them—no siree, none of 'em. The more innocent they look, the more dangerous they are. If they have hair the color of ripe corn silk and as shiny, beware! That kinds sure is dynamite. He told her so, emphasizing his words with quick flourishes of his large hands. He was coarse, hard and cynical and terribly bitter.

"Be natural," he finally admonished. "Be yourself. Your kid make-up is good but you cant' put it over with me. I'm too wise a bird. I've drifted around the world a lot getting wised up to your sex and all of its wiles. Women! I know 'em like a book, and they are all alike, irrespective of color, black, yellow, white or tan. Now come on, quit your kidding and order what you want to drink. I can buy any brand of poison they have in this joint."

Tears came into Nancy's eyes. Her lips trembled. She felt an impulse to jump up and run away from him, from the place and its tobacco-laden smells, this man's insults, from everything that was foul under that roof out into the cool, clean street and the sweet cleansing air, and expurgate her soul of the slime and the filth of the place.

But the eyes of her employer were still upon her, glowering in rage as he took in every bit of the little drama. And as she had once cowered beneath the glances of Todson at his garment factory she was cowering again beneath the cruel shafts that shot from the eyes of this swarthy little man, as if he held her very destiny in the palm of his hand.

She knew if she failed here—didn't make good in this loathsome little dump—the agency would blacklist her as "temperamental and hard to handle," and it would be doubly difficult to obtain another position if she was once branded. She had learned this much already about her chosen profession—that it does not serve to further one's interests if one is too finiky. The way to gain popularity and retain it is by being a "good fellow" under all conditions and in every circumstances. Good fellow Ugh, how she hated the phrase.

But she couldn't hold back the tears. They clung to her lashes and she glanced at her companion in piteous appeal. When she spoke it was in a little, tremulous voice that would have softened the heart of a stone.

"Please believe me," she whispered. "I am simply here in this place to earn my living. I do not want to be sitting here with you and I do not want to—drink. But if you INSIST I will try, because I've got to hold onto my job. I've just GOT to."

The man was touched in spite of himself by such desperation, or pretended desperation. But if she was pretending she was a better actress than a violinist. He studied her intently. She was a queer little duck, and no bigger than a pint of soap; but if she was all that she claimed to be, why in thunder was she in a place like this? To earn her living? Bosh Anyone who could play the violin as she could did not need to work in this sort of a joint. Thus he reasoned and his impulse of pity passed.

"You ain't putting it over," he remarked with a coarse laugh. "I'll admit that you look the part, but you ain't putting it over. Now, if I was younger and more susceptible I might fall for your line, but I'm too wise. I've been stung too many times before. So have a little something cheering with me, or by ——, I'll walk out and leave you and the blasted place cold, and take myself and my roll some place else where folks are more congenial."

He started to put his threat into action. Nancy shot one last piteous glance at her employer. His face was darker and angrier than ever, so she capitulated and, dashing back her tears, for the first time in her life her young lips twisted a bit bitterly, and she murmured:

"All right. I'll be a good fellow."

When she passed through the hotel lobby long after midnight she swaggered a little and felt a bit dizzy. Things seemed to be swimming. She smiled a bit foolishly at the elevator man, but just as she was about to step into the elevator she felt someone touch her arm and turned to see Paul directly behind her.

"Nancy," he said, "I've been waiting to see you. You remember we were going to make a game of this job hunting, run a race to see who would find one first. Well, I've lost and you've won."

"Won!" with a shrill, forced little laugh. "Do you call THIS winning?"

"Nancy!" He took hold of her arm and led her to a chair in the lobby. He drew up one for himself and sat down beside her. The place was deserted except for themselves, the man at the elevator and the clerk, who was too busy going over some books to pay any attention to them.

"Nancy," he repeated, "are you sick?"

"Yes," she admitted; then told him the whole story, and in the telling made it terribly tragic.

"What else could I do?" she ended, jerkily. "It was either that or pick up my little violin and walk out of the place—and I didn't have the courage to do that."

He was horrified. He knew the place where she had been working and knew its unsavory reputation.

"That agency ought to be pinched for sending a girl like you down into a joint like that," he cried.

"It was all that they had open and I did need the work so badly," she murmured. The lobby and everything in it was still swimming.

"But you didn't need it that badly. Promise me that you are not going back."

"If I don't, what will I do?" in desperate appeal. "I've got to live. My room rent has to be paid whether I eat or not. I can earn as much in a week there as I can in almost a month at anything else. If I give it up, what WILL I do?"

"Let me take care of you."

She turned to him and stared. Had he been drinking, too? But he misinterpreted the glance.

"Oh, I know what you are thinking," he said, miserably. "That I had better learn to take care of myself before I undertake to care for someone else. But, Nancy," he reached for her hand. She jerked it away, and as he went on hurt leaped into her eyes. "I can take care of the two of us, I know. I won't say that I am madly in love with you, I don't know yet, but I think more of you than any girl I have ever known, and you are so sweet, and innocent, and helpless, that I want to look out for you and protect you and steer you clear of all danger. Nancy, Little Flower Girl, is it a go?"

She dragged herself to her feet. She stood facing him, scarlet with outrage and shame.

"You too!" she cried. "And I trusted you and believed that you were fine and clean. I pitied you when you told me about yourself, and din't put any blame on you at all—and now—"

Her voice broke. She turned to leave him. He sprang to his feet and detained her.

"Nancy!" he cried. "What have I said or done that you should turn on me like this?"

"Done? You have insulted me."

"Good heavens, in what way?"

"Don't you consider it an insult to ask a girl—to tell a girl—to say—" she was floundering helplessly, finally she blurted it all out— "To ask me if I will come to you and let you take care of me and not say one word about marriage?" She was flaming.

He threw back his head and laughed. Then very, very tenderly he spoke:

"Marriage? Why you sweet little dunce, didn't you know that went with it?"

A MINER.

"Here is a nice place to live," said an old man to his son Frank. "Go and get Joe, our dog," he said. "We will build a little cabin by this beautiful lake and pretty soon we will make a garden," said Frank.

"But first we will make a well," said the old man.

In three weeks they had their cabin finished and were starting to build a well. Pretty soon Frank gave a holler, for he had found gold.

The next week Frank and Joe went for an adventure. After they had gone a little way they came to the foot of a large mountain. Frank said to himself, "I am going to climb this mountain."

He had got about half way up when he saw a large rock. After a while he heard a bark, so he turned back and saw his dog standing on the rock. When he got there he saw a large hole. So he jumped down into it with his dog behind him. After awhile he heard his dog bark again. So he went to his dog and found him in a little hole lying on a big yellow rock. He picked it up and saw that it was gold. Under the piece of gold was a piece of paper. He picked it up and read it. This is what it said:

"To the one who finds this gold mine may have it." Signed S. H.

He soon hurried home to tell his father of his adventure. When his father heard this he said:

"Gee, but we have luck."

Two years later Frank and Joe were walking along the bank of the beautiful lake when he saw something glittering in the sun. He picked it up and it was more gold. He took it home and showed it to his father, and his father said again:

"Gee, but we have luck!"

PRINCE SOLANO AND ELIZABETH.

Once there lived a king who was very cruel. His name was King Alfonso.

King Alfonso had one son who was very young. His name was Prince Solano.

His father, King Alfonso, was looking for a wife for his son Solano.

One day they were out riding in their carriage. They were on a country road. They were going by a farmhouse, when King Alfonso's son Solano saw a maiden who was very beautiful. She was feeding the chickens. Prince Solano said, "Father, I must have that maiden for a wife." "Nonsense," replied his father. "I never heard of a prince marrying a common maiden." But Prince Solano had his way, so one day King Alfonso sent for the fair maiden, who was very beautiful. The moment Prince Solano set his eyes on her he fell in love with her.

She went to the palace and she knelt before the throne of King Alfonso. "Arise, fair maiden," said King Alfonso. So the maiden did.

Just then Prince Solano, entering the room, stood beside the girl.

King Alfonso said, "Will you consent to the marrying of my son Prince Solano?" But the maiden would not consent.

The King was angry at this answer. "Will thou not consent to the marriage?" said King Alfonso and the maiden said "No." At this the King was very angry and ordered her to be put into a dungeon. The maiden wept and Prince Solano was sad and her compassion on her. He begged his father to give Elizabeth (that was the maiden's name) another chance. So the King did.

The maiden consented the second time and they were married. She became Princess Elizabeth. They lived happily ever afterward.

A MYSTERY.

Jack C. Brown sat in his private office one afternoon looking over some papers, when a window softly opened and in came a man shielded with a gun. He shot Jack in the back and grabbed the papers.

Detective Jack O'Connor had a date with Jack Brown that very afternoon about some important business.

He opened the office door and saw Brown leaning on his desk. He thought he was taking a nap, so he tried to wake him up by shaking him gently. Then he noticed the wound in Brown's back. He made a careful search of the wound and then went over to the open window (the thief had forgotten to close the window in his haste) where he saw footprints and a gun (the thief had dropped the gun in his haste. He examined the gun and then opened it on the inside) where the engraved initials "E. B." were. The detective reflected a minute and then made a memorandum in his notebook. He then put on his hat and went out. He reported to the police what he had seen and turned the gun over to them. They examined it and found the initials E. B.

"E. B." the chief reflected. "Why by jove that's the very man we've been hunting for the last two years. Don't you remember Casey. Ernest Bartlow?" speaking to one of the policeman. He immediately sent two policemen to Jack Brown's office with the detective.

They buried the body with a short ceremony and then went back to the office for an investigation.

Meanwhile the Chief of Police had put up a sign which read as follows:

"$5000 reward for the one who captures E. B. (Ernest Bartlow). Also my daughter's hand in marriage.

"JACK DARROW,
"Chief of Police."

It happened that a boy from the neighboring village, 18 years of age, saw the sign in the paper. He immediately got in readiness to go. His mother, a widowed woman, begged her son not to go, but Herbert went just the same. He had an idea where Ernest was and went to Chinatown where, sure enough, there he was, a laundryman in one of the many laundry shops. Herbert hired out as his helper, and one day while business was poor they closed up the shop. While Ernest had his back to Herbert the latter pulled out his gun and said "Hands up; you are my prisoner now, Ernest Bartlow." Herbert took him to the police and got the reward, also the Chief of Police's daughter's hand in marriage. They had a little boy whom they named Herbert. Herbert Sr. then brought his mother to live with them and they lived happily ever after.

A CURE FOR BETTY'S APPETITE.

Betty was a naughty little girl who was constantly getting scolded for not eating her delicious vegetables. Often after every one was finished Betty would still be sitting at the table grouching over her carrots or squash.

One certain night Betty was especially naughty, for she would not eat her potatoes. Her mother and father had gone outside and Betty began to cry. She cried because mother said she must not leave the table till she ate every speck on her plate, then she could leave the table.

Just as she was in the middle of a great sob she heard a voice: "Betty, have you ever heard this voice before?" "No," said Betty; who are you?" "Well, just keep an eye on your largest potato and you shall soon see who I am." Betty did and to her surprise out of the biggest potato jumped a beautiful fairy. "Betty," said the fairy. "Often you have made my people and I, the Fairy Queen, cry over you. We cry because you do not care for us. Betty, you are very wrong when you act like that, for it is us who make you grow. We love you and you hate us. If you act like that once more we will die of neglect. Well good-by, Betty," she said. "Next time try to enjoy us."

And Betty showed that she had listened to the Queen, so to her mother's astonishment she ate every vegetable put before her, for she remembered [illegible] she would enjoy.

IS IT HARD TO LEARN A LESSON?

Once Pratty said to her brother Dick, "Oh, Dickey, aren't you glad Aunt Sarah is coming?" "Is she? Maybe she will bring us a pet like last year." "Oh, yes," cried Pratty. "I hope she brings a bunny, and a kitty," chimed in Dick.

At last mother's voice was heard. A'right mother shouted the children. "Now kiddies run upstairs and clean up. Don't forget your ears, Dicky." "No mother, I'll not forget." "Oh, don't you hope she hurries?" said Pratty. "Oh the bell, Aunt Sarah! Aunt Sarah!" shouted Pratty and Dicky.

"Who is it mother?" "Only the [illegible]."

Pratty and Dicky were dressed now.

"Oh, you look too sweet for words," said Pratty, fixing Dickey's tie and acting very grown up for a litle girl of six.

"You look gorgeous," said little Dick, but the word was to big for him.

At last Aunt Sarah came.

Now my dears, I haven't brought you a thing until I see the canary and dove.

"Oh, Aunty, you must give nothing to Dick if its alive. Do you know that canary was almost dead yesterday so I gave him to Pratty. She can keep him. Well, as long as it was only yesterday Dickey can have little Tommy, a litle kitten. Oh, such a pretty red one."

"Oh! Oh! Goody! Goody!" cried Dick.

"Where's mine Aunty?"

"Out in the Kitchen dear."

Pretty Pratty sprang out of her rocker away to the kitchen, and "Oh! Oh! Look! Two pretty chicks so yellow and fluffy, how sweet Aunty," cried little Pratty and she jumped on her Aunt's neck as if it were the rings out in the yard. "You dear Aunt," said Pratty.

The next time Aunt Sarah came she saw two fat chickens, not chicks, and a beautiful Persian cat, Fluff.

JAMES' TRAVELING EXPERIENCE.

"Father, where is James going?" asked Mary one night as she was mending a pair of stockings.

"I've sent him away to New York," was the reply.

Father was a busy man, and couldn't be disturbed. He also said mother and I were going to a quiet country farm where we can rest. Mary thought:

"Where are they going to leave me? Home I suppose."

Just then in came James, all ready to leave.

"Goodbye," dad shouted to James as he looked out of the window. "Good luck."

Toot, toot, away went the train. James was bound for New York. At night, when all were asleep in the train, a light flashed in James' berth. James awoke, and sneaked out of bed. He saw a man, dressed in black, nearing the berth.

James quickly hid just in time to see the man go in the first berth to the right. James thought he must be a traveler, so going to bed, he thought no more of him. In the morning in the dining car, James heard some men talking about a mail robbery. James then left the table and told the guard to be on the watch. Sure enough, at night when they were all asleep excepting James and the guard, in came the robbers tip-toeing past the sleepers and into the baggage room to get the mail, but they didn't succeed because as they were going to go away, they were shot by the guard, and soon put in prison.

James was given a small sum of money for notifying the guards. You might have guessed James had a nice time in New York and also picked a wife.

FLORIDIAN BRINGS HUGE PRESSES TO OAKLAND TRIBUNE

Big A.-H. Freighter Also Unloads 690 Cases of Christmas Toys.

Bearing a shipment of printing presses and machinery for the press room of The Oakland TRIBUNE, and the first large consignment of toys ever to come direct to Oakland by ship the American Hawaiian freighter Floridian docked at the new municipal wharf yesterday. The presses weighed 1[illegible] tons and were contained in more than a hundred crates. The toys contained in 690 cases consisted of 2771 kiddie cars and other playthings. These were consigned to the Oakland Stationery and Toy Company.

Four hatches on the Floridian were used to land the big consignment of cargo stowed in the holds of the freighter. Paint material, cased goods of general merchandise, wire netting, automobile tires, groceries and steel went to make up the rest of the Floridian's cargo to be discharged in Oakland. From here the big freighter will go to Puget Sound to load a return cargo to the East coast of lumber. Before leaving the coast the vessel will return to Oakland to take aboard a shipment of canned fruit.

The toys which were valued at more than $8000 marks the arrival of another new class of goods reaching this city by the water routes.

Printing Presses and Toys in Cargo

The bulk of the cargo of the American-Hawaiian freighter FLORIDIAN, which docked at the Lawrence Terminal yesterday, consisted of new Oakland TRIBUNE printing presses and machinery and a large consignment of Christmas toys. The TRIBUNE press, shown on the right, weighed 135 tons. The toys, on the left, made the first big water shipment to Oakland.

Wheat, Berry Shipping Under Way in North

Many Cargoes of Latter Are Going to Europe From Oregon Ports.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 5.—The Baron Ogilvay departed this afternoon for Astoria to load an additional 4000 tons of wheat for Europe. The vessel took 4000 tons of bulk grain here.

The Jacob Luckenbach is expected here tomorrow with some gulf coast cargo for discharge. The vessel will be overhauled at Portland or some other north Pacific port before loading outward for Europe.

The movement of berries from here to Europe will be well cleaned up by the end of the present month, according to local exporters. Shipments of dried apples will start moving to United Kingdom and continental markets shortly.

The West Jena's sailing time has been set back to Saturday. The vessel is completing a cargo of lumber and other freight for the Orient. It is understood that the West Nomentum of the same fleet will be sent to Coos Bay to load part of its cargo.

A stiffening in charter rates for steamers carrying wheat to Europe was noticable here this week. Steamship owners asked around 33 shillings for full cargo carriers with a differential of about six pence for Vancouver, B. C. loading. The higher rate asked for the latter port is due to the congestion which was prevalent there last season.

Damages Asked By Ship Crew For Detention

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 5.—Libel proceedings to test the right of a foreign ship captain to force members of his crew to remain aboard ship in American ports have been started in federal court here against the Italian steamer Salvore and its master, Captain Uga Casa, by four members of the ship's crew.

The libellants, asking for $20,000 contend in their action that they were detained forcibly at the Sewell's point coal piers Wednesday when they attempted to come ashore to make purchases for personal needs after being aboard ship approximately thirty days on a voyage from their home port to Hampton Roads.

CARGO CARRIERS CROWD WHARVES ALONG ESTUARY

Oakland experienced one of the busiest days on its waterfront yesterday that has been seen for some time. Every wharf and terminal was busy discharging, stowing or loading cargo in and out of a large fleet of cargo carriers.

The big British freighter London Merchant lined in at the Howard Terminal and loaded a thousand tons of canned goods for European ports.

The Canadian merchant marine freighter Canadian Observer landed several hundred tons of newsprint paper at the new municipal wharf for The Oakland TRIBUNE. This paper is the product of the big pulp mills located at Ocean Falls, British Columbia.

The American Hawaiian freighter Floridian discharged a large general cargo at the Lawrence Terminal. A big percentage of this was made up of new TRIBUNE press machinery.

The Crofton Hall of the Isthmian Line made her first visit to Oakland, discharging 400 tons of general cargo at the Parr Terminal in the outer harbor. The steamer is of 3661 net tons register. She followed the Chickasaw City at the [illegible] vessel sailed yesterday morning with 25,000 cases of canned goods for the United Kingdom. This is one of the largest consignments to leave Oakland this season.

The lumber wharves were all busy, half a million feet of timber from the north being landed along the estuary.

Panaman Starts New A.-H. Service

The steamer Panaman of the American-Hawaiian Line, sailed Wednesday from Philadelphia carrying a good cargo on a first trip of the new service instituted by this organization. It is the intention to have regular sailings every Wednesday from Philadelphia for Pacific coast ports. The schedule from Philadelphia to Los Angeles calls for twenty-two days, San Francisco twenty-six days and Seattle thirty-three days. The service was started two weeks previously with the steamers Virginian and Iowan. The previous steamers ran direct. Those to follow will make a call at New York but the Philadelphia-West Coast sailing schedule will be maintained.

A. H. FREIGHTER WILL TAKE HEAVY CARGO OF ORIENT

Japanese Ship's Cargo Will Go to Atlantic in Holds of Floridian.

SEATTLE, Wn., Sept. 5.—Returning to Seattle from Tacoma tomorrow the American-Hawaiian Line steamship Kentuckian will load heavy shipments of Oriental cargo brought here by the Japanese steamship Hakata Maru. She is to sail for San Francisco tomorrow night.

While a lift span of the West Spokane street bridge is being installed, contractors have asked shipping officials to notify them a day in advance of contemplated ship movements to or from the Duwamish waterway in order to insure safety in clearing the channel.

Atago Maru is the name selected for the first of the two new motorships being constructed on the Clyde river in England for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha for service between Seattle and Oriental ports, advices received here today from Japan stated.

Fishing vessel owners of Seattle are preparing to observe the closed season for halibut fishing, November 15 to February 15, inclusive, and have notified various ship firms that they expected to make repairs on their vessels.

Mackenzie Goes On Trip to East

Hugh Mackenzie, general passenger agent of the Dollar Round-the-World Line, left today for the East on a tour of the offices of the company on the Atlantic coast and the Middle West. He will spend several weeks in a study of travel conditions both of the winter tourist to California through the Panama Canal and the Oriental and Mediterranean travel.

"A heavy tourist travel through the Panama Canal and also to Honolulu and the Orient is anticipated next winter," Mackenzie said. "The trip from New York via Havana and the Canal to California and return by rail has become a popular itinerary for the 'See America First' tourist. Since the establishment of the Round-the-World service New York has become the starting point for travelers to the Orient, India and the Mediterranean. World tourists from the Middle West have the advantage of seeing both New York and San Francisco as well as the Canal Zone before journeying to the foreign countries on the Dollar Line schedule of 21 ports."

GLENNA COLLETT LOSES TO CALIFORNIAN IN SEMI-FINALS

Oakland Climbs Back Into Third Place With Win Over Seattle Team While the Vernon Tigers Suffer Defeat

Rally Gives Oaks Victory Over Indians

Double By Reese In Seventh Marks Downfall of Steuland After Leading.

SEATTLE, Sept. 5.—After trailing for six innings, during which Steuland had them eating out of his hand, the Oaks rallied with a run in the seventh which not only took the Indians by surprise but which overcame the three-run lead held by Seattle and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the visitors were out in front. The final score was 7 to 4 and the battered Oaks again had become contenders menacing Seattle's position in second place.

At the outset it appeared as though Killefer's men were due to make it three straight, for Boehler, although not hit hard, was touched for four runs in the six innings he remained on the hill while Steuland, for the same length of time, was practically invincible.

TAKE EARLY LEAD.

Seattle scored in the second inning, although Boehler was not entirely responsible for the tally. Bowman led off with a hot grounder which bounced off Reese's shin, going for a hit. Ted Baldwin hit sharply to right and when the Arlett allowed the ball to roll through him to the fence. Bowman scored from first and Baldwin pulled up at third. The rally was nipped here, for Lafayette took Emmer's fly and made a remarkable peg to the plate to throw out Baldwin.

Rohwer drew a walk to start the fourth and took second on Eldred's single. Bowman sacrificed the two runners along a base and Rohwer tallied on Ted Baldwin's infield out.

BRATCHER'S HOMER.

In the sixth the Oaks broke into the run column for the first time. Bratcher lacing one of Steuland's offerings over the rightfield fence.

Boehler had his worst inning in the sixth and the Indians increased their lead to three.

Rohwer beat out a bunt and Eldred advanced him with a neat sacrifice. Rohwer tallied on Bowman's single to center. Ted Baldwin's single put Bowman on third and he scored on Emmer's sacrifice fly to Arlett.

STEULAND BLOWS UP.

The seventh marked the downfall of Steuland. Adams led off with a walk and after Guisto had fanned, Read dropped a single back of short. Howard batted for Boehler and was an infield out but Steuland lost control and walked Lafayette, filling the bases.

Reese, who had done little with the willow in the previous games of the series, delivered a clean double down the left field foul line sending in Adams, Read and Lafayette to tie the score.

Before Steuland could get his bearing, Bratcher tore off a single to center on which Reese counted with what proved to be the winning run. Sutherland relieved Steuland and retired the side but the damage had been done.

FOSTER TAKES HILL.

Foster took up the hurling burden in the seventh and held the Indians to a lone hit in the three frames he worked.

For good measure, the Oaks added two more in the ninth off Sutherland. Foster started it with a single and Lafayette and Arlett walked to fill the bases, Reese having forced Foster and Bratcher being an out. Cather's single sent in Lafayette and Reese.

Army Golfers in Leavenworth Match

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 5.—In a match that was not decided until the 36th hole, Lieutenant L. G. Seeligson of the Eighth Army Corps area, San Antonio, Tex., yesterday defeated Captain D. W. Venable of the Panama canal zone, in the second round of the army championship golf tournament. Three other championship matches and two in a consolation flight were more easily settled.

Representatives of the Second, Fourth, Seventh and Eighth corps area still are in the running.

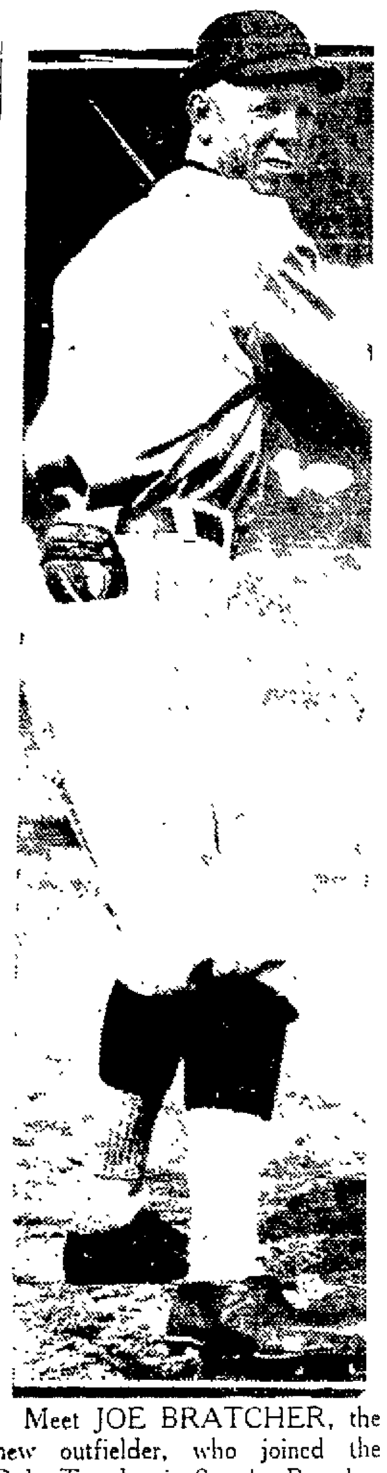
New Outfielder



Meet JOE BRATCHER, the new outfielder, who joined the Oaks Tuesday in Seattle. Bratcher was sorely needed by the crippled team, which has been making such a strong bid to keep in the race, and since breaking into the line-up his hitting strength has bolstered up the club considerably.

Final Tribute Paid 'Pop' Geers By Home Folks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 5.—"Pop" Geers came home today to receive the acclaim of his home-folk at the finish of his last and greatest race—a winner in the gruelling contest of life.

Hundreds of friends who loved "the silent Tennessean" for his sportsmanship and admired his manly qualities and generous nature, were at the station to greet him. To them he came as a conqueror and a hero, returning from conquests won to reap the fruits of his victory and to share them with his friends.

But this final homecoming of the veteran reinsman was different from those of other years. In the past when "Pop" came home, the crowds were joyous and gay in celebration of so many races won.

The body of the veteran driver arrived this morning from Wheeling, W. Va., where his great career ended Wednesday, when Miladi Guy stumbled and hurled him to the track and death.

After short services the body was forwarded to Columbia, Tenn., where it will be interred tomorrow.

Dodgers Pass Pittsburgh in National Race

Washington Now Holds Full Two-Game Lead Over New York Yankees.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Brooklyn Dodgers of 1924 are emulating the Boston Braves of 1914. It was just 10 years ago George Stalings drove his Braves into the stretch, trailing by seven lengths, only to find himself first to the wire when the flag fell. And in Brooklyn they're saying history repeats itself every decade.

From the ancient corridors of Borough hall to the outskirts of Flatbush they're talking baseball. It was Sunday, August 24, that the Dodgers were last pinned to the Axminster. And they were well-nailed at that killing the Cardinals administering a double defeat to the Brooklynites. But since that humiliation, the Dodgers have won exactly 13 straight games, eight of them in the last four days.

The records fail to show any other such performance—four double headers in as many days.

When this sensational winning streak started the Dodgers were well heeled in their place, seven and one-half games behind the league-leading Giants. Today Brooklyn stands in second place, three points behind the Giants.

Yesterday the Dodgers won a pair from the Boston Braves, jumping from third to second place, when the Pirates skidded against the Cardinals. And Brooklyn's victories were decisive, the first game going to the Ebbets employees, 5 to 1, and the second taking the same result, 9 to 1. St. Louis thumped Pittsburgh 9 to 5, and the slipping Giants lost a decision to Arthur Fletcher's Phillies, 10 to 6. Cincinnati, fighting to land in the first division, blanked the Cubs, 3 to 0.

In Washington they're thinking of running Walter Johnson for President on an independent ticket, with Stanley Harris as his running mate. They're calling the royal and ancient Walter the Washington monument and defying any of their rivals to try and climb in.

The Senators yesterday, with Walter Johnson feeding the pills, administered the ether to the Boston Red Sox, while the Yankees were knocked unconscious by Connie Mack's athletes. The Washington club won, 12 to 5, while the Yankees trailed the Athletes, 6 to 3. Chicago and St. Louis started an argument which was curtained in [illegible] moisture.

Washington now enjoys a lead of two full games over the ambitious Yankees and the season is waning. But the American League gonfalon will be decided on western battlefields, as both Yankees and Senators have important assignments in Missouri, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio that will likely muss up the complexion of the percentage column to a considerable extent.

The men not appearing in the line include York, who was graduated; Ratchford, Hatton, Walther and Corkrum. Lettermen expected to return are Captain Hall, Ray Dean, Conley and Earl Tilton.

Al Espinosa Leads Field In Golf Play

Oaklander Close Enough to Top to Be Ranked Among Favorites.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Seventy golfers today started in the second elimination round of the western open championship at Calumet with scores of 80 or better to their credit, as the result of yesterday's first round.

Indications were that the 64 players with the best scores for the two days and ties for last place who will survive after today's 18 holes for the two rounds tomorrow will have to score 160 or better for the two days' play.

Al Espinosa of Chicago had a lead of two strokes over his nearest competitor, Eddie Held of St. Louis at the start of today's round. Among the favorites developed as a result of their prowess yesterday was Abe Espinosa of Oakland.

Al Espinosa led the field of 208 golfers in the western open championship at Calumet country club with a score of 35-35—70, which was one under par for each half and set a record for the 6614 yard links and trans-Mississippi champion finished in second place, for the first round with even par, 36-36—72.

Three players tied at 73 for third place, Frank Adams of Chicago and Harry Cooper of Dallas both shooting par on the first nine and going one over on the second while Jock Hendry of St. Paul after taking 38 for the outward journey came home in 35.

Among six players who shared the score of 74 for sixth place were Abe Espinosa, of Oakland; Craig Wood, Louisville; Julian Blanton, Chillicothe, Ohio, and Harry Hampton of Canton, Ohio. In this sextet also was Art Sweet, a Chicago amateur who was medalist in the recent western amateur championship.

Chick Evans had to be content with the third score among the amateurs for, after battering par by one stroke on the first nine, in spite of a heavy rain that caught him and his partner Jock Hutchison, defending champion, in the middle of that half, the former national champion, went four strokes above perfect figures on the inside nine and took 40 for a 75.

Frankie Genaro Ill, Bout Is Postponed

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The 15-round bout between Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro scheduled for last night but called off when Genaro, the challenger, suffered an attack of laryngitis, will probably be held at the Queensboro A. C. in Long Island City on September 16, if Genaro recovers in time, it was announced last night.

Berkeley High Football Team Taking Shape

Twelve Letter Men Make Work Easy for Head Coach Jimmy Hole.

Coach Jimmy Hole, mentor of the Berkeley high school football team, is holding grid practice every night preparing to make a strong bid for another A. C. A. L. title. Hole had a large turnout with twelve lettermen when practice started last week.

The wealth of veteran football material will make Berkeley a strong favorite in all of their practice games, which start on September 19, as well as in the Alameda county football league.

Captain Ralph Dougery has been leading his team in scrimmage several times this week and has made a good showing against the efforts of the second team. Dougery, playing his third year for the college city school is looking forward to his most successful season.

Walter Wattenburger, who made his letter at tackle last year, is the only veteran who has not returned to school. Hole has an experienced man for each position with the exception of Wattenburger's tackle and has an end to spare.

Ralph Fentrup, who played on the squad last year but did not make his letter, has been showing exceptional form and ability during this week's workouts and Coach Hole is looking for him to develop into a good substitute halfback. He is a good punter and also passes well.

Dud Sheppard, who captained last year's 130 pound team, is proving to be the foremost candidate for the signal caller's position. He played that position on the weight team last year. Ed Goldstrum, another player from last year's squad, has been handling himself in great style at center and will in all probability prove to be a valuable understudy for that position.

Jack Murphy, Captain Ralph Dougery, Dutch Clymer and Zarley will probably constitute the first string backfire this year for the Red and Gold. This quartet has seen some hard service and are ready to tear into the opponents again this season. Clymer does the punting while the passing is distributed between the other three backs.

An equally strong line will aid in the defense for Berkeley and make the prospects for the coming season the brightest in years.

Mary Browne Wins Way to Golf Finals

Victory Over Glenna Collett on 19th Is Surprise of Tourney.

NAYATT, R. I., Sept. 5.—Miss Mary K. Browne, Pacific Coast tennis star, who is playing national golf for the first time, furnished a great surprise today by defeating Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, former champion, and favorite to repeat.

The match went to the 19th hole. Miss Collett and Miss Browne were even after playing 18 holes, and it became an extra hole match.

Miss Browne squared the match at the 18th by a brassie shot of 175 yards through trees that put her ball five feet from the pin.

At the extra hole Miss Browne sank a putt of 15 feet, her ball caroming off Miss Collett's into the cup after Miss Collett had just missed a putt two feet longer.

In the final tomorrow Miss Browne will meet Miss Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia who in the other semi-final match today defeated Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, 2 to 1.

NAYATT, R. I., Sept. 5.—Tennis and golf wonders were matched today in one of the two remaining contests of the tournament for the women's national golf championship.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Calif., who, after winning national tennis titles, decided she would learn golf, meets Miss Glenna Collett of the Rhode Island Country club, regarded by friends and experts as the best golfer of her sex in the world.

Miss Browne's game has improved daily in her first national golf tournament and she has made known that she is an excellent match player.

The second semi-final match is between two former golf champions, both Philadelphians—Miss Dorothy Campbell Hurd, whose record as a holder of titles is unsurpassed—and Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck.

The elimination of Miss Burns, who dethroned Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago, the champion, on Wednesday, and the steady golf of Miss Browne, former tennis champion, were the high spots of yesterday's play.

Miss Burns lost to Mrs. Hurd twice titleholder in the same way [illegible] Miss Cummings — poor work around the greens.

Mrs. Vanderbeck, former champion, did not display her usual steadiness yesterday, taking 47 to the turn and being even with Miss Faust.

Defeat of Phil Neer Proves Startling Surprise in State Lawn Tennis Tournament Played on Berkeley Courts

Gail Warwick Stages Upset In Tennis Play

Gerald Stratford - Gervais Hills Win Another Round in Men's Doubles.

The defeat of Phil Neer, former Stanford University star, by Gail Warwick yesterday in straight sets provided the outsanding upset in the play of the men's singles in the California State tennis championships, now in progress on the courts of the Berkeley Tennis club.

Neer had been one of the chosen few selected as a likely winner of the men's singles title and his defeat at the hands of Warwick by scores of 6-4, 6-0 was a distinct surprise to close followers of the play in the early round of the present tournament when Neer displayed unusual brilliancy.

EASY VICTORY.

While Warwick was staging the upset of Neer, Ray Casey, former University of California net star, was having little trouble in disposing of E. J. Woodall by scores of 6-0, 6-1 in the lower bracket of the men's single.

Play in the men's singles yesterday saw the field narrow down to eight and of these Casey is considered to have the best chance of capturing the state title.

Roland Roberts won one of the feature matches of the day when he eliminated Bowie Detrick by scores of 6-3, 8-6 while Morgan Fottrell advanced at the expense of Herschel Hyde by scores of 6-4, 6-3. The other match in the upper half found Phil Bettens, the brilliant University of California star, a winner over Stanley Almquist by scores of 6-3, 6-1.

ANOTHER UPSET.

In the junior singles play yesterday, Bradshaw Harrison won as expected from Louis Heilbron by scores of 6-0, 6-4.

In the lower half of the junior singles draw, Martin Lieber, one of the "seeded" players, was defeated by Frank Gove of the Berkeley Tennis club in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3. Next to the defeat of Phil Neer in the men's singles, the elimination of Lieber was the big surprise of yesterday's play.

The results of yesterday's play follow:

Epinard's Trainer Seeks Competition

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Epinard, French thoroughbred, should get the "feeling" of an American track again before he enters the second of the international specials, Eugene Leigh, his trainer, said today.

Leigh would like to enter the Wertheimer colt in a competitive race before the next big event, but the articles of agreement under which Epinard is racing in this country forbids the horses participation in any events until the three previously scheduled specials have been run.

"Strangler" Lewis Defends Mat Title

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title here last night, defeating Stanislaus Zbyszko, the giant Pole, in two out of three falls.

Zbyszko won the first fall, pinning the champion to the mat in 24 minutes, 12 seconds, with a flying mare, but Lewis came back and took the next two falls, using his famous head lock in both cases. The Strangler won the second fall in 29 minutes, 54 seconds, and the third in four minutes, 17 seconds.

Dorothy Day Is Easy Pace Winner

French Break Even in First Anzac Matches

Defeat of Patterson by Lacoste Is Surprise of Opening Play in Singles.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 5.—France and Australia, tied at one point each after the first day's play in the inter-zone Davis cup tennis finals, will face each other in a doubles match here today. Jacques Brugnon, known as France's leading doubles player, will team with Rene La Coste against Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood.

The French pair is the same combination which carried Anderson and Hawkes of the Australian finalists last year to 7-5 in the finals before accepting defeat. In 1922 they also put up a desperate fight, being defeated 10-8 in the fifth set.

The defeat of Patterson by Lacoste in singles yesterday in spite of Wood's unexpected victory over Jean Borotra, holder of the British singles title, places emphasis on the result of today's match. The right to meet the United States in the challenge round will not, however, be decided until tomorrow, when La Coste will play Wood and Borotra will meet Patterson.

Tomorrow Patterson will play Borotra in the first of the remaining matches, as a result of a draw made late yesterday, which means that O'Hara Wood and LaCoste, today's victors, will meet in the concluding contest of the interzone play.

Lacoste clearly deserved his straight set triumph over Patterson, and in the sober after thought of the other singles clash the surprising feature in that O'Hara Wood escaped defeat in straight sets.

Borotra dropped only two service games in the first three sets; one of them cost him the second division of play and the other gave O'Hara Wood his only game of the third set.

Local Golfers Enter Tourney At Santa Cruz

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 5.—Plans for the three day program of sport which will open Sunday morning and continue through Admission Day, have been completed, according to an announcement made this morning by R. A. Schwarzmann, chairman in charge of the events for the celebration of September 9, by the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Golfers from thirty parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West will meet over the links of the Santa Cruz Golf and Country club Sunday morning in an 18 hole medal play handicap tournament for the trophies offered by the chamber of commerce.

The delegation of golfers from the various parlors of Alameda county outnumber all other entries from the remainder of the state, according to Chairman Reuben Pringle of the golf committee.

Headed by Ralph Hoffman, the Oakland Parlor No. 50 team, which includes Erich Schreiber, W. R. Barlow, William Rucker, Ambrose Furrer, Ambrose Furrer Jr., Frank Garcia, Chauncey Pezzola, Peter Starasinich, Al Schammel and Walter Holstrom will participate in the golf competition.

Keen competition from the Piedmont Parlor No. 120 team is expected, as the Piedmont list includes Eddie O'Brien, Hamilton Lorimer, John J. Allen Jr., H. Raymond Hall, Kendall Becker and other well known wielders of the mashie.

Entries for the tournament close tomorrow night and a list of at least sixty starters is expected.

Hollocher Ill, Leaves for Home

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Charles Hollocher, shortstop with the Chicago Nationals, whose health has been failing, left for his home in St. Louis last night, according to word received from Cincinnati, where the Cubs are playng.

Rivalry Keen Among Teams For Trophies

Alameda, St. Mary's Have Largest Squad; Many Seek Prizes.

The largest field of runners ever to face the starter's gun will be on the line at the Grand Avenue entrance to Lakeside Park next Tuesday morning, a total of 456 entries having been received for the Twelfth Annual TRIBUNE Merritt Marathon.

Final check of the entries was completed last night, a huge task, for many runners had filed blanks shortly after the first announcement of the date of the race was made and had later been included in the lists filed by various organizations, making it necessary to recheck every entry blank in order to see that none were duplicated and that none were overlooked.

The final count found St. Mary's high school in the lead with the largest number of entries, 150 of the boys from the local high school having been entered for the race by Coach Bodie Andrews and if all of these show up at the Oakland Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday morning and pass a satisfactory examination, St. Mary's high is in line for the trophy offered to the organization having the largest number of starters.

A CLOSE RIVAL.

Alameda high school's team, entered by Coach Jolly, is second only to St. Mary's from the standpoint of the largest number of entries and a keen battle is expected between the two rival high schools, not only for the trophy offered to the team having the largest number of starters, but also for the prize which goes to the team having the largest number to finish in the time limit of 30 minutes.

Alameda will have a team of 134 starters in the annual race and while St. Mary's has sixteen more runners entered than Alameda, it is possible that the entire team may not show up on the day of the race or that some might not pass the examining board of doctors.

Condition and ability are the two factors which will go for toward determining number to finish in 30 minutes.

SLIGHT ADVANTAGE.

Coach Jolly of Alameda claims that his entire team has been in strict training for the race and that all of the boys are capable of crossing the finish line in half an hour.

No such claim is put forward by Coach Bodie Andrews of St. Mary's although assurance was given this morning that the St. Mary's runners who started the race would all finish. Many of the St. Mary's boys, however, are young boys in the first year of high school who have never run the Marathon before and it is difficult to predict how many will be able to maintain the stiff pace necessary to completing the three and one-eighth miles in thirty minutes.

In this respect Alameda's runners, the majority of whom are older and more experienced, have a slight advantage. More than half of the Alameda team have completed the distance in previous Marathon runs in the time limit and the others have been coached over the distance for the past several years.

SEEKING PRIZE.

The team of twenty runners of the Yoke Choy club of San Francisco are to be watched next Tuesday. It is practically certain that the trophy offered to the out of the county organization having the largest number of starters, will go to the Yoke Choy Club, for St. Vincent's high school of Vallejo is the only other out of town organization having a strong team and the Chinese entry list outnumbers Coach Alini's team three to one.

The race for the team prize offered to the organization having the first five men to finish is to be one of the features of the day.

The Shattuck Avenue M. E. church team, headed by Eugene Blake, who finished second last year, has an excellent chance of capturing this trophy, as has the powerful Oakland DeMolay team headed by E. Lloyd Hanson.

The Alameda DeMolay squad is also to be in the running for this prize, as will be the Oakland Y. M. C. A squad of nine men led by Bill Hamlyn, the St. Vincent's high school of Vallejo, Piedmont high school and various other organizations having five or more men entered.

Team competition has not provided much of a thrill in previous years but in the coming Merritt Marathon, with fifteen organizations having squads of five or more men entered, the race for the special trophy will be almost as important as the individual competition among the leaders.

The complete entry list, containing the official numbers assigned to all runners entered in the race, will be printed in these columns Sunday morning, along with the map showing the course over which the race will be run.

Dobie Still Keeps Pace With Times

SEATTLE, Sept. 5.—Gil Dobie, former Husky football coach, still follows Pacific Coast football progress and uses fundamentals in his gridiron classes, according to Wayne Sutton, assistant University of Washington football coach, who has returned from the middle west where he attended the University of Illinois coaching school. Sutton says former coach Dobie is recognized as one of the "greatest gridiron coaches of all time."

Russell Loaned To Seattle Club

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Sept. 5.—Lefty Russell of the pitching staff of the Wichita Falls baseball team has been loaned to the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League for the remainder of the season and left today to join that team.

"Red" Williams, with the Tyler club in the East Texas League, has joined the Wichita Falls club for the remainder of the season and will be used in the outfield.

Move on Foot To Retain Salt Lake Franchise

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Jack Dempsey, world champion heavyweight boxer, has joined with Utah capitalists to purchase the stock of the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast baseball league and keep the franchise in Salt Lake City instead of transferring it to Long Beach, according to word received here today from the Mormon capital.

All the necessary money has been raised and the purchase is planned before November 1, it was said.

While the Salt Lake capitalists claim to have an option for the purchase of the club which does not expire until the end of the year, this was denied here today by William Lane, president of the Salt Lake club.

"You can put it down in the books that the Bees will be located in Long Beach in 1926," said Lane.

Missionites Open Season Next Tuesday

Santa Clara-Agnetian Club Game At Ewing Field To Be Curtain Raiser.

By R. E. MORGAN.

SANTA CLARA, Sept. 5.—Coast football will be officially started next Tuesday afternoon at Ewing Field in San Francisco when the Santa Clara Bronchos play the Agnetian Club eleven.

Santa Clara with a veteran organization from last season, and with several likely youngsters should serve as good opposition to the Agnetians.

Bud Cummings, who held down the quarter position on the championship Bakersfield High School eleven last year has been showing up well in practice for the Broncho eleven, and while he is not expected to displace BudMcKee of last year's Mission team, he will count as added strength for the Kienholz clan.

There will be no lack of ends on the Broncho eleven this year as George Malley and Conrad Storm last year's winemen are both back in uniform and several new men are making an active bid for places on the first string eleven at this position.

Among them are Stockton of Poly High, San Francisco and Vincent Campisi of Jefferson High, Los Angeles.

Hal Bundy last year's half back and star booter of the 1923 eleven, returned to Santa Clara Monday after spending three months in a logging camp in Tuolumne county.

Bundy added several points of weight to his slight frame and should make a name for himself on the Broncho eleven this fall.

Among the veterans out for positions on the Missionite eleven, "Turk" Bedolla, who was out of the game last year due to a broken leg, has been welcomed once more—Turk, a 10 second man, is the speediest of the Broncho backfield men and his loss was severely felt during the 1923 season.

His broken leg has mended entirely and Kienholz reports that he is as fast as he ever was. This is Bedolla's last year with the Bronchs and should be his best.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL.

After two months devoted to eclectic scores, the Berkeley women resumed their regulation weekly tournament play yesterday when an 18-hole flag event was staged.

Mrs. Claud R. Kruse finished ahead of the field of class A players when she succeeded in reaching the 18th fairway just a mashie pitch from the green with her allotted strokes.

The revised handicaps were in operation yesterday and Mrs. Kruse, with 14 strokes, plus $5, the women's par, proved that the new handicap figures were nearly accurate.

In the higher handicapped class B flight Mrs. A. K. Harford succeeded in reaching the home green with her allotted strokes, and would probably have succeeded in holing out in two more.

Mrs. J. R. McKee, who is acting substitute for the captain during her enforced absence on account of illness, hopes to have a large attendance during the ensuing week end tournaments.

Saturday, Sept. 13, one week from tomorrow, qualifying play for the directors' trophy, will take place over the Berkeley course.

Match play in flights of 16 will be arranged from the qualifying scores and played off during the succeeding week ends until the finals are reached on Sunday, September 28.

The final contest for the Walton N. Moore trophy which was postponed from last Sunday, will take place tomorrow at Claremont.

Edwin B. DeGolia and J. C. Tyler are the finalists and will compete at match play, handicap over 18 holes for the replicacup which goes to the winner, and the honor of having his name inscribed on the perpetual trouphy.

Firpo Shows Improvement In Condition

Argentine Battler Knows How to Use Left Hand; Acquires Polish.

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Marked improvement, both in his physical condition and in his technical equipment, is evident in Luis Firpo, as he finished his training for next week's fight against Harry Wills.

Firpo has nothing like the grace of a toe dancer but he has lost much of that awkwardness that caused the wise boys to laugh when he was working last summer for the Dempsey fight.

The most striking improvement Firpo has accomplished is in the use of his left hand. He seems to have learned how to hook it and get it over with a short, uppercut-like swing to the body. His right hand is also more polished than it was a year ago.

The schooling that Bill Tate, his negro sparring partner, has been giving him in the Jack Johnson style of smothering defense has also improved the big South American. He stands erect now with his head back and he extends his huge paws in a fanlike form to block blows. He was always a mark for a rabbit punch and he probably knows that Wills is good at that style of fighting.

Despite the improvement in his work, however, Firpo is still a poor gymnasium worker, but that means little.

Too much stock cannot be taken in the improved Firpo, however. It is quite possible, unless he has restrained his temper, that he will forget all about the new things he has learned when Wills hurts him and will go back to his old club swinging and boulder throwing style.

Pat O'Rourke Out of Action For Six Weeks

PAT O'ROURKE, veteran end of St. Mary's College, will not report for practice when the men don suits for the first time next Monday afternoon.

O'Rourke will be out of action for a least six weeks according to Coach "Slip" Madigan, having pulled a ligament in his shoulder in the annual inter-class rush which at the time was not thought to be serious but which, upon examination, was found to be severe enough to prevent the big end from joining the squad until mid season.

The loss of O'Rourke will force Madigan to concentrate on developing a running mate for Collins at end for the California game.

Injured Thumb Keeps Leonard From Fighting

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Billy Gibson, manager of eBnny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, announced last night it was improbable that Leonard would be able to meet Micky Walker for the world's welter-weight title the night of September 22 at the Yankee stadium, because his injured thumb had not responded to treatment.

The statement followed an examination of the thumb, injured at Cleveland in a bout with Pal Moran on August 11, made today by Dr. Sol. Rathenburg, who advised Leonard not to meet Walker this month.

Dave Shure designated by the State Boxing Commission as official challenger for Walker's crown, will arrive here Saturday and be ready to meet Walker if Leonard withdraws, Leo Flynn, manager of Shade announced tonight.

FIRST INTER-CLASS CONTEST WILL OPEN SEASON AT BERKELEY

Juniors and Seniors Meet Tomorrow Afternoon; Sophomores Meet Freshmen Next Saturday; Keen Competition Expected in Series.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

The first of the annual series of Inter-class football games to decide the championship of the University of California campus, is to take place on California Field tomorrow afternoon when the Seniors will clash with the Juniors.

Inter-class football is not the most exciting dish but serves as an excellent preliminary to the season, permitting gridiron followers to become accustomed to the sight of end runs, fumbles, forward passing and all that goes to make football the greatest of college sports.

It likewise serves to illustrate the changes in the rules, and tomorrow will afford an opportunity for football fans to see the change made in the 1924 playing code by which the kickoff tee was abolished and the place of the kickoff moved to midfield, the most radical change in the rules.

If practice means anything, the two teams should put up a game well worth watching tomorrow afternoon. Both the Seniors and Juniors have been working at top speed daily for the past week putting on the finishing touches in preparation for tomorrow's opening inter-class game and the players of both teams, while not ready to go at the clip found in midseason, are well conditioned.

The Juniors are believed to have a shade going into the game, for with two full teams available, the third year men have put through a series of lively scrimmages for the past three days and the line-up which will start tomorrow includes players of ability deserving a place on better than a class team.

Coach Andy Smith, ever on the watch for available 'varsity material, has had his eyes on the Junior squad for the last two nights and if several of the class team footballers show the same ability in a game that they have shown in practice, one or two new faces may be added to the list of the 'varsity squad when the first practice is called September 15.

Charlie Willi, who is expected to call signals for the Juniors, has shown rare ability for a class team quarterback, while Al Bensinger at fullback, Gregory at end and Cooper at guard are others who have more than average ability.

Little is known of the personnel of the Senior eleven, for the coaches are reluctant to name any first team until game time, expecting to use the entire squad during the course of the game.

The Sophomore team, which is the strongest second year eleven developed for an Inter-class series in several years, will be idle tomorrow, meeting the Freshmen in the second game of the series, September 13, and will be on the sidelines looking over the tactics of the upperclass elevens and making mental notes of the strategy used in case they should unexpectedly dispose of the powerful freshman team next Saturday.

Gilded Glass to Take Heat From Light Invented

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 5.—Gilded glass—yellow glass upon which is a coating of gold—which, it is claimed, eliminates heat and glare from light and yet permits sufficient illumination for light, has been invented by Dr. F. H. Pfund, associate professor of physics at Johns Hopkins university. Used in goggles for men who work in the glare of furnaces, the device, termed by the inventor "gold screen" will eliminate danger of blindness physicists say, and used in the moving picture industry, it is regarded as a protection against fire.

DIRECT SALES TO HOMES EXPLAINED

The selling of certain products direct to the consumer was discussed by Al Fuller, member of a firm of national importance, at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Hotel Oakland. In discussing the direct selling idea Fuller stated that his company started in a small way in 1910 and by getting in direct touch with the consumer had developed into a big national business with 200 branch offices.

"As a permanent proposition," the speaker said, "the direct sales idea is applicable only to goods that cannot be brought to the public in any other way. This method of selling is not competitive with the kind of merchandise that can be brought to the public through the existing channels. There must be a special reason for the direct selling idea to make it permanent.

"Three things are essential in the growth of such an organization and I believe these rules apply to any business. In the first place, the men must receive a living wage and there must be an opening above their present position to enable them to look forward to making more money. In the second place to the extent that they are able to increase their ability to assume greater responsibility [illegible] provided for the assumption of that responsibility. They must in other words be given a chance to express their personal growth if they are to be kept interested in the business. In the third place the men must be offered the opportunity to become owners in the business with which they are connected."

GRAND AVE. ZONE ISSUE POSTPONED

Council Delays Decision 30 Days to Give Residents Chance to Agree, After Hot Discussion at Session

More than 150 residents of Grand avenue appeared in the city council this morning, some pleading that a single family residence zone be established on Grand avenue from Elwood to the Piedmont line, and others demanding that business be allowed to go along the avenue. At times three or four residents were speaking at once. The matter was finally laid over for thirty days.

"Get together lest we have a regular Donnybrook here" suggested Acting Mayor Frank Colhoun.

It was agreed that no permits for stores will be granted in that district for the 30 days. The residents asserted that they probably cannot get together.

"You cannot legally sustain a zone now" argued one side. "There are too many business houses there already."

"The district must not be spoiled" argued the other faction.

It was admitted that the avenue is about equally divided on the subject.

The council passed to print an ordinance authorizing the board of park directors to grant the use of Peralta park to the Sons of Peralta for their pageant.

The sum of $499 was appropriated for rearranging official records, and the sale of old and worn out machines in the city hall was authorized.

A monthly report from City Auditor Harry Williams showed that there were $1,365,888 in cash or assets in the city treasury August 31.

THIEF DRUGS AND ATTACKS S. F. WOMAN

Burglar Chloroforms Victim Whose Room in Apartment House He Enters at Midnight; Robber Escapes

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Surprised by a burglar in her apartment at 746 Geary street, at an early hour today, Miss Ruth Seed, office secretary employed at a downtown theater, was drugged into unconsciousness with chloroform assaulted, beaten and robbed by the miscreant.

Miss Seed, who is 27 years old, retired late last night and was aroused at 2.30 a. m. by a man standing over her. Realizing that a burglar had entered while she slumbered, she quickly slipped a $500 diamond ring from her finger, dropped it under the bed, loosened her wrist watch, and concealed it beneath her pillow. Then she noticed a peculiar odor and lapsed into unconsciousness.

When she awoke a short time later, she discovered that she was gagged, and had a pillow slip over her head. Her assailant's hands were on her wrist and she endeavored to scream. As she continued to revive from the stupor she managed to struggle out of the grasp of the man, released her head from the confinement of the pillow case and freed herself from the gag. As she did so she found herself confronted by the burglar, who pointed a flashlight at her face and warned her that he would kill her if she made an outcry. He then left by the door into the hallway.

Miss Seed jumped up and followed him down the stairs, but too late to intercept him or even to get a description of his clothing. She collapsed in the lower hall and the manager had her conveyed to the central emergency hospital where she was treated for bruises of the face and arms.

A police investigation showed that the young woman's assailant had placed a ladder to a window at the side of the building, thus gaining access to her dressing [illegible] purse and dropped the chloroform container in his flight.

Miss Seed was later taken to the home of friends.

RIO GRANDE TO BE AUCTIONED OFF WITHIN 60 DAYS

Price Will Probably Be About $40,000,000; Value Claimed 130 Millions.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 5.—An auction price of $42,500,000 for the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad will be insisted upon by Harold Palmer of New York, one of the intervenors in the sales and reorganization of the system. Palmer appeared in person last night before a general conference attended by Federal Judge J. Foster Symes and attorneys and bondholders in the case, to urge the higher upset price.

Other attorneys urged a lower figure, [illegible] insure a buyer and the culmination of the reorganization plan as approved tentatively by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Petitions were filed by Harold Palmer and A. L. Finklestein of New York, and Horace W. Bennett of Denver, to intervene in the foreclosure brought by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, trustee, in behalf of approximately 87 per cent of the holders of an issue of $38,000,000 first mortgage and refunding bonds. In denying the petitions Judge Symes declared the figure of $42,500,000 was too high and indicated definitely that a lower figure would be set.

Palmer declared, however, that his figure was based on estimates that the road was worth at least $130,000,000.

As a result of the conference last night, which followed Judge Symes' refusal to recognize the petitions to intervene, it was announced that the railroad would be placed on the auction block within the next 60 days. Final reorganization will be completed before January 1, 1925, it was said, and control of the system will pass to the Western Pacific and Missouri Pacific railways.

Yesterday's action released the corporation from a tangle of litigation and financial backing which has prevailed for two years, and which was accentuated after default of interest payments on the $38,000,000 bond issue.

Under proposed reorganization plans, between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 of new capital will be put into the road.

Demerest Mine To Be Reopened

SAN ANDREAS, Sept. 5. — After lying idle for 25 years the old Demerest mine near Fourth Crossing, in this section, is to be reopened by a New York company locally represented by A. J. Fazzi, superintendent and manager of the Jolly Tar mine at Angels Camp. He has just obtained a lease on the property and is perfecting plans for extensive operations. The old shaft, down 600 feet, will be driven 200 feet deeper and levels opened with each 100 feet of new shaft. Improvements on the property consist of a five-stamp mill, compressor and hoist, all in good condition. Fazzi's father worked in the Demerest in its heydey and as a youth the present operator became intimately acquainted with all its underground workings. The mine was once a great producer. It is his belief that the rich ore shoot worked in former years will be picked up with depth. When the Demerest closed down, it was still in ore which would pay under present day methods, he declares.

East Bay Water Stocks Soaring; Prices Break Badly in New York; Rio Grande Liens Grow Popular; Utility Earnings Are Going Up

By H. S. SCOTT.

The stocks of the East Bay Water Company had the spotlight again today in the San Francisco stock markets. The "B" preferred sold up to $88.50 per share and the market seemed ready to take all offered. Four years ago this stock sold as low as $15 per share. At that time the bay region investors were chary of a good many securities that have since made their purchasers some real money. The utilities were not in particular favor at that time. The light and power stuff was in the dumps, with the street car and tractions generally and water stocks enjoyed only a moderate popularity.

Still another feature of the situation today was the leap of $75 a share in the price of East Bay common. On Wednesday there were sales of this stock at $425. Today orders to buy at $500 could not be filled and $550 and $600 was asked for the few shares floating.

The Hawaiian sugars were strong. Honokaa seemed to enjoy the favor begun yesterday. It was bid up to 4½, which is a rise of two points for the week. A statement from a brokerage firm that a deficit of $76,000 had been converted into a surplus of $17,000 since January 1. Returns from the 8000 tons of crop were reported at $993,626, which, after all deductions allowed to January 1, would leave a net profit of $248,000 or $2.48 per share on the 100,000 shares capitalization. The same firm claimed that the book value of Honokaa was $18 a share under this showing.

The downward trend in prices continued today in New York. Encouraged by their success in breaking American Woolen, Famous Players, Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric and other of the high-priced stocks, the bears extended their operations over the whole list, and with intermittent rallies the trend of prices continued downward. Rallies in oil and steel stocks in the forenoon steadied the market temporarily, but in the fourth hour selling again broke out and most of these stocks lost all of their gains.

The railroad stocks also gave a good demonstration of their strength in the early trading, when Nickel Plate sold up to a new high at 120¾; Lackawanna at 143½ made a new high since 1922, and Norfolk & Western was actively bought on the strength of its negotiations with Pennsylvania for important leasing rights. Southwestern rails were also in demand. Concentration of selling pressure on St. Paul preferred and common made these stocks the weakest of the railroad group and prices fell as the general reaction continued.

Oil stocks responded to the reports that large buyers of crude oil were offering a premium of 25 cents a barrel for Pacific. Pennsylvania crude and that gas oil and fuel oil prices are firmer. Should the record of crude oil production be main[illegible] the producing fields will begin to show the regular seasonal decline, while consumption will remain large for two or three months at least. Oil stocks have been scraping bottom for nearly three months and are therefore in position to reflect any decided improvement in the industry.

Transactions in American Woolen were unusually heavy as liquidation by stockholders continued. Opening 2½ points lower at 56, the stock sold down to 54½ for an additional loss of four points, a total of 24 points since Thursday noon. Mercantile company stocks, which enjoyed a vigorous rally last month, were singled out for attack today. Kresge Department Stores lost five points at 47½; Woolworth three at 107 and May Department Stores two at 94. Coppers were next to receive attention, Anaconda selling down to 37⅝, Kennecott at 47 and Cerro de Pasco at 45½.

Chandler Motors was a weak spot in the motor stock list, selling down to 36½ for a loss of 3½ points and recording a new low price for all time. Studebaker started an advance near the opening of the market, rose quickly to 40, but it fell as quickly to 38½ as selling orders flooded the market and its fall was the signal for heavy selling in other motor shares.

Call money ruled at 2½ per cent. Foreign exchange was steady.

Brisk activity in Denver & Rio Grande Western obligations, which responded to the court decision upholding the reorganization plans featured today's early bond dealings. Gains ranging from 1 to 2½ points were recorded by the road's issues. Other railroad liens also displayed a firm tone, but trading was dull in the foreign and United States government issues, industrial and public utility groups. Substantial advances were scored by Union Pacific 5s "Katy" 4s B, Northern Pacific 4s, Canadian Northern 7s and International Great Northern adjustment 6s. The $26,000,000 Canadian National Railway bond issue offered today was s[illegible] before noon.

Public utilities operating in California showed a substantial gain in gross and net operating revenues during the calendar year of 1923, according to their annual reports recently compiled by the financial division of the Railroad Commission.

The operating revenues of steam railroads, electric railways, electric light and power, gas, water, telephone, telegraph companies, carriers by water, wharfingers, warehousemen and auto stages, filing annual reports with the commission, amounted to $890,351,740, as compared with $818,244,553 for the year ending December 31, 1922, an increase of $72,107,187. These figures, however, include the entire operating revenues of steam railroads, operating in California and doing an interstate business, the revenues of these companies within the state of California being segregated in the reports filed with the commission, and show gross revenues from business within California amounting to $188,650,210, and expenses of $135,595,090, and net operating revenues of $51,056,119 as compared with net revenues of $46,722,508 for 1922, $42,199,000 for 1921 and $29,948,000 for 1920.

"From now on the moving pictures will be a less spectacular business but a safer one," is the comment of the National Bank of Commerce in New York in discussing the stabilization of the motion picture industry in the September issue of Commerce Monthly.

"The motion picture industry is slowly getting out of the class of a game and more in the class of a business," the bank points out. "The evolution is not yet complete, but to its progress the events of 1922 and 1923 have contributed notably. A settle-down process has been taking place during the past two years, resulting in the establishment of three fundamental principles: first, that production costs cannot be enlarged indefinitely without straining the financial basis of production to the breaking point; second, that sound financing methods are indispensable for the progress of the industry; and third, that public approval and good will are its most valuable assets.

"Until 1923 the motion picture industry was the spoiled child among American industries, spending as lavishly as it pleased on more and more costly productions, knowing that the generous public would foot the bills. This condition was not permanent. Judging by the volume of collections under the federal tax on admissions to all classes of entertainments, the twelve months ending June 30, 1921, established the record for expenditure on admissions to entertainments. Undoubtedly, admissions to motion picture theaters formed the larger share of this total, there are so many more picture houses than legitimate theaters in the United States, but it is impossible to segregate returns from any one source.

"The opinion, from high authority, that the further growth of the industry promises to be greater than that already attained, can be accepted only with reservations so far as the American market is concerned. It is undoubtedly true as regards the application of motion pictures to industry, advertising, propaganda. Activity in picture production at present is devoted in overwhelming proportion to amusement. In this field the growth of the industry is much nearer the maximum.

"Only gradually is the motion picture business gaining recognition as a proper field for the placing of bank funds. Until the past year or two few companies could secure loans. A western bank in close touch with the industry stated in 1921 that only a few out of nearly a hundred producing concerns in this district were safe risks for bank loans. At present this condition is changing. Bank officers have been invited to join the directorates of larger film companies and the modifying of speculative features in the industry is resulting in a less distrustful attitude on the part of the banks."

An abundant credit supply and easing money rates have influenced security prices for so many months that it is only natural that there should be slow response to the further slight easing of the shortest period money rates which took place recently, states the Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. The very low rates in the New York market for call and 30-day money really mean little as to future trend, since it is the peak of the autumn requirements, when it appears, which will show whether or not the supply of credit is much in excess of the demand.

The excellent market conditions during the last several weeks, the Survey continues, have encouraged the flotation of a heavy volume of new loans, including some large and important issues. In spite of the large volume of new loans, most of them high grade investment issues, they have been almost uniformly well received and over-subscriptions have been general.

A number of new foreign loans were brought out during the last two months, and the response of investors to the attractive yields offered by this type of bonds indicates that they can be readily floated during periods of low money rates. Although certain of the foreign dollar bonds already on the market can hardly be classed as conservative investments, there are many which deserve to be in any well balanced list of diversified investment holdings.

The requirements of almost every investor who desires to hold foreign bonds can be met from recent offerings, which include short and long term, low and high yields, corporate and government securities.

With the improved outlook for a definite settlement of the reparation problem, foreign bonds have advanced more rapidly in recent weeks than have domestic bonds. More new foreign issues are under discussion, particularly a German loan, but this must await the provision of adequate security before it can be offered here.

TICKER AND TAPE

Montgomery Ward & Co. reports August sales of $10,332,893, against $8,425,438 last year, an increase of 22.6 per cent, eight months, $94,711,733, against $80,354,361, an increase of 17.8 per cent.

Motor vehicle production in the United States in August aggregated 268,477 cars and trucks, an increase of 5601 over July but 76,326 less than in August, 1923.

French Farmers Breeding Cattle

French farmers are devoting a great deal more land to the breeding of cattle, sheep and horses at the present time than they did before the war, according to figures recently issued by the French Ministry of Agriculture and received by the Bankers' Trust company of New York from its French information service. These figures show that, while in 1913 temporary and permanent grazing and pasture land did not exceed 10,450,000 hectares (one hectare equals 2471 acres) this figure had risen in 1923 to 11,325,000 hectares.

While this fact shows that the French farmer is contributing actively toward the reconstruction of France's livestock, which had been largely depleted by the Germans during the war, the French Ministry of Agriculture points out that it is taking away land formerly used for the growing of cereals.

The official statistics show that while in 1913 6,542,230 hectares were sown in wheat and produced a crop of 86,919,059 metric quintals, the area sown in wheat last year did not exceed 5,533,080 hectares and the crop only yielded 74,998,100 metric quintals. Of course, much land in the devastated regions of Northern France was rendered completely unfit for cultivation as a result of the war and it is only being restored to its original use by degrees, so that the acreage given over to the cultivation of cereals is expected to continue improving during the next few years.

Better Demand For Anthracite Coal

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Better firing methods are having an effect on the demand for anthracite coal here. Number one buckwheat is less in demand and there has been an increased call for rice. Company prices for buckwheat and rice are $3 and $2.25 respectively at the mine. Production of anthracite has been running well below that of 1923 but still is in excess of demand. Domestic consumers are holding off from buying winter supplies at present high prices. In the bituminous market pool ten coal which comes into competition with the buckwheat and rice anthracite is quoted at $1.65 to $1.90 a ton at the mine.

Steel Orders Are Showing Increase

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5.—Steel orders in this territory continue to show an upward trend, but this is still a buyers' market with the possible exception of sheets and tinplate. Structural shapes are fairly firm. Steel bars are still quoted at $2.05 to $2.15 but plates are weak with some reports indicating a price as low as $1.90. Some good sheet buying has come into the market and mills are refusing to sell at present prices for delivery beyond September 30. The Pittsburgh coal trade now faces a better prospect than for some time.

MILLIONS IN U. S. LOANS SOUGHT BY GERMAN CONCERN

Dye, Potash and Sugar Industries Lead in Efforts to Secure Assistance.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Loans and credits for upwards of $100,000,000 are being sought by German industries from American banks and active negotiations which will result in the extension of a large number of these credits are now in progress, it was learned today.

One of the latest inquiries has been received from the Badische Anilin & Sodafabrik Company, a German chemical and dye concern, which is seeking $6,000,000 in New York. Hundreds of letters asking for commercial loans ranging from small amounts to millions of dollars have been received in the last fortnight by banking firms which have taken an active part in German financing, including the Equitable Trust Company, Hallgarten & Co. and Zimmerman & Forshay.

German potash and sugar industries recently were granted credits aggregating about $10,000,000 in addition to the $25,000,000 made available to German trade through the gold discount bank organized by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

MELON SEASON IS PAST ITS PEAK; 'CANTS' ARE OUT

Bellefleur Apples Arriving in Large Quantities; Juice Grapes Moving.

The melon season has passed its peak. Shipments of cantaloupes by carload from Turlock has ceased according to advices to Stamoules & Co. Water melons are still plentiful but are quite near the end. Honeydews are practically over the Casabas are becoming scarcer.

The Persian melon now has the call. The arrivals in the Eastbay markets the past few days have been heavy because of the warmer weather. The Persian melon is at its prime now. The crop in the valley is large but because of vine pests and drought the season promises to be short.

The Hunt Hatch people announced today that they would have the initial car of the season of Belleflower apples from the Santa Cruz mountain districts on their sidings tomorrow morning. Arrivals of Belleflowers from the Sebastopol region have been quite heavy the past two days and now that the Watsonville and Santa Cruz mountain districts are beginning to ship the supply henceforth will be plentiful.

New Winter Banana apples from Watsonville were reported today by Harris & Co.

Peaches are getting higher as the end of the season approaches. There were sales of fancy Freestone stuff today as high as $3 per large lug, though the average was below $2.50. Clings were quoted at from $1.75 to $2.25.

The general movement of juice grapes from California has started, says the American Fruit Growers, Inc., and it is expected that the peak of the Zinfandel shipments will be reached during the week.

While the total acreage of bearing vineyards throughout the State of California is larger this year than last, a very large percentage of the vineyards in non-irrigated districts will have an extremely light crop. Also, in a great many irrigated districts the crop will be very light on account of the extreme water shortage. It is therefore expected that the total shipments will be lighter than last year and that the movement of juice varieties will reach a quicker peak. In all probability, the latter part of the season will see extremely light supplies.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Wheat prices broke sharply during the early trading today after displaying an upward tendency at the start. An advance in Liverpool quotations and reports of continued drought in the Argentine were chiefly responsible for the initial upturn here. Trade was very light and when commission houses which were on the buying side yesterday jumped over and led in free selling the market reacted with fluctuations very rapid. Initial quotations, which were unchanged to ¼c higher, with September $1.24¼ to $1.24⅝ and December $1.29 to $1.29¼, were quickly followed by a decline all around.

Corn found support lacking at the start and early firmness was soon wiped away. Buying on resting orders checked the decline. Starting unchanged to ⅝c higher, December $1.13⅞ to $1.14, the market later fell to below yesterday's finish.

Oats showed independent strength, with a good class of buying. Opening at ⅛ to ⅝c gain, December 52⅜ to 52⅞c, the market held near to the initial range.

Provisions were dull and weak.

COMMODITY NEWS

COTTON.

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 5. — Texas ports so far this season have received 140,000 bales of cotton for export. This compares with 230,000 on the corresponding date of 1923. The lateness of the crop caused the decline.

STEEL.

LORAINE, Ohio, Sept. 5. — Although there are 100 lake freighters now idle, the Pioneer Steamship Company has placed an order for a 600-footer with the American Shipbuilding Company for April delivery. The vessel, which will require 5000 tons of steel, will be built here.

TEXTILES.

WOONSOCKET, Sept. 5.—Organizers of the United Textile Workers of America are here endeavoring to unionize the workers at the three Manville Jenckes plants. This action followed a 10 per cent wage cut at the Globe mills.

WOOL.

DALLAS, Sept. 5.—The 1924 fall crop of six months wool in Texas will be about 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 pounds, or approximately the same as last year. Mohair production will be heavier. Prices are steady for wool but show an easier trend for mohair.

COTTON.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5.—Temperatures around the hundred mark have alarmed farmers who fear damage to cotton if rains do not come.

COAL.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5. — The St. Paul Gas Light Company will start the experimental use of a lignite coal pulverizing process in its new plant here within ten days. The Great Northern railway is making similar experiments, and success of the trials, it is thought, will insure a large market for Dakota lignite among northwestern industries.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5.—Pittsburgh district coal trade has been gradually improving in point of tonnage and is being due, dealers believe, to increased operations among district steel mills. Production is low relatively to capacity, but is decidedly better than the June and July average. Prices are unchanged.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Cheese markets continue quiet in anticipation of fall buying from the south. Sales, however, are at steady prices. Production in Wisconsin continues large but with a slightly poorer quality.

OIL.

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 5.—Oil activities in Louisiana and Arkansas which last week reached the lowest point in five years showed slight improvement this year. 13 wells being completed and the average daily production rising 1780 barrels to 151,640.

WOOL.

DELRIO, Tex., Sept. 5.—Beggar lice are reported to be infesting Texas sheep this year to a larger extent than for the last two decades. This will probably delay shearing this fall. Shearing of goats has already begun. Goats are reported in good condition.

GLASS.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5.—Plate and window glass continue to move in fair volume, keeping factories employed on regular schedules but general trade conditions have not improved greatly.

LUMBER.

SEATTLE, Wn., Sept. 5.—The advance of $2 and $4 a thousand feet on dimension and the upper grades of lumber by Pacific Coast mills indicates the strength of the lumber market here. Mills and brokers report increasingly large inquiries from the Middle and Northwestern line yards.

STOCK EXCHANGE DETAILS OF NEW RAIL DEAL TOLD

155 Million in New 6 Per Cent Paper Will Control "Nickel Plate."

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5.—(International News Service.)—Official outline of the proposed merger of the Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie and Hocking Valley railroads into the greater "Nickel Plate" system, and terms upon which the outstanding stock of these companies will be exchanged for the new stock to be issued, were mailed today from the offices here of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen.

The terms follow closely the semi-official announcement, made by bankers in New York some time ago, and provide for exchanges of stock in the company to be absorbed upon the following basis:

| | New Pfd. | Com. |
|---|---|---|
| Chesapeake & Ohio— | | |
| For 100 shares 1st pfd.. | 115 | .. |
| For 100 shares 2d pfd... | 115 | .. |

| For 100 shares com. .... | 55 | 55 |
| Hocking Valley— | | |

| Pere Marquette— | | |
| For 100 shares prior pfd. | 100 | .. |
| For 100 shares pfd. .... | 9 | .. |
| For 100 shares com. .... | .. | 85 |

The "Nickel Plate" railroad, it is revealed for the first time, is the owner of 155,000 shares of Chesapeake & Ohio and 120,000 shares of Pere Marquette.

Under the official terms, preferred stock in the new corporation will have a par value of $155,032,258. It will be cumulative and pay 6 per cent per annum.

The stock issue will total $189,-773,061, and it is expected that dividends on this would begin at 6 per cent.

Included within the merger are more than 9000 miles of main line tracks, and the new "Nickel Plate" will provide transportation lines reaching from New York and Norfolk, Va., on the Atlantic coast, extending westward as far as St. Louis and Bayview, Mich.

The road will traverse ten states, with a branch reaching out to Ontario, Canada.

Provided the Interstate Commerce Commission approves the merger, the new company will take over and begin operation of the entire system on January 11, next.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — Cotton goods buying is scattered and small, with prices holding fairly steady in gray goods. Jobbers report a fair volume of business coming largely in small orders from retailers over the country. Shipping departments are kept very busy on many small parcels. Jute and burlap markets are stronger. Figures of silk imports for the past two months when a great increase over the movement of recent years due, it was stated, to the relatively low price touched some weeks ago. Trade in spring woolens was light while the filling-in business for fall continued rather above the average on cloakings, suede finished materials and flannels.

German Bonds

keep up their spectacular rise of 100% every week since several weeks. No Gold Mine or Oil stock shares can show any similar advances. Some of my customers, who followed faithfully my advice for the last 4 years, are reaping profits of a with less than $5,000 invested in all.

FORTUNES are made by buying cheap the bonds of Germany, Austria, France, Italy, Poland, Rumania, Russia, Greece, etc. The biggest buying orders come from Paris and London for German bonds. For my children I have tied and sealed up bundles of cheap European Government and Municipal Bonds. This will beat any life insurance or other insurance. Why not do the same? PRESENT CHANCES WILL NEVER RETURN.

I Offer for Sale 8% GERMAN CITY BONDS, of Frankfort, Muenich, Coelln (subject to immediate change), maturing after 1932, when all bonds are placed on a 15% Gold Value Basis, at $45 per 100,000 Mark Bonds; German Government Bonds at $65 (pre-war value $24,000.00). A 30% Gold Value Basis is contemplated by the German Government on all Bonds, then there will be another big jump in prices.

Many elder issues of German Bonds were drawn or called. Such may be cashed or exchanged. If you have any bring them in and have them examined.

DAWES PLAN TO BOOST GERMANY AS WORLD TRADER

Many Difficult Economic Problems Remain Still to Be Solved.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The agreements reached at the London conference concerning the application of the Dawes plan to the reparation and related problems give promise of great advances in the economic rehabilitation of Europe, according to the Guaranty Trust Company.

An important feature of the settlement is the provision for an international loan of approximately $200,000,000 to Germany, probably one-half of which will be offered to American investors. But the contemplated participation in the loan does not represent the most vital interest of Americans in these new developments. The necessary readjustments of trade between the several countries directly involved in the transfer of reparation payments must offer our commerce with these and with other countries as well. Banking and credit conditions also in this country must sooner or later be influenced by the financial aspects of the economic recovery abroad which is anticipated.

WHAT OF FUTURES.

It is impossible to foresee precisely the nature and the extent of these effects. Intensified competition with certain branches of American industry and growing markets for the products of other branches may be expected. And increasing foreign demand for American capital investments will probably play an important part in the vast readjustments which the effective functioning of the new machinery will involve. In some quarters the apparent menace to domestic interests and in others the new or revived opportunity for service and for profitable employment of our resources is emphasized. Undoubtedly the ultimate net result of the reconditioning of European industry and trade, however, will be on the whole beneficial to our own.

Unsolved Problems.

The gratification everywhere expressed in consequence of the successful outcome of the London conference should not be permitted to obscure the problems which still remain to be solved. For the successful application of any plan of reparation payments there must be a large measure of freedom for international exchange of commodities. Important revisions of existing trade barriers may be called for. Many difficult fiscal and currency reforms must be effected before general economic stability is restored. What is really a beginning should not be mistaken for a conclusion. At best the work of restoring a normal economic order out of the existing disturbed conditions will be the work of years.

RESOLUTION NO. 135

DISCORD IN 3 HOMES IS LAID TO KIN

Mothers-in-law have caused discord in three domestic establishments, according to suits today on file in superior court.

Unable to live in the same house with her mother-in-law, she states, Mrs. Inez W. Wright is suing Wentworth S. Wright, real estate broker, for $125 a month separate maintenance. Mrs. Wright says her husband has insisted upon keeping his mother in their home at 854 Magnolia street for the past three years, although they quarrel nearly every morning and the mother gossips with the neighbors and circulates false reports about her.

William Wyrich, foreman of a Berkeley marble works, insisted upon his mother living in their home at 2935 King street, Berkeley, although he knew that she was continually stirring up trouble and abusing her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charity A. Wyrich asserts in her suit for divorce.

In a divorce suit, Mrs. Filomena G. Pimentel says that Frank J. Pimentel, railroad employee, declared he was going to obey his mother's wishes rather than hers, and otherwise allowed his mother to interfere in their domestic affairs.

Duel Over Shirts Is Off; Challengee Won't Fight

BERKELEY, Sept. 5.—A duel was almost fought in Berkeley yesterday. The guns were out—two of them—the challenger was ready and waiting, but all that was needed was a second party to the undertaking.

As it turned out Lee Joe, Beau Brummel of the Chinese colony, almost fought the duel single-handed. He might have, except for the interference of the police and P. C. Wong, official of the Chinese Mission at Addison and Grove streets.

Everything started over such unromantic things as two shirts. But Lee Joe would have everyone know they were unusual shirts of the finest and softest wool. He took them to Gee Wort, owner of a laundry at 2005 Addison. When he called for them he failed to recognize the shining lights of his wardrobe.

"Baby's shirts," he informed Gee Wort as he looked at them. "Too small for me."

The shirts, unfortunately, had shrunk in the washing, Lee Joe tried, but he couldn't get into them.

Followed much talking in Chinese and then the two sought to settle things in the typical American way. They went to the small claims court of Judge Robert Edgar. But even then matters were not as they should be when everything was said and done.

So yesterday Lee Joe, carrying his once beautiful woolen shirts under his arm, visited Gee Wort's laundry again.

He challenged Gee Wort to a duel. He informed him in voluble Chinese that he had two guns in his room and that he wanted the laundryman to use one of them. He even intimated, said Gee Wort, that if the challenge were not accepted, that he might use both of the weapons himself.

Now Gee Wort, being a law-abiding Chinese, went to the police station to tell his troubles to Patrolman Edward Maeshner, who was assigned to the case. Together the two went to the Chinese Mission to have Wong act as interpreter.

Wong grinned. "Lee Joe is a practical joker and I think he's having some fun," he said.

But Wong took no chances just the same and he visited Lee Joe.

In the words of Maeshner in concluding his report: "There was no duel in Berkeley's Chinatown last night."

Crippled Richmond Boy, 19, Is Author

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—Success as an author of short stories is rapidly making fame and fortune for E. L. Penry, 19-year-old former Richmond boy, now of Santa Rosa, who for the past seven years has been confined to a wheelchair since a childhood sickness crippled his legs in 1916, according to word received today by friends of the youth here. His latest story, "Retribution," has just been accepted by an eastern magazine, it is reported.

Penry is the son of H. L. Penry, a former Richmond councilman.

HEAVY VOTE POLLED IN RECALL ROW

Approximately 30 Per Cent of Registration at Booths Before Noon; Election to Decide Fate of 4 Trustees

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—Indications of a heavy vote were recorded this morning in the recall election against four members of the city council. Approximately 30 per cent of the city's total registration had voted up to noon today.

Today's election will decide whether three councilmen, W. W. Scott, E. J. Garrard and J. N. Hartnett and Councilwoman Marie Ogborn are to be removed from office, or returned to serve their unexpired terms. Those opposing the incumbent councilmen are: Dr. William F. Fraser, Curtis R. Beatty, Louis W. Schroeder, Jr., and Randolph H. Wood.

The recall election is the result of a row over the fire department, being directed against the councilmen who voted for the dismissal of twelve firemen and the adoption of the Stevens report. The results of today's voting are eagerly awaited by proponents of both sides, this being the first time the public has had an opportunity to express their views on the police and fire department shake-up which resulted in the dismissal of Chief of Police Wood and Fire Chief Roy Lemoin together with several members of the department, three months ago.

Committee Named For Defense Day

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—A committee of 25 representatives of patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations was named by Mayor J. H. Plate today to take charge of the observance of Defense Day, September 12. Major Ivan Hill, instructor of military tactics at the Richmond Union High school, was elected chairman.

Following a meeting of the newly appointed committee, it was announced that the recruiting feature would be the main activity of the day. Plans for a patriotic parade were dropped for the present.

Bear Flags to Fly On Admission Day

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—The California Bear Flag will float with the Stars and Stripes from more than a hundred staffs on Admission Day, under plans adopted by the Merchants' Association at the request of the Native Sons and Daughters. While no parade is planned, many other activities are being arranged by patriotic and fraternal organizations and will be held in their club rooms. The Native Sons have sent out an appeal to every one who has a bear flag, to hoist it on Admission Day.

WEDDINGS DECREASE.

RICHMOND, Sept. 5.—A falling off of the number of weddings and an increase in deaths is shown in the annual report of the First Baptist church, completed today. The past year was unusually successful in donations for the mission and building funds and general support of local activities the report stated.

BUILDER SUES VOLLMER FOR LARGE SUM

L. A. Contractor Charges He Was Arrested by Former Police Chief and Kept in Jail Without Cause

A suit for $10,500 damages was filed against August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley, in the Alameda county courts today by E. F. Moffitt of Los Angeles, a builder and contractor. Moffitt alleges in his complaint that he was arrested under orders of Chief Vollmer in Los Angeles on July 6, and confined in the city prison there until July 14 without any criminal proceeding being brought against him in any court, and without a warrant, process or writ being issued for his arrest.

Moffitt asked for $10,500 damages. The complaint was filed by Attorney R. W. Henderson, 852 Pacific building, San Francisco.

Chief Vollmer, when interviewed today concerning the case, declared that he had never heard of Moffitt and knew nothing whatever about the case.

"I have never heard of the man to my knowledge," he said. "I do not know who he is or what were the circumstances of his arrest, if he was arrested. I can't remember anything about a man of this name."
